Living Cost Rise Tops in 6 Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs in October took the sharpest jump in six months, the government reported today. The rise of six-tenths of one per cent appeared to dash White House hopes that the nation's worst inflation in 20 years was easing.

The Labor Deprtment reported at the same time that the average pay of some 45 million rank and file workers dropped 33 cents a week to $121.03 because of a drop in the work week, and inflation cut purchasing power 2.5 per cent below a year ago.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, the source of the living costs report, said the only break for consumers in October was a drop of three-tenths of one per cent in grocery prices.

The report followed by one day these other developments affecting the economy:

—The Federal Home Loan Bank disclosed plans to pump more than $1 billion into the slumping home mortgage market, to drive down interest rates next year.

—The Committee for Economic Development (CED), composed of industrial and financial leaders, called for a return to voluntary wage and price guidelines to help curb inflation.

The living costs report showed transportation costs shot up 1.9 per cent for October because of a big hike in prices of new and used cars and gasoline.

Clothing prices were also up sharply, nine-tenths of one per cent.

The big October price rise pushed the government's Consumer Price Index up to 137.4, meaning it took $13.74 last month for every $10 worth of typical family living costs in the 1957-59 period in which the index is based.

The rise pushed living costs up 5.9 per cent above a year ago, close to the 6 per cent annual rate of rise that has prevailed for most of the past two years.

Before the October jump, living costs in the previous three months had tapered off somewhat and the Nixon administration had began hinting at easing some of its stringent fiscal and monetary policies that have sharply slowed the economy in an attempt to curb inflation.

The bureau said that on a seasonally based adjustment the October rise was slightly lower, five-tenths of one per cent.

The unadjusted figure of sixtenths was the largest monthly jump of that size since last April and the fourth of that magnitude in the past 18 months.

Housing costs rose five-tenths of one per cent in October, recreation costs were also up fivetenths. Medical care rose twothirds for one of the smaller rises in that category in some time.

The Nixon administration welcomed the lower-interest move of the Federal Home Loan Bank.

As for the CED's proposed wage-price guideposts, the administration has considered and rejected such an idea as unworkable.

Nevertheless, guideposts should be developed by the existing National Commission on Productivity or a presidentially appointed board, said the business research organization, and excessive wage settlements or price boosts should be publicized in advance, where possible.

"It should be clearly understood that what we are advocating are voluntary wage-price policies," said the CED. "We are opposed to mandatory controls, except in the event of a major war."

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board's chairman, Preston Martin, said the first allotment of $85 million to break the high interest chain should be available soon.

The money will be funneled through the board's new quasipublic arm, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp., to buy up federally guaranteed mortgages, doubling the current amount, and thereby freeing more money to lending home buyers.

The effective interest rate to borrowers must go down, he said, because loans must be made to families with too much income for public housing assistance and too little to get ordinary loans.

A Treasury Department official said today, however, that the administration must move cautiously in 1971 to encourage economic expansion without risking further inflation.

"Now, the major emphasis on policy needs to be towards fostering a rapid enough economic expansion to absorb the growing labor force as well as to make some inroads on the present level of unemployment," said Asst. Secretary Murray L. Weidenbaum.

Laird Calls POW Camp Raid Necessary Show Of Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today North Vietnamese guards and air defense systems were caught "completely by surprise" in a raid on a suspected POW camp he said was necessary "to show our men the country really cares."

Laird, emerging from a meeting with senators at the Capitol, said the Pentagon knows of various other suspected POW camps in North Vietnam but most are in populated areas where a surprise landing and rescue mission would be most difficult to attempt.

No prisoners were found in the area that was raided.

In a brief conversation with newsmen Laird did not indicate how many men were in the suspected camp, where they might have been taken or whether the United States might attempt similar missions.

The defense secretary, flanked by an Air Force lieutenant general carrying map cases, said the would-be rescuers found conditions in the raided camp very crude and said, "They confirm our worst suspicions ..."

Laird first disclosed the raid on Monday. Also, a Pentagon source said the United States is keeping its options open on the possibility of more raids to free prisoners.

"We shall continue to make every effort to free our prisoners," Laird said during a news conference. "This mission, this daring mission ...," he went on, "does show our dedication to these men and we will do everything that we can in our power to accomplish their early release."

When asked later if this meant more raids, the Pentagon source declined to rule them out, saying officials weren't closing the door on the possibility.

Laird himself had hinted at possible similar tactics in the future during his opening remarks Monday when he told of preparing contingency plans for commando raids in the face of Hanoi's refusal to negotiate the POW issue. Laird's description of the Saturday raid—made even more dramatic by the presence of the commando leader—caught newsmen by total surprise as he related how specially trained Army and Air Force volunteers flew helicopters through enemy fire in post-midnight darkness to land right in the suspected prisoner of war compound.

"Regrettably the rescue team discovered the camp had recently been vacated," Laird said in solemn tones. "No prisoners were located." But, he went on, "If there had been prisoners in the compound at Son Tay, they would be free men today."

Laird said he ordered the raid with the knowledge and blessing of President Nixon after receiving new information "that some of our men were dying in prisoner of war camps."

The undercover mission was the first mounted to liberate a POW camp in North Vietnam, although, as Laird indicated, helicopters have often flown north of the demilitarized zone to rescue downed American pilots.

In spite of Laird's dour description of the danger facing U.S. prisoners held by Hanoi and his fear for their lives, the commando raid, plus the earlier disclosures of U.S. retaliatory bombing of antiaircraft sites, set off some of the angriest Senate debate since early summer.

War policy critics reacted with surprise and skepticism, and asked whether the administration has given up on negotiating the prisoners' release.

Defending the administration's action, Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said the negotiations have failed.

Immediately, it was asked whether the commando act would bring retaliation by North Vietnam.

The White House answered: "The United States would hold the leaders of North Vietnam personally responsible" for any reprisals taken against U.S. prisoners as a result of the unsuccessful rescue effort.

Describing the operation, Laird said the raiders hit the camp at 2 a.m., Hanoi time, about the same time some 250 U.S. war planes were striking missile, antiaircraft and supply targets in North Vietnam's Southern Panhandle below the 19th parallel.

Navy planes dropped lighting flares off the North Vietnamese coast above the parallel as a diversionary tactic to draw attention from the helicopter-borne commando force.

Although the "protective reaction" air strikes to the south may have helped confuse the North Vietnamese, Laird emphasized they were not intended as a cover for the rescue operation.

The raiders, according to accounts given by Laird and Pentagon sources, apparently went undetected by flying in under enemy radar, and drew fire only when they were over the camp. They were aided by an almost moonless night.

The first helicopter intentionally crash-landed inside the prison compound and the raiders, including some Army Green Berets, destroyed the guard tower. Other helicopters followed. Every building was searched and the locks broken on the detention cells, but no prisoners were found. Enemy resistance was light.

Leading the attack was Army Col. Arthur D. Simons, 52, an infantryman and former Green Beret commander who was introduced by Laird at the news conference along with Air Force Brig. Gen. LeRoy J. Manor, 49, charged with over-all command of the operation.

Both officers, Laird said, arrived in Washington earlier in the day from Saigon and were later taken to the White House and commended personally by the President.

"We caught them completely by surprise," said Simons, adding that his team suffered but one casualty—a man wounded by rifle fire from a Chinesemade AK47. Everyone got out safely, he said.

Asked if his group killed any of the North Vietnamese during the hour they were on the ground, he replied, "I imagine so," but added his men did not stop to count bodies.

Manor said no evidence was found of American graves, but noted it was dark and "we were not searching for that."

No information was given as to the size of the raiding party, the number of helicopters used or where they came from.

Laird said contingency plans for a prisoner rescue attempt were drawn up several months ago "in the face of the continued and adamant refusal of the other side either to abide by the provisions of the Geneva Convention or to participate in meaningful negotiations on the exchange of prisoners of war."

The camp at Son Tay was chosen, Laird explained, because "we were reasonably confident that we could land this force at this location."

Manor said the camp had been abandoned for "several weeks." It was left unclear why North Vietnamese troops were still there.

Asked about the failure of U.S. intelligence in not knowing the camp had been emptied, Laird replied that locating POW compounds is a tough assignment even with the constant use of reconnaissance planes. "The situation was such, however, that we were reasonably confident that this particular location had been used."

In making his startling disclosure, the defense secretary emphasized "this was the only operation that took place north of the 19th parallel this past weekend."

The story of the aborted rescue mission was apparently intended to dispel doubts cast during an earlier Monday news conference in which a Pentagon spokesman steadfastly refused to say whether any U.S. planes hit targets north of the 19th parallel.

Asked if revealing the prisoner rescue attempt compromised future missions of this type, a Pentagon official said that "was one of the things we had to weigh. There were some who wanted to talk about it and some who didn't."

North Vietnam claimed the air strikes—said by Laird to be in retaliation for the downing of an unarmed U.S. reconnaissance jet Nov. 13—hit targets in the Hanoi-Haiphong area, killed civilians and wounded a number of Americans in a POW camp well north of the 19th parallel.

The Pentagon spokesman, Jerry W. Friedham, said pilots were under orders not to attack populated areas or fly above the 19th parallel.

Air Force, Marine and Navy planes participated in the raids and all returned safely, Freidheim said.

Senate Trade Quota Foes Map Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm Belt senators concerned about the future of U.S. agricultural exports called a strategy session today with allies from manufacturing states in an attempt to block a House-passed trade bill.

At stake, they say, are 700,000 jobs and $6.6 billion worth of farm exports annually.

Adding to their concern was a Monday statement by White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler that talks between the United States and Japan had produced little encouragement for voluntary restraint of textile imports into this country.

Textile and shoe imports are two prime targets of the trade bill, passed 215 to 165 by the House Nov. 19. The measure also would freeze the present system of oil import quotas, set tariff-rate quotas on mink fur skins and some chemicals and set up a formula of tariffs or quotas on foreign products that are shown to injure American markets.

Senate opponents, led by Walter Mondale, D-Minn., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., have threatened a filibuster to prevent a similar trade package from being considered on the floor. Backers hope to tie the package to a Social Security bill in the Finance Committee.

Opponents say such quotas would bring trade-war retaliation from other countries, particularly Japan and the European Common Market, and drive up U.S. consumer prices by protecting American-made goods from foreign competitors.

The Common Market countries alone could cut off $200 million in annual soybean exports, said the farm group, and jeopardize overseas markets for U.S. wheat and feed grains.

In House debates, backers of the measure blamed foreign textiles and shoes for a 3 per cent drop in U.S. textile employment since 1966 and a loss of 21,000 jobs in shoe plants since the mid-1950s.

The Nixon administration, which tried to cut back the bill to textile quotas only and a tax incentive to boost U.S. exports, has said the President will make no decision on whether to veto it until he sees the final product.

Ky Confers for 90 Minutes With Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Cao Ky conferred for 90 minutes at the White House today as Ky began a round of official talks.

The visiting South Vietnamese leader had no comments after the breakfast session with Nixon.

Ky arrived in Washington Monday. He will meet with other administration officials and address the National Press Club today at a luncheon.

Ky was scheduled to meet later with Henry Kissinger, Nixon's top advisor on national security measures.

Although several antiwar groups announced plans to demonstrate against Ky's appearance at the National Press Club, advance criticism fell far short of the uproar of the aborted earlier visit.

Ky, his wife and small official party arrived at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., Monday after a weekend in Williamsburg, Va.

Because the Washington visit is a private one, no U.S. officials were on hand to greet the Ky party. Madame Ky was presented roses by Madame Bui Diem, wife of the Vietnamese ambassador.

Schools Lack Gas, Close

CHARLESTON — Elementary students in the Warren E. Hearnes, A. D. Simpson, kindergarten, Bertrand and Anniston schools of the R-1 school istrict were dismissed today due to low gas pressure.

School Superintendent Tom Wells said they would have to decide from day by day as to when the schools would be opened and advised parents to listen to television and radio announcements to be informed when school would be in session.

Four Arrests

Police reported Galen A. Kruger, 401 Malcolm, was charged with driving while intoxicated last night.

Margaret Largent, 9 Green Meadows, was charged with careless driving. John L. Sisco, route two, Sikeston, was charged with the same offense.

Hearnes Gets Demo National Party Post

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes is Missouri's new Democratatic National Committeeman.

He was elected by a unanimous ballot of the state committee, spokesmen said, and succeeds Sidney Salomon Jr., of St. Louis.

The state committee, in its meeting Monday, also adopted a resolution asking the national committee to investigate the actions of Mrs. Shirley Butters, Democratic National Committeewoman.

Mrs. Butters, of Bowling Green, Mo., has been charged with withholding money from the state in the operations of her license fee office. She has denied the charge and claims the state actually owes her money.

Delton L. Houtchens, state party chairman, said the resolution also was passed unanimously and asked the national committee to declare Mrs. Butter's office vacant if it finds she has violated her oath of office.

Rotarians Watch Oil Well Fire

Club President Jim Green reported that Walter Hedrick attended a Rotary meeting in Athens, Greece.

Guests were Steve Waters, Dwayne Lorenz and Jim Fulmer.

Charles Green led the club in singing accompanied by Debbie Launius at the piano.

Nixon Schedules News Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has scheduled his first news conference in more than four months for Dec. 10.

By that time, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said, Nixon will have made what is expected to be a major speech on the economy and the lame duck session in Congress will be almost over.

The last time Nixon faced the press corps was July 30. Ziegler said the Dec. 10 conference probably would be televised.

Two Grass Fires

Firemen responded to two calls yesterday afternoon but no damage was reported.

At 3:55 p.m. firemen were called to Crowe street where a grass fire was out of control.

Another grass fire at 4:50 p.m. brought firemen to 843 Stanford street.

Marshal Post at Morehouse Filled

MOREHOUSE -- The city officially has a city marshal -- at least for 30 days.

Last night the board of aldermen approved the hiring of Buddy McCain, 62, as city marshal on a 30 - day trial basis.

McCain succeeds Raymond Lawrence, who resigned Nov. 16 after being charged with felonious theft in Scott County.

Lawrence's unexpired term runs until April 1.

Last week the board approved James C. Green of Sikeston for the job. It was later disclosed he was on federal parole and could not serve.

The job pays $325 monthly with a car furnished.

McCain has been serving as a deputy marshal.

Driver Sentenced To 30 Days in Jail

Driving without an operator's license resulted in a 30- day jail term this morning in magistrate court for James L. Jackson of Chicago.

Judge M. E. Montgomery imposed the sentence after being advised by Deputy Sheriff Gerald Inman that Jackson was arrested Nov. 9 on suspicion of driving a stolen car from Chicago. Scott County authorities are awaiting word from Chicago police on Jackson.

Jackson, who has been in jail 15 days, wanted to know if the time could be applied to his 30-day term. Judge Montgomery said he would decide on that after authorities have heard from Illinois authorities.

Raymond Lawrence, former Morehouse City marshal, waived his preliminary hearing on a felonious theft charge. He was bound over to appear in circuit court and his $500 bond was continued.

Lawrence is charged with stealing $600 out of a trunk of a car belonging to a man he had arrested for driving while intoxicated.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Avery Oliver, Vanduser, who failed to appear on an assault charge. A $100 bond was forfeited.

Bobbie Lambert, 225 Young, waived preliminary hearing regarding a felonious theft charge. He was bound over to circuit court.

Lambert is accused of stealing a television set from Riggs Wholesale in Sikeston Oct. 24.

Jeff Stephenson, route one, Sikeston, was fined $5 for driving without a license.

Clyde Teers Jr., 104 Baker Lane, was fined $5 for careless driving.

Barbara Webb, 100 Westgate, was fined $5 for driving without a license.

Stilley Byrd, route four, Sikeston, was fined $5 for careless driving.

Tom Hill, 1610 Osage, was fined $5 on charges of driving without a license and improper vehicle registration.

Coley Gray Jr., Oran, was fined $5 on similar charges.

Judge Montgomery ordered a warrant issued for the arrest of Doyle Wicker, 243 West Kathleen, who failed to appear on a driving while intoxicated charge.

Pension Defeat Margin Tops Half-Million Votes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick reported today voters rejected a state employe retirement benefit increase by more than half a million votes Nov. 3.

The official canvass showed the plan received 217,133 favorable votes and 769,378 in opposition.

The campaign against the proposal which included far better benefits for legislators and elected officials than for the rest of the state employes, was carried on by a group of citzens. In a whirlwind campaign the group collected enough signatures throughout the state to force the referendum test.

The other proposition that failed in the general election was one to increase the constitutional levy for counties, townships and school districts. It was defeated 311,196 to 717,099.

The proposal for annual sessions of the Legislature, plus elimination of present limits on legislative expenses, mileage and travel, squeaked through to adoption with a margin of 8,707.

The vote was 511,296 in favor and 502,589 against.

The plan for giving more home rule to counties with the charter form of government—now St. Louis County and Jackson County—was adopted 575,371 to 430,849.

And the last proposal, providing that when a school tax increase is defeated the tax remains unchanged rather than reverting to the constitutional $1.25 on each $100 assessed valuation, was adopted 587,657 to 433,025.

The official canvass of other general election results will not begin until the second Tuesday in December.

Former Mayor of St. Louis Dies

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Raymond R. Tucker, an engineer-educator who became the first three-term mayor of St. Louis, died Monday night. He was 73.

Tucker had been hospitalized since Nov. 9 for treatment of congestive heart failure.

He was mayor from 1953 to 1965, president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors in 1965 and president of the American Municipal Association in 1960. He also was a member of the president's advisory committee on intergovernmental relations.

Foreign Policy Debate Grips Senate in Wake of Viet Raid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said today the nation faces disaster unless President Nixon puts a bipartisan foreign policy ahead of partisan domestic political considerations.

And he called on Nixon to restore "the habit of consultation between the White House and the Congress, for only consultation gives substance to the idea of bipartisanship."

Aiken, senior Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, delivered a broad-ranging foreign policy speech that criticized both policies and the way in which the Johnson and Nixon administrations have abandoned consultation with the Congress.

Referring to last April's U.S. move into Cambodia, Aiken said had the President chosen to consult with the Senate in advance, "I think he would have spared himself and the country much grief. Some of us might have been in a position to stand up and help him, if not by praising his words then at least by supporting his deeds."

Aiken spoke in the midst of the revival in the Senate of angry debate over Vietnam, spurred by the weekend raids into North Vietnam including the unsuccessful bid to free American prisoners near Hanoi.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird came to Capitol Hill today to brief members of the Senate Armed Services Committee on the weekend action.

The Foreign Relations Committee, center of war criticism, also was trying to arrange a session so its members could be briefed on the possible policy implications of the latest war moves.

Republican Senate Leader Hugh Scott hit back at critics of the attempt to free the prisoners of war. He said that during World War II everybody praised commando-type rescue operations but "you do it once in the Vietnam war and all the doves flutter and take a hard-nosed dive at the President."

"This is carzy," Scott told newsmen.

He saidit was more important than ever to try to get American prisoners out of North Vietnam because they are being tortured, inadequately fed, and kept in narrow cells in violation of the Geneva convention for the treatment of POW's.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said he hopes there are no reprisals from the raid.

But senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield questioned whether the commando raid would be helpful or harmful to the American prisoners of war.

"I wonder about the possibility of re-involvement based on the raids North . . ." he said. "I wonder about the reaction of the North . . . I wonder about the situation which confronts the prisoners of war, whether the commando raid has been harmful or helpful."

Income Tax Argument Rages As House Seeks Revenue

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House today began what appeared to be an extended argument over income tax rates as it searched for new revenue to ease the state's financial crisis.

The galleries were filled.

As the argument proceeded, the issues were whether the increase should be 50 per cent across the board and whether the top rate should be 6 per cent or 8 per cent.

The ways and means committee gave the House two administration bills. One would double the present tax on beer, wine and liquor and the other would increase income taxes. The first to be taken up was the tax on corporate and individual income —the same area but not the same plan that was defeated by the voters last April 7.

Since then the public schools, the welfare and mental health programs have suffered. Most legislators now concede that something must be done quickly.

The Ways and Means Committee went along with the recommendation of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes on doubling the taxes on alcoholic beverages.

The committee also agreed the range on corporate income taxes should be changed from the present 1 per cent to 4 per cent to a range of 2 per cent to 5 per cent.

But the committee changed the scales on individual income taxes. To ease the increased burden for the lower income family the floor would be raised from the present 1 per cent on taxable income to 1.5 per cent. Hearnes had recommended 2 per cent and 6 per cent as the top instead of the present 4 per cent. The committee hiked the top to 8 per cent.

Chairman Buddy Kay, DSt. Louis, said the changed bill would produce increased revenues of $14.7 million for the final six months of this fiscal year and $68.6 million for a full year.

But to make it effective Jan. 1, both houses would have to approve the tax boost with twothirds majorities.

Earlier, the House received six bills and two proposed constitutional amendments, most of them designed to boost tax revenues.

One of the major proposals would eliminate most of the present exemption sections of the 1963 sales-use tax act.

Among them would be parts going into the manufacture of automobiles, aircraft, airplanes and railroad rolling stock, machinery for manufacturing products to be taxed in the finished form, mining machinery and equipment, newsprint and the rental of film or recordings, livestock or poultry to be fed or used as brood stock, pumping machinery used by pipelines and railroad rolling stock used in interstate commerce.

Others would tax tobacco products other than already taxed cigarettes, vending machines and soft drinks.

Constitutional amendments would permit the later enactment of legislation allowing legalized pari-mutuel betting on horseraces and bingo for charitable purposes.

Replacing the present politically partisan method of investing idle state funds in banks friendly to the administration with the so-called Illinois formula was recommended by majority leader Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis. Under the Illinois plan, banks offering the highest interest rates would get the state money.

Another bill would require that banks report to the state the payment of interest of more than $10 a year to depositors. That would help the state department of revenue discover Missourians who should have paid intangible taxes but didn't.

Comment on Missiles Refused

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command refused to comment today on speculation that North Vietnamese surface-to-air missiles—the SAMs supplied Hanoi by the Soviet Union—have been fired recently at U.S. B52 bombers attacking the Ho Chi Minh trail near the border between Laos and North Vietnam.

An American military spokesman said no B52s have been lost to enemy fire, but he declined to say if any had been fired on.

Because the B52s fly at 30,000 feet, the SAMs are the only antiaircraft weapon in the North Vietnamese arsenal that might hit them.

The speculation that SAMs may have been fired at B52s over Laos stemmed from information given in Washington about the U.S. raids on North Vietnam last weekend.

Viet Air Collision Kills 17

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. light plane and a South Vietnamese helicopter collided in the air in the Mekong Delta today, killing 4 Americans and 13 Vietnamese, authorities reported.

"There were no survivors," a South Vietnamese officer in the field said.

The officer said all three U.S. crewmen aboard the light plane were killed and another American died aboard the helicopter.

The collision occurred near Binh Thuy air base about 80 miles south of Saigon.

Field reports said the Army Beaver, a single-engine utility aircraft, had just taken off from the base.

"An investigation is under way," said one officer.

THANKSGIVING HERITAGE

When Thanksgiving rolls around, on Thursday, Nov. 26, most Americans will celebrate with turkey and a day off. The more religious will remember to express their gratitude for the year's blessings. President Nixon, for example, stated in his Thanksgiving message:"We give thanks that this nation moves closer each day to peace for all its citizens and all the world." Almost everyone can find something to be thankful for, although for some it may take a bit of straining in a year marked by rising unemployment and continuing foreign and domestic violence.

Historically, Thanksgiving has been celebrated in one way or another around the world after the year's crops were picked and stored. Festivities usually lasted far longer than they do now. The ancient Canaanites reveled for weeks. In Palestine, the Hebrew Feast of the Tabernacles continued for nine days. Greek married women were alloted three days to honor Demeter, the goddess of agriculture. The Romans held far more raucous festivals to give thanks to their harvest goddess, Ceres. Martinmas celebrations in the Middle Ages and Harvest Horns in England often went on until the food and wine supplies were depleted.

Although there is some doubt whether the first American Thanksgiving took place along the James River in Virginia in 1619 or in Plymouth, Mass. in 1621, it is indisputably the oldest civil holiday in the New World. With the exception of President Washington's 1789 Thanksgiving proclamation in honor of the new U.S. Constitution, Thanksgiving remained a local celebration until the mid- 19th century. Most Southerners believed the holiday was a relic of Puritan bigotry, and did not begin celebrating it until after 1855. By 1865, there was enough public support to make Thanksgiving an institutionalized annual national holiday. Since that time, it has become a uniquely American celebration -- one which combines productive enterprise, domestic felicity and religious devotion.

EARTH, TEXAS, NEWS- SUN: "Columnists and commentators have called the non- activist bulk of our citizens by many names... One such name is the 'average' American, but that doesn't seem just right, because the 'average' of anything is only the worst of the good and the best of the worst...Others have referred to us as the 'silent' Americans, but with more and more of us standing up and speaking out against the destructive elements in our society, we are not so silent as we once were... so that name doesn't quite fit us either. The majority in this country should be called 'Middle Americans' because we are, indeed, in the middle; caught between the politicians who spend, spend, spend... and the non- producers who take, take, take... which means, of course, that we have to work, work, work, so we can pay, pay, pay!"

TRIUMPH OF COMMON SENSE

Some years ago, a tremendous furor was raised concerning the use of pesticide chemicals in agricultural production, and the effect which traces of these chemicals remaining in our food might have on human health. At the time, misrepresentation of the hazards involved were of grave concern to knowledge authorities, because these chemicals are an indispensable tool in the high- volume agricultural production now required to feed growing populations the world over. Fortunately, this is one area of concern to which reason has returned.

In a statement concerning "The Implication Of Pesticide Residues As A Health Hazard," Dr. Roy Goulding of the British Poisons Reference Service has stated that there is "...no substantiated evidence that the consumption of foodstuffs bearing residues of active ingredients from accepted agricultural practices in the United Kingdom has led to injury to man... In short, despite all the hullaballoo, the alarms, the excursions, the invocations and the warnings, it certainly looks as though we are eating far less of pesticide residues than ever we feared and far less than is at all likely to do us any harm."

Substantially, the same conclusions regarding these points have been reached in the United States. Continuous testing and surveillance programs have shown the food supply in the U.S. to be of the highest quality and purity. The pesticide industry in the interest of promoting the increased production of food and fiber that will be required by the world's growing population is pushing forward with programs to establish realistic and uniform levels of acceptable pesticide residues between all nations. If as much reason and good sense could be brought to bear on some of the other problems which offer a real threat to the life and health of man on earth, we would all indeed have little to fear.

SOMEBODY MUST PAY

Twenty or more years ago, the railroads made an all-out try to bring travelers back to the rails. Millions of dollars were spent, but even the installation of the last word in air- conditioned comfort failed to halt the trend in transport evolution. Since no private enterprise can maintain a public service at a continuous loss, a day of reckoning has arrived. In a reversal of a historic industry position, the railroads, according to the president of the Association of American Railroads, Mr. Thomas M. Goodfellow, have proposed a co-operative industry-government program to sustain money -losing passenger trains that must be kept running as a public service.

Mr. Goodfellow comments, "... where we're forced to operate money - losing trains, we feel the government should assume the obligation to share in the cost." A break- even operation is all the railroads are proposing. A large part of the cost of running the trains still would be covered, in most cases, by railroad revenues with the government obligated only to make up deficits incurred. These would be determined by cost procedures established by the Interstate Commerece Commission within the framework of necessary legislation.

Again in Mr. Goodfellow's words, "The most important service the railroads now perform is the transportation of freight, which benefits virtually every business, industry and individual consumer in the country. Our intercity passenger services, on the other hand, are used by less than one and a half per cent of the traveling public..." The empty passenger train has become a liability to the economic stability of the railroad industry. This is the basic truth which the rails-- and the nation -- must now face.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, PA., SPIRIT: "On campuses all over the nation bands of students have assaulted flagpoles with little opposition as they sought to dishonor the American Flag to satisfy their thirst for attention. Not so at San Diego State College. Standing between the Flag and students who wanted to lower it was the imposing figure of the college's football center, Bill Pierson. 'I was born under that Flag, I fought for that Flag and I'm going to college today because of what is represents,' he explained. Pierson stood his ground for three hours. The Flag waved on. How sad it is that principles which mean so much to so many are defended by so few. Surely students who share Pierson's convictions will not let him stand alone."

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

Like the soaring mushroom cloud of a nuclear explosion, concern over the impact of man on the Earth's environment has cast a shadow on just about every human undertaking, and its dimensions grow with each passing day. Taken as a whole, the subject of environment, together with proposals and methods of environmental improvement, is beyond the grasp of the ordinary individual. To realize this, one has but to consider a single environmental problem -- water pollution. This of itself is so vast and complicated a subject that probably no one, not even the experts, can provide pat answers.

Of course, water pollution, except in an academic sense, cannot be treated as a separate environmental problem. Mr. Robert P. Mayom director of the Bureau of the Budget, in a lengthy discussion of the cost of improving and preserving the environment, points out that "... in the very process of living, we draw upon our environment and make use of it.We are dependent upon it for our needs. We quarry sand, gravel, and stone to build our homes and cut timber to furnish them. We husband animals for our food and cut hay to feed them. We mine metals to make our cars and machines, and pump oil and harness rivers to drive them... A good share of pollution is the result of our own demands for one car, and then a second, for showers, dishwashers, clothes washers, and verdant crabgrass- free lawns."

Water pollution, like other forms of environmental contamination, is the direct result of individual human demands- a massive natural force that carries a potential for great destruction, the same as any other natural force. Controlling the damage wrought by this force, just as with floods or forest fires, will depend upon many measures, most of them costly.

Budget Director Mayo, notes that "... in the area of water pollution, the Department of the Interior has estimated that the cost of a possibly inconclusive attack on major pollution problems, such as proper sewage and treatment of waste and the control of thermal pollution, sedimentation, acid mine drainage and agricultural land run- off, might be as much as $70 billion -- if not more-- over a 5- year- period." As a start on an anti- water pollution program, the Nixon Administration has requested an expenditure of $10 billion over a 4- year period, with $4 billion representing the federal share. Others, feeling the Administration's program is inadequate, urge more drastic action. The National League of Cities and U.S. Conference of Mayors has released results of a survey that place the nation's water pollution control requirements at between $33 and $37 billion for the 5 - year period 1971 to 1976.

In the meantime, water pollution has become the center of a controversy of the kind that is causing confusion and frustration in other environmental areas where attempts have been made to single out and penalize specific industries-- public utilities, petroleum and chemicals to name a few-- as primary sources of all pollution. This scapegoat approach to pollution provides popular political issues at the expense of true environmental improvement. A punitive attitude toward industries and the private enterprise system that produces the goods and services for a nation of 200 million people is no way to preserve the environment.

So it is with water pollution. Charges have been made that the phosphates in detergent soaps are to blame for speeding the eutrophication, or aging process, of lakes. Hence, the simple argument goes, phosphates should be removed from detergents, despite abundant evidence that such a step would have little or no effect in alleviating water pollution problems. The answer to this pollution problem, as with others, is the broad, scientific approach. Phosphates come from innumerable sources. If they present a problem in water pollution control, the answer, in the view of countless authorities, is to move ahead as rapidly as possible with more adequate sewage and waste disposal plant construction.

What everyone must realize is that in water pollution as elsewhere, the public should be extremely wary of the simple approach and of the tendency to single out a "villain" where no villain exists. The problem is far too big for that. It is as big as life itself.

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today announced that a new communications network, the Missouri Uniform Law Enforcement System (MULES), will be in operation next spring.

The Missouri Uniform Law Enforcement System is a computer-based law enforcement, criminal justice, information system which will include a computer tele - processing terminal in city, county, state and federal law enforcement agencies in the near future. Missouri's law enforcement officers will be able to obtain information within seconds on persons, vehicles and property. MULES is also being designed to provide total and instant access to the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) in F.B.I. Headquarters, Washington, D.C.

The Patrol Superintendent noted that the Missouri Highway Patrol in Jefferson City will be the central agency for MULES. He emphasized, however, that it is through the combined efforts of the Kansas City and St. Louis Police Departments, along with the Patrol, that the new communications system is being developed to serve law enforcement officers and agencies of Missouri.

"Today's law enforcement officer needs modern tools with which to successfully perform his tasks," Hockaday declared. "The computerized teleprocessing systems, MULES and NCIC, give him effective tools by providing him with timely and accurate information, in seconds. It is hoped that every police agency in the State will take advantage of MULES and become a member of this communication network."

Colonel Hockaday then stated that the Highway Patrol will need several additional personnel with communication experience to help in the operation of the new system. Anyone interested in such employment should write to the Director of Communications, Missouri Highway Patrol, Jefferson City, Missouri, 65101.

DOMESTIC STEEL SHIPMENTS DOWN

Steel shipments by domestic producers declined in February from a year ago when consumers were building inventories as a hedge against possible labor trouble.

American Iron and Steel Institute reported that February shipments totaled 7,092,000 net tons compared with 7,901,000 tons in February 1968.

For the first two months of this year shipments totaled 14,359,000 tons against 15,653,000 tons in the corresponding period of 1968.

Shipments to the automobile market, traditionally the top user of steel mill products, were 1,559,000 tons in Bebruary, bringing the total for the year to 3,212,000 tons, a drop of 11.8 percent or 429,000 tons from the first two months of 1968. Shipments to steel service centers declined 5 percent in the period while shipments to the agricultural classification were down 24.2 percent.

AGAINST THE GRAIN

The people of the United States have always believed in the idea that a day's work was a fair exchange for a day's pay. Apparently, this is one basic thought that is still with us. Recent Gallup Polls have shown that 78 per cent of the American public favors a guaranteed job program so that everyone capable of working might have the opportunity do do so. In contrast to this strong support for guaranteed jobs, only 36 per cent of the people interviewed favor a guaranteed annual income. To the average person, the great drawbacks to government paying everybody a certain minimum income still seem to be two - fold. The cost, added to present welfare programs growing bigger every day, would be the last thing the nation's finances could stand, and politically it would be highly unlikely that the hundreds of local, state and federal welfare programs would be dropped or cut back. Secondly, something for nothing has never encouraged anybody yet to work harder to help himself, and so far that is the only way anybody has ever gotten out of poverty.

We are told that the millennium is coming when all the work in the country will be done by machines and most of us will have the burden of finding uses for our leisure time. So far, most of us haven't been troubled with this situation and find the idea of guaranteeing everybody an income as a matter of right, whether they work or not, thoroughly nonsensical.

POPULATION RISE TO 235 MILLION SEEN BY 1980

The United States population is expected to exceed 205.5 million people by 1970 and 235 million by 1980, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

The insurer claims these estimates are based on a recent study which indicated that the population at mid - 1968 was an estimated 201,700,000 and the labor force about 84,550,000.

Population growth in recent years reflects the high level of births during the 1950's and earlier 1960's.

The labor force is expected to increase by 14.6 per cent compared with 13.9 per cent rise in the period between 1967 and 1975. The pattern is expected to continue; in 1980 the number of people employed or seeking work may reach 101 million, or three of every five persons at age 16 and over.

Population growth is likely to contribute all but 7.5 per cent in this future expansion of the labor force, with increased participation rates for women accounting for the remainder.

MOBILE HOMES WINNING ACCEPTANCE NATIONALLY AS PERMANENT HOMES

The mobile home rapidly is winning acceptance in much of the United States as a permanent home, according to the Mobile Home Manufacturers Association of Chicago.

Sales of mobile homes grew from 90,000 in 1961 to 241,000 last year and may exceed 300,000 in 1968, an industry spokesman said.

With the conventional housing industry struggling to maintain any growth at all, mobile home makers are piling up increases of better than 10 per cent a year and now have captured roughly 25 per cent of the total annual new home market.

The fact that they can produce an air conditioned house completely furnished for $5,000 to $6,000 is the big reason trailer makers do big business.

H.L. Hunt Says

HIPPIES IN HANOI

Now comes a report that an influx of hippies is giving the leaders of North Vietnam new headaches. It couldn't happen to a more deserving people. Shaggy-haired youths who were sent to Communist countries of Europe for technical training reportedly are returning in droves to the motherland and it isn't to bathe in the Mekong, either.

Reports emanating from North Vietnam say the hippie clan isn't concerned at all with the "war of liberation" now being waged by the communist hordes in South Vietnam. Their kin-by-habits in this country have seemed vitally concerned by what is going on in that unhappy land. Our hippies want us to get out.

It is unlikely that the unclean shall inherit the earth, but many of them have posed real problems for their parents and the law enforcement agencies of this and other nations. A preponderance of the militant groups, indoctrinated in the communist dogma, have posed serious problems to our structure of orderliness.

The alleged behavior of the North Vietnamese hippies seems incompatible with that of our hippies. Many or ours are militant in demanding withdrawal. Their so-called "flower children" could care less.

The United Nations might give some serious thought to a world-wide system of cleanliness and barbering. Millions of dollars, mostly ours, have beenspent by that organization on less attractive ventures around the world.

Or a hippie exchange program might be the answer. Let our hippie gangs put the heat on Hanoi and theirs bring their leathargy to our shores. Laissez-faire and violent militancy in their proper places. HLH

NEW YORK (AP) —Jumping to conclusions:

Neither too much wine nor the pains and pangs of old age bring out the worst in a man's personality as much as having to drive in crowded traffic when he's in a hurry to get somewhere. Yet man persists in making his inventions his gods —the automobile, the airplane, plastics, the computer—and in the end they may destroy him by making him too neurotic to endure. Already he is at the mercy of things he created to make his life more leisurely and comfortable.

The dullest conversation possible this time of year is that between two suburbanites discussing the troubles they have getting to and from work in bad weather—and the new ways they plan to attack crabgrass next spring.

One of the mysteries of life is why so many secretaries fall in love with their boss when they know so much more about him than his wife does.

Experience is like a secondhand car. You may regard it as valuable but you can never sell it at a profit to anyone else.

If you took the words "stupid" and "cool" out of the average teen-ager's vocabulary, he'd be half tongue-tied.

A man who makes his first million is never happy until he makes his second just to prove to himself that the first one wasn't all luck.

A philosopher is a man who, the longer he lives, feels the less he knows for sure—and therefore is willing to learn from younger people who are more confident of their wisdom.

One of the troubles with telling your troubles is that half the people you tell them to don't give a hoot, and the other half are glad you finally got your comeuppance.

Things could be worse. If men wore antlers like moose, it would be even more of a nuisance riding to work by bus or subway.

A successful bachelor is a guy who can give three girls lingerie for Christmas and still stay free.

There is plenty to be grateful for this Thanksgiving Day. For example, in a noisy world half the pianos in America bought by parents to instill music in their children relapse into silence within six months and become simply pieces of living room furniture. the only sounds they make are when they're dusted.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The story can now be told how the State Department repeatedly defied the Senate Foreign Relations Committee when the committee sought to get to the bottom of misconduct charges against Senator Joe Tydings,D—Md.

The incident led to a confrontation between Foreign Relations Chairman Bill Fulbright, the caustic Arkansas Democrat, and Secretary of State William Rogers, the most easy going, personable man in the Nixon cabinet.

At the height of the affair, Rogers, trying to stay out of it, refused even to answer an official, written request from Fulbright in which the Senator angrily threatened to cut off State Departmnet funds if he didn't get the information he wanted.

It all started last August with Life magazine's report that Tydings had misused his influence to help some business associates get a State Department loan. Fulbright immediately asked the State Department for a full report.

In his letter to Scott Heuer, the Inspector General for Foreign Assistance, Fullbright also asked for an interim report on the matter in case the full report proved to be "time-consuming."

When an official in the bureaucracy gets a request from the congressional committee that oversees his departmnet, he acts fast. So Fulbright got his reply from Heuer the next day, August 26, promising a thorough investigation and an interim report if the full report took a long time.

That was the last evidence of hast by the State Department. Late in September, the Foreign Relations staff began to hound Heuer for the report several times, he promised it would be ready in a matter of days. But it never arrived.

Early in October, Heuer said there would be an indefinite delay. Fulbright was furious. On October 12, he fired off a letter to Rogers.

The letter demanded copies of all correspondence, memoranda and other documents on the Tydings loan as well as "copies of any draft investigative reports on the matter."

FULLBRIGHT'S THREAT

Fulbright reminded Rogers starchily that if a formal request for information from a congressional committee is not met within 35 days, the committee can cut off funds from the offending office.

"I hope," said Fulbright in closing, "the department will be cooperative with the committee on this problem so that it will not be necessary to invoke the sanctions of Section 624 (d) (7). Please advise me as to when the committee can expect to receive this material."

Although Rogers's office received the Fulbright letter the day after it was mailed, the Secretary never answered it. Instead, Fulbright got a copy of the final full report a full month later--a week after the election. The report cleared the defeated Tydings belatedly of misusing his influence.

No interim report was ever received. Fulbright was so incensed that he made a speech about it when the Democrats caucased behind closed doors before the beginning of the current lame-duck session of Congress.

Questioned by this column about his failure to answer Fulbright's request, Rogers passed the buck, saying he had only a minor role in the matter.

He referred the questions to William Macomber, the State Department's liaison officer with Congress, who said he had taken charge of the matter after the first Fulbright letter to Heuer. It is customary for Heuer to report to the Secretary himself.

Macomber said: "We certainly didn't want the Secretary involved in this." He further insisted that the Department "acted honorably" in the matter and vigourously denied that there had been any political pressure from the White House to hold up the report. Asked why Fulbright had never received the promised interim report, Macomber said it had simply slipped his mind. Meanwhile, Heuer, the man who did the report, is out of the country.

NIXON KEEPS HANDS OFF

Senator Howard Baker, R—Tenn., ever eager to get ahead in the Senate, paid an unpublicized call upon President Nixon at Key Biscayen, Fla., recently to seek support for the Senate Republican leadership.

Baker was testing the water to find out whether he might be able to oust veteran Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott.

But the President would have no part of the plot. He said he had intervened twice, as Vice President, in backstage House leadership battles and had been badly "burned."

He sates emphatically, therefore, that he would never get involved in another Senate or House leadership fight and that he would instruct his aides to remain strictly neutral.

Footnote: Scott appears to be in no danger of losing the leadership. Re-elected to the Senate by a greater vote than any other Republican, he has picked up support from at least two who previously had backed Baker. They are Senators Marlow Cook, R—Ky., and Ted Stevens, R—Alaska.

Give up 'grass' or her

Dear Ann Landers: My boyfriend and I had another fight. It could be our last. The fight was bout the same old thing. Marijuana. I want Mike to quit smoking but he refuses. He also refuses to admit he is hooked. He insists the only thing wrong with pot is that it's illegal. I told him that's reason enough for me and if he doesn't knock it off we are finished.

I can see a big difference in Mike when he is smoking but I can't get it across to him. He gets dreamy-eyed, lazy, doesn't want to talk or go anyplace--just sits and stares into space. His grades are slipping and he isn't as neat about his personal appearance as he used to be. He doesn't see this either. Please, Ann, tell Mike what pot is doing to his life. He thinks you're sharp and I'll bet you can get through to him. Thanks -----Pot Hater

Dear P.H.: I can't tell Mike what pot is doing to his life because pot does different thinkgs to different poeple. I'd have to know first what the guy smokes. Is it pure pot, or the weak stuff cut with alfalfa and hay? I'd have to know if he inhales and how often he smokes. Is it once a month or twice a day? The emotional stability of the smoker is another important factor. An unstable kid could get permanently zonked on grass. There are recorded cases of pot having triggered psychotic episodes. On the other hand, an emotionally healthy, well-balanced kid might get nothing more than a pleasant high. I'd have to know,too, why Mike smokes. Is it an escape? Is he doing it to be one of the "in" crowd? Is he experimenting? Or is he thumbing his nose at the establishment, his parents, or the law?

Your statement that Mike's grades are slipping and he is not as neat about his personal appearance as he once was, is a tipoff that pot may be destroying his self-esteem and sapping his energy. This, according to the experts is one of the most damaging side effects. While some kids can smoke pot and reamin functional, other kids run into trouble. Pot can kill motivation and make dreamers out of doers. And the real hazard is that no kid can tell in advance what it will do to him. Moreover, the person who is being damaged by pot is usually the last one to know. My position is that no teen-ager should fool around with a mind-altering substance of any kind ---booze, pills or drugs, soft OR hard. Expecially if it's against the law.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a telephone receptionist who tries to be courteous to all callers. It's my job to make friends for the firm and I take my responsibilities seriously. It is also my job to put callers in touch with the proper department so I must ask specific questions.

This morning a man wanted to speak to the president of the firm. I asked the gentleman his name and the name of his company. He replied, "My name is ------. I am with ------. My grandmother's maiden name was Jones. I wear 42 long, part of my hair on the left side and my birthstone istruby. Isthere anything else you want to know?"

I was so taken aback that I couldn't think of a snappy comeback to put him in his place. What should I have said? ----Ithica, N.Y.

Dear Ith: Your job is to handle the calls ?--not put people in their place. During the course of a day you undoubtedly speak to a wide variety of people. If you are doing your job well you ignore the clowns and respond politely to everyone. That's the best put-down of all.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze And You For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Tracking great fake furs

NEW YORK, N.Y. --Today, what's fake is fun.

A few years ago, a woman might be embarrassed to admit her "mink" was not real, or her "lynx" only a clever mixture of synthetic fibers.

But now, fake furs are fashionable. They look great. They wear well. And they allow a woman to have an up-to-date wardrobe of great-looking "fur' coats without feeling she's either squandered funds or reduced a vanishing species.

The growing popularity of fake furs has attracted the talents of some of the country's top designers. As fast as chemists come up with new fabric "pelts," the designers unveil new lines. One of the newest developments is a "mink" cloth that copies real pelts right down to the fine guard hairs. It's particularly effective when used in sporty short coats. How casual can you be? Another recent development is a "tiger" fur that looks real enough to revive Tarzan. It's a great look for daytime and with a change of accessories, it's perfect for more formal evening wear.

Fake furs have become so popular they're showing up in men's coats. Besides being stylish, they're warm and rugged looking -- especially a new "wolf" fur that looks as good on a city street as it does outdoors.

The designers have even gone so far as to combine "fake" looks. One of the newest trends is to have fake "fur" coats trinned with vinyl fake "leather" trim. In addition to opening up new looks in styling and design, the trim provides an interesting contrast to the coat's "fur texture.

Which all goes to prove how much fun it is to get away from reality!

Hello! Golly I can't believe it has turned so cold so quickly. I knew it coming but I guess I'm never for a drastic weather change.

Several people have asked me about Mother and Daddy and I know I haven't written about them much this year. They are just fine. Mother has finally quit her button making completely and I never thought she would do that, but with them planning to move to Alabama in January she just decided she wanted to quit now and she did. Daddy will retire from the Post Office the 31st day of December and they are going to move back to Alabama. Mother especially has looked forward to it for so long that I really hope they are happy back down there.

Fulton colleges announce productions

The William Woods-Westminster College Theatre of Fulton will present two plays during the Third Open Space Season. The first play, "The Algolagnia Game", will be given in the Williams Woods Open Space 8:00 p.m. Dec. 1-5. "The Star-Spangled Girl" will run Dec. 8-12.

The public is invited to the two-week season offering ten performances. There will be an admission charge of $1.00 per person. Tickets may be reserved by calling 642-7379 in Fulton between 1:00-5:00 p.m. Monday thru Friday Nov. 23-Dec. 12 (excluding Thanksgiving Day) or by writing William Woods-Westminster College Theatre and enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope along with the number of tickets and the date of performance desired.

"THE ALGOLAGNIA GAME" is an orgiinal play written by Dr. Paul Morgan, chairman of the William Woods English Department. Directed by Irby Darnell and designed by Christian West, the two-act play is a fascinating example of "black comedy" curiously blended with a touch of mysterious. The plot concerns a young musician (David Park) who takes along his fiance (Nan Wade) to work on a musical version of "The Marquis de Sade" at the home of an aging designer (Robin Cahall) and his playwright-wife (Cherie Herring). Also in attendance are Sister (Jan Scott) and a young man who thinks he is Jean Genet (Doyle Richmond). The last half of the play is centered around the fiance's experience with the various members of the unusual household while the boy friend is out writing "The Whipping Song" for "Marat Sade".

"THE STAR-SPANGLED GIRL" is one of a long list of successful comedies, including "Bearfoot in the Park", "The Odd Couple" and "Sweet Charity", written by Neil Simon. It features only three characters, two men and a girl. Frank Dent and Brad Bellamy play two young men struggling to put out a "protest" magazine. Ginger Graf protrays the all-American girl who moves in next door and sends both of the "publishers" into a romantic sail spin. The production is designed and directed bv Christian West.

Mustangs Gallop Into Prep Poll

North Pemiscot, winner of its own invitational tournament last week with an 84 point scoring average in its three games, vaulted to fourth in his week's Daily Standard basketball poll.

Parma and Matthews remained one- two in the poll while the other eight positions changed with Scott County Central, Oran and Woodland falling from the elite while Notre Dame and Cape Central moved up.

Three Class S teams rank among the top of the ratings, with Delta holding down the number three spot behind the two Pirate squads.

Parma's lead slipped six points from last week as it picked up only five first place votes while Matthews, Delta, North Pemiscot and seventh ranked Notre Dame each picked up two number one votes while sixth ranked Hayti and sevent rated Lilbourn drew one each from the Sports Panel of Coaches.

Parma, Richland, Hayti, Lilbourn and Delta are the only members from the pre- season ratings to remain in this, the second week of the regular season poll.

Richland and New Madrid are the only members of today's poll with any defeats, as Parma, Matthews, Delta and North Pemiscot are 3-0, Notre Dame 1-0 and Hayti, Lilbourn and Cape Central yet to see action. The Rebels and Indians are 2-1 on the season, with the Richland loss coming at the hands of Parma and the New Madrid loss from the Rebs.

Tonight 20- game area schedule is highlighted by a number of clashes between today's top ten. Parma is at Hayti and Matthews at North Pemiscot in the top attractions.

A number of the area's football schools open their basektball seasons tonight and Friday, as Cape Central gets its acid test Friday against Fox of Arnold.

Malden, Festus and Ste. Genevieve get their season's underway tonight.

THE POLL with first place votes in parenthesis, record and total points at right:

(1) Parma (5)	3-0	126
(2) Matthews (2)	3-0	95
(3) Delta (2)	3-0	91

Plunkett , Theismann Leaders for Heisman

NEW YORK (AP) — Record-breaking quarterbacks Jim Punkett of Stanford and Joe Theismann of Notre Dame were rated the favorites to win the Heisman Trophy today as college football's outstanding performer.

Still another quarterback, Archie Manning of Mississippi, started the season long with Plunkett as the most touted players. But Manning broke his wrist in a game against Houston earlier this month. He has missed one game and is expected to be out at least one more.

The Heisman Trophy has been awarded annually since 1935 by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York. Of the previous 35 winners, 23 have been running backs, 10 quarterbacks and two ends—Larry Kelley of Yale in 1936 and Notre Dame's Leon Hart in 1949.

No interior lineman has ever won the coveted trophy which this year will be decided by the votes of 1,242 electors across the nation. The balloting was to end at 9 a.m. today with the announcement of the winner due at 1 p.m., EST.

Plunkett, a 6-foot-3, 204-pounder, is major college football's all-time leader in total offense and passing yardage and is expected to be a top pro draft pick.

This season, Plunkett ranks second nationally in total offense with an average of 263.5 yards a game. In 11 games, he has passed for 2,715 yards and 18 touchdowns.

Theismann is third and Manning ninth in total offense. Of the three quarterbacks, Theismann has the best completion average, Plunkett the most yards and touchdown passes.

Lawrence Leads TRJC Past SBJC

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark — Three Rivers junior college of Poplar Bluff, Mo. exploded for 72 points in he second half here last night to record a 111-59 decision over Southern Baptist.

The Missouri Raiders held a slim 39-28 first half lead before opening up with a fast break the second half and place five players in double figures.

TRJC ran their season record to 2-0 behind the 22-point leadership of freshman Larry Lawrence. Paul Hale of Morley added 17, Larry Willis of Neelyville 14 and Carl Bishop of Matthews 14 for coach Gene Gess' team.

The Raiders are idle until after the Thanksgiving holiday.

Scoring: Three Rivers (111) Bishop 14, Hale 17, Johnson 3, Hills 7, Stone 5, Holdines2, Evans 4, Lawson 5, Lawrence 22, Reynolds 12, McFerren 6, Wills 14. Totals: FG---41; FT---29; PF---32.

Southern Baptist (59) Metcalf 6, Turney 14, Austin 8, Jones 7, Lindsey 17, Daniel 6, Hunt 1, Cotton 6, Ring 4, Totals: FG---18; Ft---23; PF---29.

Half TRJC - 39-28.

Richland Jr. High Unbeaten

ESSEX — Coach George Cox's Richland junior high squads ran their records to 2-0 here last night with wins over Puxico. The seventh graders took a 53-21 decision while the eighth grade posted a 42-29 win.

Tom Barnett and Jim Clay led the junior Rebels to the seventh grade victory, netting 16 and 14 points respectively. Tim Hancock topped Puxico scoring with 10 markers.

Randy Gaylor scored 15 points to head the Rebs eighth grade win, while Morris Cornley contributed 10. Mike Hancock led the Indians scoringwith 11.

Eagles Clip Giants, 23-20

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Billy Walik, whose performance was singled out by both coaches as a major factor in the Philadelphia Eagles 23-20 National Football League upset over the New York Giants, compared his job with that of a sprinter in track.

Walik, a 180-pound rookie, returns kicks for the Eagles. He carried four for 146 yards on Monday night's NFL weekly television presentation. He raced 57 yards with a second period New York kickoff to set up a subsequent field goal, and 45 yards with a third quarter return that started the Eagles toward their winning fourth period touchdown.

"It's like being a sprinter in indoor track meets," Walik said of his specialty. "In track you wait around a lot until it's time to run and then you let fly for 50 or 60 yards and hope you timed it right. In returning kickoffs, you look for the hole and try to hit it before it closes."

Coach Alex Webster of the Giants said Walik's flying feet signaled the end of his team's six-game winning streak and it helped drop New York into a second place tie with the Dallas Cowboys in the NFL's National Conference Eastern Division. The Giants and Cowboys are each 6-4, now 1½ games behind the leading St. Louis Cardinals 7-2-1.

"What hurt us most was Walik's kickoff returns which gave them great field position," Webster said in the quiet of the Giants' dressing room. The New York coach also credited the Eagles ability to control the ball in the final period with a big part in Philadelphia victory.

The Eagles tallied their winning touchdown on a 1-yard keeper play by quarterback Norm Snead 52 seconds into the final period. They killed 9:26 on the clock after getting the ball with 10:16 remaining. New York finally got it with 50 seconds left, but could get only to midfield.

Eagles' coach Jerry Williams said Walik's returns and the ability of the Eagles' defense to contain Giants halfback Ron Johnson were the key factors for his team, which has won two and tied one in the last three games after losing the first seven. Johnson, the NFL's third leading ground gainer before last weekend's games, managed only 35 yards on 16 carries.

New York scored in the first period for a 3-0 lead on Pete Gogolak's 29-yard field goal.

The Eagles recovered a fourth down bad pass from center at the New York 1, and scored on Snead's keeper run in the second quarter to lead 6-3.

New York took advantage of a fumble recovery to go back in front on a two-yard burst by Johnson and a 29-yard Gogolak field goal made it 13-6 with 42 seconds left in the half.

Walik then returned the kickoff 57 yards leading to Mark Moseley's 29 yard field goal on the last play of the half.

The Eagles drove to a third period score, Snead passing a yard to tight end Fred Hill for a 16-13 advantage, only to have the Giants score on Tarkenton's one-yard keeper, regaining the lead at 20-16.

Then came Walik's 45-yard caper and the Eagles final TD, netted by Snead on a push from the half yard line.

Big Red Face Eagles Sunday

ST. LOUIS — Clinging to their lead in the National Football Conference's Eastern Division, the Football Cardinals put their 7-2-1 mark on the line here Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Kickoff is set for 1:05 p.m.

The Big Red's 6-6 tie with Kansas City last Sunday, before 50,711 fans on a frigid afternoon, kept the Cardinals in the lead. Jim Bakken's 14-yard field goal, with 1:49 remaining, provided the equalizer as Jim Hart marched the Cardinals 71 yards in 11 plays to set up the field goal.

The stingy Cardinal defense, its goal line uncrossed in four games, now has been touched for 136 points in 10 games, and the pass defense, shackling Len Dawson with only four completions in 14 tries, has held opponents to a 44.3 completion percentage. Dawson had hit 54.6 per cent of his passes before he faced the Cardinals.

Additionally, the Cardinal defensive improvement shows up with a contrast of 1969 figures. For 10 games, the Cardinals have allowed only 1455 yards as against 2436 a year ago. Opponents a year ago had tapped the Big Red for 258 points and only 136 this season.

Offensively, the Big Red has totaled 255 points, tied for the NFL lead with the Detroit Lions, the opponent for December 6 at Detroit. A year ago, the Cardinals had scored 212.

MacArthur Lane, who gained 46 yards against the Chiefs, now has 778 for the season and a 5.2-yard average. He needs just 22 to join John David Crow (1071 in 1960), Ollie Matson (924 in 1956), John Roland (876 in 1967) and Willis Crenshaw (813 in 1968) as the only Cardinals ever to gain 800 yards or more rushing in one season.

The Cardinals' two interceptions of Chiefs' passes gave the Big Red 18 for the season, two more than the defense picked off all last year. Larry Wilson and Roger Wehrli lead with five apiece, and Miller Farr has grabbed four.

Heading toward what might be a climatic divisional battle against the Giants at St. Louis on December 13, the Big Red faces the Eagles at home, then the Lions on the road. The Giants, after their Monday night loss to the Eagles (23-20) take on the Redskins at Washington and the Buffalo Bills at Yankee Stadium. After their meeting here, the clubs close their seasons December 20, with the Giants entertaining the Los Angeles Rams and the Cardinals meeting the Redskins at Washington.

The Cardinals also have announced two of their 1971-pre-season games, both at home against American Football Conference foes. The Big Red will meet the Houston Oilers on Saturday, August 14, in the annual benefit game for the Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital for Children, and will take on the Cleveland Browns on Friday, September 10, in a renewal of a 20- year rivalry that came to an end when the Browns entered the AFC.

According to a gas equipment maker, smelly smudge pots may soon be out of Oregon orchards. Growers have found they can pipe gas through irrigation mains, then burn it in rock-filled vessels to keep frost away from fruit without fouling the air with smoke.

Paterno's Challenge

NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the College of Football Wash:

Joe Paterno of Penn State, an Ivy League graduate (Brown) himself, has long been needling the Ivies to schedule some major Eastern independents if they want to prove they can play with the so-called big boys.

This time, Paterno really stirred up a hornet's nest with his weekend challenge that Dartmouth, the Lambert Trophy champs with a 9-0 record, play runner-up Penn State, 7-3, for "the Eastern championship."

Paterno qualified that somewhat Monday following a charge by Dartmouth that he was "trying to salvage the Lambert Trophy," which is awarded annually for outstanding performance and which Penn State won the past three years. The final vote was taken over the weekend.

"The suggestion had nothing to do with the Lambert," Paterno insisted. "I never mentioned that. I knew Dartmouth would get it and they should get it. I thought we could combine two things—get people a little excited about Eastern football and raise some money to help the funds at Wichita State and Marshall.

"I was a little surprised at Dartmouth's reaction. I thought they'd really be anxious to play us. Maybe I'm naive, but I didn't realize Dartmouth would have to get permission from the Ivy presidents and I also didn't know such a game would have to be approved by the NCAA by Sept. 15. I thought you could schedule an 11th game any time you wanted to.

"And it doesn't have to be Penn State. I just think a game between the Ivy champion and a leading Eastern independent would do a lot to promote Eastern football. Frankly, I'm not sure we're better than Syracuse. They were by far the superior team the day they beat us. But until the Ivies play someone like Penn State, Syracuse, Army or Navy, I don't see how you can evaluate them."

At Dartmouth, Bob Blackman had a few needles of his own honed and waiting.

"I was a little bit amused and in a way kind of disappointed," he said. "It doesn't take a great deal of courage to challenge someone when you know beforehand that a man's hands are tied behind his back," Blackman continued, referring to the perennial reluctance of the Ivy presidents to change their athletic policy. "They're not about to change the rule on a few days' notice.

"I don't think the Penn State players are anxious to extend their season since they turned down the Peach Bowl. The turndown makes the challenge sound a little ridiculous.

"If we had challenged Penn State last year they would have said it was ridiculous because we had lost a game. Besides, if the rule ever is changed we'd prefer to play somebody with a better record than Penn State."

Talk about weird endings. Harvard's quarterback, Eric Crone, backpedaled into his own end zone and allowed himself to be tackled for a deliberate safety as the gun sounded in a 14-12 victory over Yale.

Also on the last play, Colorado's John Stearns intercepted an Air Force pass and started upfield. Around midfield, he was tackled and the ball squirted loose into the hands of an Air Force player, who had possession just long enough to fumble it right back ... into Stearns' hands as he lay on the ground. An interception and fumble recovery on the same play.

Arizona State's Mike Clupper picked off a New Mexico pass on the last play, of course—and headed goalward, only to run into about 200 kids who thought the game had ended. With the youngsters dodging players and players sidestepping youngsters, Clupper was tackled near the 50. "I felt like lateralling to one of those kids," he said.

William & Mary's Steve Regan, all of 5-foot-8 and 155 pounds, started the season as the Indians' fourth-string quarterback. He became a starter in the sixth game after injuries sidelined Nos. 1 and 2 and inconsistency benched No. 3.

All Regan did Saturday in a 34-33 triumph over Richmond that gave W&M a Tangerine Bowl berth was complete 14 of 20 passes for 261 yards and three touchdowns and carry 13 times for 60 yards and a score.

In the final minute, with the ball on his own 20, Regan completed a 30-yard pass, a 10-yarder and a 40-yard for the winning TD with 12 seconds left.

No wonder Coach Lou Holtz observed later, "I'm numb!" And he was. A soft drink slipped right through his hands without his ever feeling it.

"Well," said an unnamed player, "there's our fifth fumble ... only this one didn't hurt."

JIM DAVIDSON, 1801 Oklahoma, bagged a 200 pound 8 point buck in Carter County off Route Z five miles S. of Van Buren last week.

Oak Ridge Tips off Season With Victory

OAK RIDGE — The Oak Ridge Bluejays started out on the right foot for the 1970 campaign, as they skinned the Marquand Tigers by the score of 73-50 here Friday night.

The Bluejays played rusty for the contest's first three grames, but finally got flying straight in the final quarter.

The Jays return four starters off last year's successful 19-5 squad. Two of these returnees, Tim Ford and Gary Stearns, showed Marquand the fine art of rebounding as the duo ripped a total of 57 rebounds off the boards. Ford, who grabbed 34 himself, also pumped in twenty-five big markers to lead the night's scoring David Lang also had his sights in focus as he tallied 17, with Bob Hahs close behind with 13.

Marquand had a trio of men in twin figures, with Robbie Stevens leading the way with 16 markers. Mike Duvall and Jerry Stevens were right, however, with 14 and 12 respectively.

Oak Ridge picked up a victory in the junior varsity contest also, by the margin of 51-31. Jim Seabaugh led the Eagles victory bid as he dropped in 14 points. The Tigers were paced in a losing cause by Mike Boswell, also with 14.

Scoring:

Pecun Bowl Draws A-State Central Mo.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The NCAA has announced acceptance of invitations by Central Missouri State and Arkansas State to play in the Pecan Bowl, Dec. 12, at Arlington, Tex.

Arkansas State finished is its season undefeated in 10 games. Central Missouri was 9-1.

Edges Comets

NEELYVILLE — The Neelyville Tigers played their opponents own game to their own advantage here Friday night, as they slipped by the visiting Alton Comets 42-39. This marks the Tigers' first victory under the tutorship of new coach Terry Tomlison, a former Holcomb head man.

Alton started out in the junior varsity game playing a slow deliberate type of contest, but it worked to Neelyville's advantage in the early contest also, as they came out with a 15-14 win. Alton continued the slow type of play into the varsity encounter but Neelyville played right along to record their first win in three starts.

Owen Jenkisn was the night's top scorer as he connected for 23 big Tiger markers, more than half of Neelyville's total production.

Alton, which registered their first loss, as paced by Keith Ledgewood with 14 and Bo Presley with 13.

Neelyville lays out the rest of November and half of December now, as they wait until December 15 to return to the boards against Naylor.

Scoring:

Neelyville (42)

Jenkins 23, Henry 2, Tyler 4, McCarn 2, Young 2, R. Emmons 4 T Emmons 5; totals: FG 18; Ft 6; PF 12.

Buckeyes Make Move

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State replaced Notre Dame as the No. 2 team in The Associated Press college football poll today, diminishing the possibility of the Fighting Irish meeting Texas in a Cotton Bowl battle between the top two teams in the nation.

Texas, which did not play over the weekend, held onto the top spot but Ohio State's 20-9 revenge victory over Michigan vaulted the Buckeyes from fifth to second. They had started the season in first place.

Nebraska remained third with a 28-21 triumph over Oklahoma but Notre Dame's 3-0 squeaker over Louisiana State resulted in a drop from second to fourth. LSU inched from seventh to sixth by one point despite the setback.

Arkansas, heading for a Dec. 5 shootout with Texas for the Southwest Conference crown and the right to face Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, climbed one spot to fifth with a 24-10 decision over Texas Tech, which had been ranked 19th but fell out of the Top Twenty. Tennessee drubbed Kentucky 45-0 and shot from eighth to seventh.

Michigan, which saw its unbeaten dreams tumble in Ohio Stadium, slipped from fifth to eighth. Arizona State, still undefeated following a 33-21 win REMAINED IN NINTH PLACE BUT Mississippi, idle over the weekend, rose from 12th to 10th while the Air Force went from 10th to 12th after a 49-19 blasting by Colorado.

Texas garnered 20 first-place votes and 794 points from a panel of 45 sports writers and broadcasters across the country. Ohio State received 14 votes for No. 1 and 760 points while Nebraska had six first-place votes and 718 points and Notre Dame pulled down three top ballots and 676 points. The other two first-place votes went to Arizona State.

Auburn, which also had the weekend off, jumped from 13th to 11th while Stanford, a 22-14 loser to California, went from 11th to 13th.

Rounding out the Top Twenty were Dartmouth, Toledo, Georgia Tech, Penn State, Northwestern, Colorado and Washington.

The last two replaced San Diego State and Texas Tech in the Top Twenty.

The Top Twenty teams, with first-place votes in parentheses and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8 etc.:

1. Texas (20) 812
2. Ohio State (14) 760
3. Nebraska (6) 718
4. Notre Dame (3) 676
5. Arkansas 482

Memoirs Credited to Khrushchev Renew Renunciation of Stalin

NEW YORK (AP) — As premier of the Soviet Union, Nikita S. Khrushchev led the campaign during the 1950s to dishonor the name of Joseph Stalin. Reminiscences attributed to him by Life magazine renew his denunciation but say Stalin's second wife kept Khrushchev alive so he could rise to power.

The first of four installments, published in the magazine's Nov. 27 issue, describe Stalin as a brutal man and murderer of millions who became unbalanced during World War II. He distrusted everyone, his inner circle distrusted him and each other, and as early as 1923 Lenin wrote that Stalin had the requisite qualities for leadership but was not above abusing power, the article says.

The reminiscences say Stalin had an insatiable capacity for alcohol and permitted thousands of Russians to starve because he thought pleas for help were plots against the state.

The reminiscences are being published later in book form by Little, Brown & Co.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported last week that Khrushchev said the memoirs were a fabrication, and he was indignant at this." It was the first time Khrushchev had been quoted in the Soviet media since he was ousted in 1964 by Leonid I. Brezhnev and Alexei N. Kosygin.

Ralph Graves, managing editor of Life, said the magazine had spent a year verifying the authenticity of the manuscript. "We had to be sure that what we had was not a fabrication," Graves wrote in a foreword. He said the editors expected a repudiation from Moscow.

Now 76, Khrushchev has had heart trouble since last June and has been hospitalized twice recently. He lives in seclusion in a villa 15 miles from Moscow.

Khrushchev, according to the publication in Life, says Stalin's excesses, "unpleasant as they may be," must be spelled out for "the self-purification of our party."

"What I say is not slander, and it's not malicious gossip ... As a witness to (the Stalin) years, I address myself to the generations of the future, in hope that they will avoid the mistakes of the past."

The recollections also express concern because "a few of our influential military leaders ... are trying to whitewash Stalin and put him back on his pedestal. They're trying to prove that if it hadn't been for Stalin, we would never have won the war against Hitlerite Germany. The reasoning behind this sort of claim is stupid.

"Just because Stalin isn't around any more, does that mean we will succumb to German or English or American influence? Of course not. The Soviet people will always be able to produce leaders and to defend our country against invaders, just as we've always defended ourselves in the past."

The article accused Stalin of causing disastrous crop failures throughout the Soviet Union in the early 1930s, then liquidating those around him as being responsible for the famine. It says that during the great purges of the 1930s, Stalin murdered millions of persons, including some of the country's greatest military tacticians.

"Honest, loyal Leninists, devoted to the cause of the Revolution— they were the first to go when Stalin imposed his arbitrary rule on the party," the article said. "We have no choice but to rehabilitate all of Stalin's victims ... All those who perished should not only be given back their names; they should be presented to the people as martyrs of the terror waged by Stalin."

The slaughter of military bosses who Stalin thought wanted to overthrow him reduced the effectiveness of the Soviet army when Germany attacked, the article charged.

Khrushchev survived the purges, the articles says, because he was teaching Communist party dogma at the Moscow Industrial Academy to Nadezhda Sergeyevna Alliluyeva, Stalin's second wife who committed suicide in 1932.

"I stayed alive while most of my contemporaries, my classmates at the Academy, lost their heads as enemies of the people," the article says. "I've often asked myself, 'How was I spared?' I think part of the answer is that Nadya's reports helped determine Stalin's attitude toward me. I call it my lottery ticket. I drew a lucky lottery ticket when it happened that Stalin observed my activities through Nadezhda Sergeyevna. It was because of her that Stalin trusted me.

"In later years he sometimes attacked and insulted me; but right up until the last day of his life he liked me. It would be stupid to talk about this man loving anyone, but there's no doubt that he held me in great respect."

Sheriff Rides Horse After Losing Driver License

CAMPBELLSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Sheriff Junior Sprowles' ability to catch speeding motorists is now down to one horsepower.

The state recently picked up the sheriff's driver's license—an action still being disputed—so he's riding a five-gaited show horse to work.

After Sprowles makes his daily rounds in this community of about 7,000, he hitches Prince outside the courthouse in the space ordinarily reserved for his cruiser.

"I don't need an operator's license, no license tag, nor do I have to pay the $10 fee the city charges motorists," the 47-year-old officer said.

The sheriff was arrested Oct. 18 by Campbellsville police. He was charged with drunken driving after refusing to submit to a Breathalyzer test. Under Kentucky law, this is grounds for a six-month license suspension.

Sprowles denies he was drinking.

$1,012 Collected For Telethon

CHARLESTON — The Charleston Auxiliary Wives collected $1,012.60 for the Crippled Children's telethon Saturday and Sunday by using a road block technique.

Pledges by telephone totalling $225.46 were also relayed from Charleston to the Channel 6 studios during the 14-hour event.

Jack Carson, chairman of the Easter Seal Society, which benefits from the telethon, said East Prairie results have not been turned in.

In 1895, The World Almanac recalls, Booker T. Washington, an American Negro educator, made a controversial speech calling upon his race to concentrate on gaining material advantages rather than social equality through agitation or militancy. Opponents contended that the full rights of citizenship guaranteed by the Constitution could not be realized within this theory.

Attitude Survey in Charleston

CHARLESTON — Residents of Charleston have an opportunity this week to tell what is right or wrong with the community through a Community Attitude Survey" being conducted by the Community Betterment Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Marion Waggener, Community Betterment chairman, said the questionnaire covers nearly every phase of community life, including business and residential areas, recreation, and community services.

The survey form is printed on the opinion page of today's Enterprise- Courier, and is to be filled out by Charleston residents and mailed or brought to the Chamber of Commerce office.

"The object of the survey," Mr. Waggener said, "is to find out exactly where Charleston is doing a good job and where it is falling down.

"Many cities and towns are losing their most important asset, people, to other communities. Often this happens in spite of the best efforts of the losing community. The problem may be that the community leaders have overlooked some vital area of community life.

"We want to know how Charleston measures up as a place to live, and the only way we can be sure we are getting a complete and true picture is by asking the people who really know - the people who live here."

Waggener said the survey is a major step in the community betterment program, in which the Chamber is working along with the state Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

Community betterment covers all these aspects of Charleston's life — business, agriculture, education, transportation, beautification, recreation, and many others.

"You hear a lot of talk about industrial development being the key to a prosperous community," Mr. Waggener said, "but that isn't enough. It is only one part of an overall picture which includes improvement in the quality of all elements of community life.

"This survey is important because it will tell us where we are now, and will indicate what has to be done- what all our citizens want to be done - to make Charleston a well- rounded town and a place where our young people will want to settle down and raise their families."

Waggener said the committee hopes all Charleston residents will fill out and return the survey form.

Phony Aspect About Khrushchev Memoirs

By Editorial Research Reports

NEW YORK — The first installment of the purported memoirs of former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev appears in Life magazine on Monday.

Nobody appears to be certain of the source of the forthcoming "reminiscences" of Khrushchev. His wife, Nina, categorically denies that her husband is the author. Experts think they smell a rat. Vitaly Yevgenyevich Lui, alias Victor Louis, is being suggested as the agent who succeeded in placing the memoirs in the West.

Indeed, who could be a more likely candidate? While in London earlier this year, Louis described himself as a family friend of the Khrushchevs who was anxious to be of help in publishing his memoirs. In 1967 Louis had been the key figure in arrangments made by NBC for the documentary titled "Khrushchev in Exile: His opinion and Revelations."

The form of the memoirs, which freely criticize Stalin but refrain from denigrating the present leadership in the Kremlin, would seem to indicate a subtle hand. Louis -- a Soviet citizen of Jewish ancestry who was imprisoned in Siberia under Stalin – takes exactly the same ideological position.

As Moscow correspondent for the London Evening News, Louis has had a remarkable series of exclusives. It was he who predicted the fall of Khrushchev back in 1964, cautioned the world about the likelihood of the invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968, and warned the Chinese last October of the possibility of a Soviet pre-emptive strike against their nuclear installations at Lop Nor. This past summer it was Louis again who announced to the world that Leonid Brezhnev would not be going to Bucharest to sign a Treaty of Friendship with the Rumanians because of a sudden illness.

Louis first accompanies the aging Russian author, Valeri Tarsis, to Britain in February 1966 and then denounced him as a psychotic. As the KGB's literary agent, he pirated a controversial and slightly doctored edition of Svetlana Stalins's memoirs in April 1967. At that time Louis offered western publishers exclusive photographs of the Stalin family for inclusion in the memoirs.

One of the favorite guessing-games of correspondents in Moscow revolves around the question of who protects Victor Louis. When Editorial Research Reports asked Louis in Moscow this summer where he was getting his information about Brezhnev's diplomatic illness, Louis retorted, "Are you asking me or telling me that I work with the KGB?"

"Why can't you believe that I am just a professional journalist?" asked the pudgy, bespectacled Louis. Because, for one, in 1968 Louis became the first Soviet citizen in 19 years to pay a visit to the Nationalist Chinese bastion of Formosa and was received by the "court" of Chiang Kai-schk. Subsequently Louis visited Spain, with which Russia had not had diplomatic relations since the Spanish Civil War, and proceeded to patch things up.

Louis was visibly upset when questioned this summer about the small bust which had been erected in the Kremlin to honor Stalin. But he dismissed this by saying, "We have to place Stalin in perspective." Louis and his wife both seemed to be quite satisfied with their life in Russia. "I don't want any part of your so-called democracy with its pollution and its tasteless white bread," he said. "I had a chance to go to America after I came out of Siberia, but I decided to take my chances here in Moscow."

Pope Honors Monsignor

CHARLESTON — The Rt. Rev. Charles P. Schmitt, pastor of St. Henry's Church, has been elevated to the rank of Protonotory Apostolic by Pope Paul VI.

Announcement of the honor was made this week in The Mirror, newspaper of the Roman Catholic diocese of Springfield - Cape Girardeau.

The parchment document certifying the new honor was presented to Bishop William W. Baum during a recent visit of the bishop to the Vatican in Rome.

The Protonotory Apostolic is the highest honor given in the papal household short of the bishopric. The honor carries with it the title of Reverend Monsignor.

Msgr. Schmitt was honored in recognition of his services to the diocese since its beginnings in 1956. The Charleston pastor has served as vicar general, and during the period between the reassignment of Bishop Charles Helmsing and the appointment of Bishop Ignatius J. Strecker, Msgr. Schmitt also served as administrator of the diocese.

He is currently serving as vicar general along with Msgr. John W. Westhues, who is also rector of St. Agnes Cathedral, Springfield. Msgr. Schmitt is a member of the Council of Administration, Consultors to the Bishop, Synodal Examiners, and director of the Priest's Eucharistic League, Confraternity of the Most Blessed Sacrament. He is also chairman of the diocesan liturgical commission, and a member of the diocesan school board.

Veteran Police Chief Accused Of Oppression

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP)— John Obertz, police chief in Jennings, Mo. for 24 years, surrendered Saturday on three charges of oppression in office.

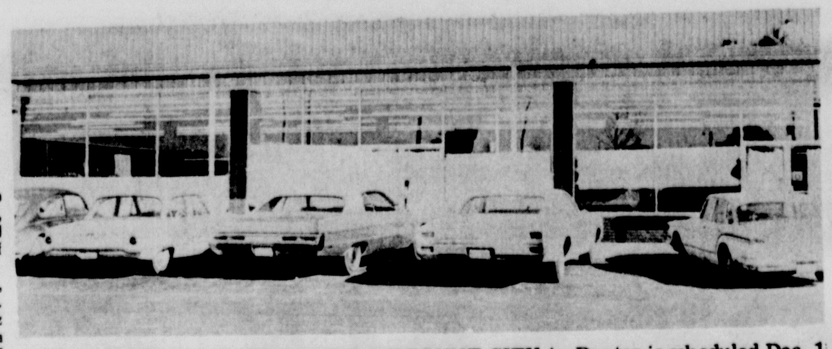
Obertz, 73, retired Oct. 31, giving health and age as reasons.

The charges allege Obertz took sexual advantage of a woman prisoner. The suppressed indictments were returned by a St. Louis County grand jury Thursday.

Obertz was accompanied by an attorney and bondsman when he surrendered. He was released after posting $12,000 bond.

The indictments accused Obertz of committing three acts of oppression in office last April 22. One charge is that he threatened to jail a 22-year-old Negro woman if she did not grant him sexual liberties. The second charge is that Obertz took indecent liberties with the woman and the third charge is that he accepted $57 from the woman in payment for a court fine and costs but that he kept $25 of it.

Last July the St. Louis County grand jury began an investigation of alleged misconduct by Obertz and complaints against the Jennings police department.



THE OPENING OF WAL-MART DISCOUNT CITY in Dexter is scheduled Dec. 1. The store is at the Town and Country Shopping Center, highway 114 West.

Six Indicted in Carbondale Shooting

MURPHYSBORO, Ill — A Jackson county grand jury has indicted six men on 37 counts in connection with a series of shooting incidents last Thursday morning in Carbondale.

State's Attorney Richard Richmond said the jury was in session Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 5:30 and heard "a number of witnesses including several residents of the neighborhood" where the 90-minute battle took place.

He said the following indictments were made by the jury:

Donald M. Jackson — two counts of attempt to commit murder, three counts of aggravated battery and one count of armed violence.

Joe Brown and Thomas Dotson — four counts of attempt to commit murder, eight counts of aggravated assault, one count of criminal damage to property. Brown was also charged with unlawful possession of firearms and Dotson with unlawful use of weapons.

Leonard Thomas, Michael Johnson and James K. Holley — seven counts of attempt to commit murder, seven counts of aggravated assault, one count of mob action and one of criminal damage to property.

Richmond said Holley had originally been identified as Babatuade Dmowali. Holley, Brown and Dotson are still patients at the Doctors Hospital in Carbondale where they are being treated for gunshot wounds.

Richmond said his next step will be to set trial for the six. "It will be as soon as possible," he said, "Probably in January after the holidays."

In Carbondale, City Manager Wm. Schmidt said he will wait until next week when City Attorney Ron Briggs returns before starting an investigation into the shooting incidents.

The idea of the investigation came after several marches and rallies in support of the arrested men, and a meeting between resident of northeast Carbondale, where the battle took place, and the city manager.

State's Attorney Richmond said he knows of no incidents that would warrant a similar investigation by himself or a grand jury.

Seniority of Each New Senator Already Settled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new senators who take office in January are equal—but they'll soon find out that some are more equal than others.

Though all 10 will become senators the same date, the Senate Rules Committee has already prepared a seniority listing to help in such things as selecting offices, parking places and Senate desks.

It's a system that has been used for more than a quarter of a century.

Thus, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, returning to the Senate after a six-year absence, will be No. 91, while Lawton Chiles Jr. of Florida will be No. 100.

One new senator, Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois, occupied his seat last Tuesday, since he was elected to fill the last four years of the term of the late Everett M. Dirksen. Stevenson is now No. 100, but in January he will outrank his fellow newcomers as No. 90.

For those who take office the same date, they are ranked in this order: former senators (Humphrey is the only one), former House members (seven of the newcomers), and James Buckley of New York and Chiles.

Within each category, the length of congressional experience and then the population of the state determine seniority.

Thus, the seven past and present House members coming to the Senate will rank in this order:

No. 92. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. of Texas.

No. 93. Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio.

No. 94. William E. Brock III of Tennessee.

No. 95. John V. Tunney of California.

No. 96. William V. Roth of Delaware.

No. 97. J. Glenn Beall Jr. of Maryland.

No. 98. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut.

Buckley gets 99th spot ahead of Chiles because New York is bigger than Florida.

Before the new members get a shot at the offices being vacated, those who are already here get a chance, starting with No. 1, Sen. Richard B. Russell, DGa. Most senior senators don't move.

One thing that is not determined absolutely by the seniority list is the assignment of senators to committees by the Democratic Steering Committee and the Republican Committee on Committees. But seniority plays a part when two senators request the same spot.

Jury Acquits Mrs. Thoresen Of Murder

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Louise Thoresen was acquitted Friday of murder charges in the death of her millionaire gun collector husband, William Thoresen III.

The eight-man, four-women jury returned their verdict just 11 hours after they got the case from Judge Joseph J. Joy.

The judge convened court at 3:45 a.m. when the jury reached a verdict, and the court clerk read it aloud.

Mrs. Thoresen was joyfully embraced by her parents in the courtroom. The 34-year-old defendant was not set free, however, since she is being held on a New York warrant involving a gun charge.

Mrs. Thoresen's husband, son of a Chicago steel executive, was shot to death in the couple's Fresno home last June 10.

In his summation, Deputy Dist. Atty. Frank Wells showed the jury color photos of the bullet-riddled back of the victim. The holes were close together. Wells commented:

"That, ladies and gentlemen, is known as a good group. To get that kind of group you have to aim, and that takes time."

Kenneth DeVaney, one of Mrs. Thoresen's lawyers, talked to the jury while beating the floor with a riding crop he said Thoresen used to beat his 34-year-old wife. Said DeVaney:

"Either Louise Thoresen is guilty of murder in the first degree or she is not guilty. We say she is not guilty."

Thoresen, said DeVaney, "was a madman, a sick man, a depraved man."

The prosecution had argued throughout the trial that Mrs. Thoresen killed her husband for the rest of her husband's estate and the love for another man, and that she ended Thoresen's life while he slept.

The defense contended Thoresen committed repeated attacks on his wife, and toward the end became "like an animal that gives warning before it strikes" and had so warned his wife before he was killed.

Defense lawyer James Shepard told why his client killed her husband:

"She was standing there by the bed with two broken ribs and a punctured ear drum" from a beating administered earlier.

"She could hardly raise her left arm ... I don't know what you would have done but I have my own thought in the matter."

POLLY'S POINTERS

Here Are Some Uses For Baby Food Jars

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Shirley can make paperweights with some of her many baby food jars. Tint water with food coloring and pour into jars. Place a sprig or one big plastic flower (big enough so it does not drift into different positions) in the water with the stem side up. Add a small handful of sequins and twist the lid on each jar very tightly. Turn upside down and watch the sequins settle in a different place each time a jar is moved. The lids could first be spray painted. It also may make you feel better to know none of mine have ever leaked.—PEGGY

DEAR POLLY—Shirley could fill some of those many leftover baby food jars with homemade jelly. Fill them with several different kinds of jelly and arrange the jars in a wicker basket or whatever you like. Wrap the entire package in transparent wrap and add a bow to have a very personal, attractive and inexpensive Christmas gift for someone.—MRS. J. P.

DEAR POLLY—Shirley could make beautiful candle sticks with leftover baby food jars. I used 4½-ounce jars. Remove paper labels and screw lids on tightly. With all-purpose white glue, glue three jars together, one on top of another. Then do four, one on top of another, then the same with two. Let glue dry completely. Take three lids from other jars and place them upside down on top of each of the three groups made, glue them on and let dry. I spray-painted each of mine black and have three smart candlesticks of graduated heights. I put large, short candles in the top of each, but any size candles could be used. The lid on top catches the drippings. Of course, these could be painted any desired color but black looks smart with my Spanish furniture and black iron accessories.—JAN

DEAR POLLY—My daughter made cute Santa Claus candy jars from small baby food jars. Cut a piece of red felt in the shape of a quarter-circle so one side fits around the jar lid, fold it like a dunce cap. Sew it down in the middle, fold the point down, put a little tassel on the point and a white felt band on the bottom. Cut another white felt band and glue it on the bottom of the jar for a belt. Add a fat white mustache, a little red circle tongue, two black dots for eyes, white eyebrows and a green bow for a tie under the mouth. Fill jar with small candies. Very cute for favors or to give small visitors during the holidays. —C. L. J.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have some lovely old thumbprint pattern glasses with one-inch red bands around the rims. Most of this color has worn off, so I wonder if it would be possible to remove the remaining color. There might be some collectors of old glass among your readers who could help me.—MRS. E. D.

IT'S THANKSGIVING. BUT WHAT IF YOU HAVE NO BLESSINGS TO COUNT?

Consider for a moment.

Suppose you were the poorest man in all America. Without shoes. Adequate clothing or housing. Without education. Ill fed. Sick. Maligned.

What would you have to be thankful for while most of the rest of America was sitting down to a fat turkey dinner?

You would still have the breath of God in your lungs.

You would still have that most beautiful gift of all gifts, the ability to hope.

You would still possess God's love.

But very probably, since you're reading this newspaper, you're not the poorest man in all America.

It's likely you have a television set.

A warm bed to sleep in.

A happy feast to share with relatives and friends this Thanksgiving Day.

In short—lucky you—you do, indeed have a lot to thank God for.

And while you're thanking God, don't forget to thank Him for yet another gift He's given you. The ability to help others. The desire to share. To open your heart and your hand and your mind to someone, somewhere, who just might not be quite as lucky as you are.

Think. If everybody exercised this wonderful gift, imagine how much more this old world would have to be thankful for on Thanksgiving, 1971!

Battle Shapes Over Supersonic Transport

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON — The Senate will vote sometime before Dec. 1 on he Nixon administration's request for $290 million to continue development of a supersonic transport.

One of the major battles of the interminable 91st Congress is shaping up over the fate of America's supersonic transport program. At issue is a $290 million appropriation for development of two SST prototypes. But in a broader context, the outcome will affect such basic concerns as protection of the enviornment, the setting of national priorities, and U.S. technological leadership.

Both sides forecast victory. Sen. Mike Gravel (D Alaska) predicts at least 65 votes in the Senate in favor of the appropriation during the special congressional session. The House barely approved the money last May 27 by a 176 to 168 roll-call vote.

Since that time, the appropriation -- part of a comprehensive transportation budget of $7.052 billion - has been marking time on the Senate side while supporters try to find a propitious time for a showdown. Meantime, both sides are lobbying intensively.

Anti-SST forces have grouped together in an organization known as Coalition Against the Supersonic Transport. It contains such diverse interests as the Consumer Federation of America, the National Taxpayers Union, the Sierra Club, Friends of the Earth, the United Auto Workers, and the Longshoremen's Union. By the coalition's count, 43 Senators are on record against the SST funding, three have indicated reservations, and 12 more are "receptive" to arguments.

Floor leadership of the anti-SST fight rests in the hands of an unlikely foursome: Sens. William Proxmire (D Wis.), Marlow W. Cook (R Ky.), Charles H. Percy (R Ill.) and Harry F. Byrd Jr. (D Va.). Their job, among others, is to keep down the number of absentees for the climactic vote.

Lobbying in favor of the SST is a similarly mixed bag of forces. The AFL-CIO executive council announced in August that it wouldpress for approval, arguing that the United States "cannot afford to be left in the lurch" in world competition for an SST. Aerospace companies also are putting on the heat. Fairchild-Hiller is buying radio spots in Washington, D. C., to describe how its subcontract on he SST would bring 700 jobs to Hagerstown, Md.

Deep cutbacks in aerospace employment make the SST a bread-and-butter issue in that industry. In full production, the SST program is forecast to provide 50,000 jobs in 40 states, and 100,000 more in supporting activities. Of immediate concern is the status of 5,000 jobs -- in depressed Seattle, where Boeing is building the prototypes, and in Cincinnati, where General Electric is at work on the engines.

The Department of Transportation has set up an SST "command post" to provide information, day or night, to news media reporters. By dialing 202-962-5555, a caller presumably will receive answers on any question relating to the SST. This system was the brainchild of SST program director William M. Magruder.

Some $708 million already has been appropriated for the SST, just about half of the anticipated cost of building the two prototype. Once started, R & D programs involving sophisticated technology are hard to call off. Congress put up $1.3 billion during the 1950s to develop a nuclear-powered airplane. President Kennedy halfted the project in 1961 when it appeared it might cost $10 billion more to achieve the necessary breakthrough.

Armed Forces

U.S. ARMY, Vietnam — Army Specialist Four John McDermott, son of Vernon H. McDermott, of East Prairie, Mo., received the Army Commendation Medal near Chu Lai, Vietnam.

McDermott received the award for heroism in action while engaged in military operations against a hostile force in Vietnam.

He is assigned as an operator with the 39th engineer battalion's 137th engineer company. He entered the army in February 1968 and was last stationed in Germany. He holds the purple heart.

Impact of Union Electric Strike Spans 3 States

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Full impact of a strike by Operating Engineers Local 148 against nine Union Electric Co. plants in Missouri, Iowa and Illinois was expected today during a work stoppage continuing from last week.

Wayne Duckworth, Local 148 business representative, said the walkout at noon Friday followed exhaustion of grievance procedures in a dispute over a work assignment at the company's Portage Des Sioux, Mo., plant.

Pickets were set up later at plants in and around St. Louis, at Bagnell Dam on the Lake of the Ozarks, at Taum Sauk near Ironton, Mo., at Vencie and Cahokia in Illinois and at Keokuk, Iowa.

Supervisory personnel aided in operation of the plants over the weekend, but members of the Electrical Workers Union were expected to honor the Operating Engineers picket lines today.

The union consists of between 1,150 and 1,350 members. Union Electric serves more than 750,000 consumers in its three-state region.

More Funds For Library Network

ST. LOUIS — The Bi - State RMP regional medical library network, in which Missouri Delta Community Hospital is a participant, is one of five projects receiving additional funds for continued operation.

Funds were included in the $1,250,279 award granted to Bi-State Regional Medical Program in St. Louis by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Bi- State RMP is charged with improving health care - particularly in heart disease, cancer and stroke - for patients in southern Illinois and eastern Missouri.

The library network, which began operation last July, is designed to extend medical center library capabilities throughout the region by linking community hospitals with a medical center library in St. Louis, making available loans, reference and photocopy services. Approximately 90 hospitals in Illinois and Missouri are now participating in the project.

The grant also included funds to initiate a coronary care nurses training program and funds to continue the Bi- State RMP Radiation Therapy Consultative Program, the Comprehensive Stroke Diagnostic Demonstration Program, the Nursing Demonstration for Acute Stroke care and the program to develop a health care accessibility system for Pruitt-Igoe, a St. Louis Model Cities housing project.

Improved public health measures have encouraged a giant population explosion that threatens to outrun agricultural production in Colombia. The South American country's 21 million population will rise to 300 million by 1970 if the current trend continues.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

For the first time since 1953 we are planning increases in the rates for many out-of-state calls.

AT&T has filed a new schedule of rates with the Federal Communications Commission which increases charges for customer-dialed interstate calls during weekday business hours and for all operator-assisted interstate calls.

All rates for calls you dial yourself without operator assistance in the evenings, at night, on weekends or on holidays will remain unchanged or be reduced.

The new rates are filed to become effective on January 19, 1971.

Here are the specific provisions of the new rates for out-of-state calls:

1. Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, will be increased — up to 10 cents for the first three minutes.
2. Rates for all operator-assisted calls (including person-to-person, credit-card, collect, and coin telephone calls) will be increased in amounts ranging from 5 cents to 30 cents for the first three minutes.
3. Where rates for the first three minutes of a call are increased, the rates for each additional minute will be increased in a range of one cent to five cents.
4. Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance during evenings, nights, or weekends will remain the same — or, in a few cases, actually be reduced. For example, the rate for calls dialed coast-to-coast from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday, or 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, will still be 70 cents for the first three minutes.

This will be the first general increase in interstate Long Distance rates in 17 years. During that period, in spite of continuing inflation, interstate Long Distance rates have been reduced repeatedly. Even with the increase, the level of these rates will still be about 14 percent below the 1953 level. Yet in those 17 intervening years, the cost of living has gone up 47 percent.

The new rates recognize the higher labor and equipment costs associated with operator-assisted calls, and are designed to increase total revenues from interstate service by about six percent.

We have filed for the increase so that we can assure adequate earnings to attract investors in a money market which, like everything else, has felt the impact of inflation. This ability to attract new capital is essential if we are to continue to provide high-quality telecommunications service and meet the growing demands for communications services in this country.

U.S. POWs . . . How YOU Can Help

THE LETTER on the page opposite is an appeal to Ton Duc Thang, the President of North Vietnam, on behalf of the 1,600 U.S. Servicemen who are prisoners of war or missing in action in Southeast Asia. Below is a translation of the letter, which originally appeared in the San Diego Union and was called to our attention through a reprint in the Teledyne Ryan Aeronautical Reporter.

We ask you to sign the letter and mail it ($.25 postage) to: Ton Duc Thang, President, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam.

Before you do, however, you can do something much more important: Take the letter to the editor of your local newspaper (your base paper, also). Ask him to reprint it and to ask his readers also to write to Hanoi. In this way your action, your drop in the bucket, can be magnified a hundredfold, a thousandfold, a millionfold.

Don't take no for an answer. And don't depend on someone else to do the job for you. YOU have to do it. Lip service is not enough. What we ask here will take perhaps an hour or two of your time. Some of our men in prison camps have sacrificed over five years of their time.

And don't think your action won't have any effect on Hanoi. Since public attention in this country first started focusing on the POW issue there has been a vast increase in the number of U.S. POWs who have been permitted to write home to their families.

Let's make this a national drive. The goal is ten million letters to Hanoi before Christmas. You can help start action in your community to reach that goal. But don't wait. Do it today.

James D. Hessman and
Benjamin F. Schemmer

To the Honorable Ton Duc Thang:

We take this means of appealing to you on a situation which is close to the hearts of all Americans. This issue is not whether Americans should be in Vietnam or whether we should pull all our troops out immediately. The issue is not whether you are right and we are wrong or that we are right and you are wrong.

The issue is the 450 American Servicemen who are held in your prison camps. Another 1,150 are listed as missing and possibly some are your prisoners.

Their situation is our united concern.

Both the "doves and the hawks" of America feel deeply about them and their welfare. We ask you to consider their immediate release. They have no military value to you. They can't hurt or hamper your war effort and no longer would help ours.

These men, like your soldiers, do not institute policy but merely serve as soldiers have done since time began. Like your men, they performed their duty and were willing to sacrifice for their country. Like your soldiers, they left their homes and families not because they wanted to but because their country called on them.

Patriotism is not limited to the men of Vietnam or to the men of America but is the privilege of all men. They fight under their flag whether it be red, white and blue or red, yellow and blue.

Your supporters in this country could take satisfaction from the release of the prisoners. This, more than anything else, would demonstrate that you, too, do not seek revenge against men who did their duty. This, too, would show the world that compassion, not punishment, can lead to peace.

The arguments of your critics that human life means nothing to you would be baseless if you allowed just peace by acting quickly to the appeal.

If your heart contains mercy and your soul compassion and if you truly seek to help the cause of peace, you have an opportunity to achieve these images in the eyes of the world.

The feeling here is that you don't care about the individual; that his needs and wants and desires don't matter; that life is not sacred to you.

Your actions can give lie to these beliefs. An act of amnesty toward American prisoners would show the world that you are concerned with life and that all life is sacred.

Family ties in America are strong and all Americans want these men reunited with their families. Some fathers have never seen their children. Some are missing the joy of watching them grow.

And, the children, they live with a constant dream and hope that they may again be a whole family.

Few men in the history of the world have been given the opportunity that you now have.

History can record you as a man of compassion; a man who respected human life and held it in high value; a man who held that family life is paramount providing a measure of peace to many families.

Return these men to their families and the world would hail you. Retain them and your supporters can't help but wonder about your sincerity and motives.

We address you not as one enemy to another but as one human to another.

As citizens of the United States we have no power to offer anything as individuals but goodwill in exchange for the men you hold. We have no power to make threats if you don't.

We only have hope; hope that you will heed the pleas and restore these men to their families.

Kính thưa Ngài Tôn Đức Thắng:

Chúng tôi dùng hình thức kêu gọi này để lưu ý Ngài về hoàn cảnh đã làm tất cả người Mỹ bận tâm. Lối thoát của việc này không phải là người Mỹ phải có mặt ở Việt-Nam hay người Mỹ phải rút lui-bỏ khỏi tất cả quân đội. Cũng không phải là Ngài có lý hay chúng tôi không có lý, hoặc chúng tôi hành động hợp lý hay Ngài hành động bất hợp lý.

Vấn đề là 450 quân nhân Mỹ đang bị cầm tù ở các trại giam của Ngài. 1150 người khác được ghi là mất tích và có thể một số người đó cũng là tù binh của Ngài.

Tình trạng của họ là mối quan tâm chung của chúng ta. Cả hai phe "bồ câu và diều hâu" ở Mỹ đều ấy này về số phận và tình trạng sức khoẻ của họ. Chúng tôi thỉnh cầu Ngài xét việc phóng thích họ ngay. Họ chẳng có giá trị gì đối với Ngài về quân sự. Họ không làm hại hay cản trở sự chiến đấu của Ngài và không còn giúp ích gì cho chúng tôi.

Cũng như quân nhân của Ngài, họ không xây dựng chính sách, mà chỉ phục vụ như các quân nhân từ ngàn xưa. Cũng như quân nhân của Ngài, họ đã thi hành bổn phận và mong muốn được hy sinh cho sự sống họ. Cũng như quân nhân của Ngài, họ rời bỏ nhà cửa gia đình không phải vì họ muốn như vậy, mà để đáp lời kêu gọi của quê hương.

Lòng yêu nước không phải chỉ dành cho người Việt hay người Mỹ mà là đặc quyền của mọi người. Họ chiến đấu dưới lá cờ của họ dù nó là đỏ, trắng và xanh, hay bạc và vàng.

Những người ủng hộ Ngài ở Mỹ cũng có thể hài lòng về việc Ngài phóng thích tù binh. Việc đó cũng tỏ ra là Ngài không hề thù những người đã thi hành nhiệm vụ của họ. Việc đó cũng cho thế giới nở rộng lòng thương, chứ không phải sự trừng phạt, có thể đưa tới hòa bình.

Nếu Ngài đáp ứng mau lẹ lời kêu gọi này thì Ngài sẽ đánh tan được lời chỉ trích Ngài rằng sinh mạng con người chẳng có nghĩa lý gì với Ngài.

Nếu Ngài có lòng thương và thực sự muốn tìm kiếm hòa bình thì đây là dịp để Ngài thực hiện hình ảnh ấy trước dư luận thế giới.

Người Mỹ cảm thấy rằng Ngài không quan tâm tới cá nhân, cũng như cầu và ý muốn của nó, và mạng sống chẳng có gì là linh thiêng.

Hành động của Ngài sẽ đánh tan ý nghĩ đó. Sự ân xá tù binh Mỹ sẽ tỏ cho thế giới rằng Ngài quan tâm tới sinh mạng linh thiêng của con người.

Giây liên lạc gia đình ở Mỹ rất mỏng vì mọi người Mỹ muốn các tù binh đó được tái hiệp với gia đình họ. Nhiều người cha chưa hề được thấy con họ và nhìn chúng lớn lên. Con họ luôn luôn mong mỏi sự tái hiệp.

Trong lịch sử thế giới, ít nhân vật nào có được dịp may như Ngài hiện có. Lịch sử sẽ ghi nhận Ngài là người có lòng thương, đã tôn trọng và nêu cao sinh mạng con người, đã cứu đời sống gia đình là tuyệt đỉnh và đã giúp sự yên ổn cho nhiều gia đình.

Thế giới sẽ tung hô Ngài nếu các tù binh được sum họp với gia đình. Nếu Ngài còn giam giữ họ thì các người ủng hộ Ngài sẽ nghi ngờ lòng thành thật và ý định của Ngài.

Chúng tôi ngỏ lời với Ngài không phải như địch thủ, mà là người biết thông cảm. Những công dân Hoa Kỳ là các cá nhân tuy không có quyền lực, nhưng có thiện ý để trao đổi cho việc ân xá tù binh. Chúng tôi không có quyền đoạ nạt nếu Ngài không đáp ứng lời thỉnh cầu.

Chúng tôi chỉ hy vọng; hy vọng rằng Ngài sẽ lưu tâm đến lời thỉnh cầu này và giao trả tù binh về với gia đình họ.

The 'New Politics' Is Not Yet a Fact

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

HONOLULU (NEA)

The 1970 elections showed once more how inexact a "science" politics is, and also that it is changing in ways different from those some of the alleged experts contend.

At the candidate level, the most astonishing result was the 700,000-vote margin Gov. Nelson Rockefeller ran up over Arthur Goldberg, probably the most prestigious Democrat he has encountered in his four races in New York.

The simple truth is that Rockefeller has been a good governor and is virtually without equal in these times as a campaigner, while Goldberg proved one of the worst politicians ever to hit the hustings.

On the issue front, the interesting thing is that the clearest factor—the unhappy state of the economy—did not bite as deeply as might have been expected.

Much is being made by the analysts of the fact that a large proportion of the blue-collar workers, presumed to be "floating" because of their disenchantment over racial pressures, campus unrest and crime, "stayed put" in the Democratic column.

But if we are actually in a recession, as countless Democrats insist we are, then the political reaction at the congressional level is mild indeed. Republicans gained two Senate seats and lost just eight (possibly a ninth) in the U.S. House.

It also has to be pointed out that Nixon did not do as well with Senate pickups as he expected (Utah and North Dakota remained Democratic despite high Nixon hopes leaving him with an advance of two and possibly three if Sen. Vance Hartke falls in the official count).

Neither did the Democrats attain their goals. From late June on, their most competent leaders said they could wrench Vermont, New York, Illinois and California Senate seats from the GOP. They won only the latter two. Moreover, their privately voiced late August fears that Maryland Sen. Joseph Tydings and Connecticut nominee Rev. Joseph Duffey might go down were realized.

Republicans expected to lose governorships, with 24 of their 32 on the block. The net loss of 11 (at this writing) surprised them. As I have earlier noted, the gains give Democrats potential building blocks for a harder 1972 presidential try, though the GOP evidently has salvaged Michigan and thus holds six of the northern Big Eight.

The President must be faulted, as I indicated in prior reports, for not attending to these races.

One final note: My coverage of 19 states shows the "new politics" as liberals nebulously define it doesn't exist. The real new politics is old politics updated by modern polling and television techniques. But television has its limits, as proved by the old-style dramatics of Florida's Sen.-elect Lawton Chiles and his 1,000-mile walk, and the failure of rich men's television splurges in New York and Ohio Senate races. Ticket-splitting is the big thing—but that has been coming on for years.

Most Airports Lack Modern Guidance Aids

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than half the airports in the country serving scheduled airliners lack modern guidance devices to help pilots make blind landings in bad weather, an Associated Press study shows.

The government's failure to install the electronic equipment, a congressman charges, places air travel "on a collision course with disaster."

The AP study, made in the wake of the 75-death Marshall University football air tragedy, disclosed that more than 8 million passengers a year land at airports without bad-weather guidance beams.

Even the 747 jumbo jets—the most sophisticated airliners ever built—are slated to begin landing in 13 days at the Phoenix, Ariz., airport, which has no glide slope landing device.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., whose House subcommittee has held hearings on airport safety, charged the Federal Aviation Administration has failed to set airport requirements for control tower radar and instrument landing system (ILS) equipment.

The Huntington, W. Va., airport where Marshall's chartered twin-engine DC9 jet hit a treestudded ridge while coming in too low on a rainy night has neither radar nor a glide slope device.

A glide slope system beams an electronic signal at the plane to line up the crosshairs on a cockpit instrument and turn on a red warning if the jet strays too low or too high. The DC9, like all modern planes, had the equipment—but Huntington's hilltop airport did not.

Phoenix heads a list of 304 airports in the continental United States that also lack the glide slope landing device—including such major points as Las Vegas, Nev.; Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Tucson, Ariz.; Bangor, Maine, and Helena, Mont.

The commercial airports listed in the latest FAA statistics as lacking instrument landing system ILS guidance equipment to help pilots include:

Missouri -- Cape Girardeau, Columbia, Ft. Leonard Wood, Jefferson City, Kirksville, Moberly.

These 304 airports handle nearly 2,000 flights a day—roughly one out of every nine airline landings in the nation.

This picture emerged from an AP analysis of latest FAA statistics and airline schedules, and interviews with airport officials:

—Even at Los Angeles' busy International Airport, no glide slope was available on the western approach over the Pacific until the past few months. It was not added until after 15 persons were killed when a Scandinavian Airlines jet dipped down into the ocean last year. Federal investigators blamed that crash on the pilots' failure to watch their altitude gauges while wrestling with a landing problem. And there was no glide slope to flash on a red warning in the cockpit.

—At Tucson, Ariz., 40 jetliners touch down daily at a desert airport rimmed by mountains rising up to 9,400 feet. In the control tower, one FAA supervisor said the lack of ILS equipment has caused pilots at night to complain "it's like flying into a black hole."

—At Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a court fight over two palm trees near the runway threshhold has blocked, at least temporarily, the use of new ILS equipment installed, but still idle, at an airport serving a half-million passengers a year.

—Even at the FAA's own busy National Airport in Washington, no glide slope equipment was installed for the approach from the north past the heart of the nation's capital until the past year, a quarter-century after the equipment was put in use at the other end of the runway.

Brooks said the FAA had refused to ask Congress for enough money to install the landing devices and control tower radar at airports throughout the nation.

The Texas congressman said the budget bill asked for $60 million less than Congress had authorized for air traffic control. He called this inexcusable.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the FAA's own employes association, Alan R. Miller, called today for installation of the $100,000 ILS systems at all airports serving scheduled airlines, particularly those located in mountainous terrain.

Most of the airports that lack the equipment are small fields that handle only scattered propellor plane landings daily, such as Pasco, Wash., Moab, Utah, and Rhinelander, Wis.

But often-crowded DC9 and 737 jets fly into a score of more cities that also are without the bad-weather help.

The jet airports include Butte, Mont.; Dothan, Ala.; Key West, Fla.; Pierre, S.D.; Albany, Ga.; Idaho Falls, Idaho; Kinston, N.C., and others.

Many of the airports without the equipment are serving college towns with such schools as Yale, Iowa, Missouri, West Virginia, Texas A&M, Mississippi, Cornell, Indiana and Oklahoma State.

A federal safety investigator probing the Marshall University tragedy said the decision whether to install ILS equipment is left up to the local municipalities now.

"However, there will be recommendations coming in this area, I'm pretty sure," he said.

Vitamin C Rated Good Cold Cure

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Linus Pauling, the scientist who won two Nobel prizes, says an effective cure for the common cold is as simple as a walk to the corner store.

Vitamin C can do the job, but people have not been making proper use of it, he said Thursday.

If they did, there would be no more colds, he said at a news conference to discuss his book, "Vitamin C and the Common Cold," scheduled for publication Dec. 7.

Pauling offered the following prescription for cold sufferers:

Take about one- half level teaspoon of the powder form of ascorbic acid — vitamin C— each day until the cold disappears.

When a person first catches a cold, he said, taking about one gram of ascorbic acid each hour will chase the discomfort away.

Pauling said continued suffering with colds "is explained by the fact that in the past, the medical student has been taught little about vitamins and nutrition."

"Fortunately, physicians are now beginning to recognize the value of the vitamins," he added.

Pauling said enough vitamin C for a year's worth of cold protection can be bought for about $5 a person.

It is now available at most grocery and drug stores, he said.

Pauling, a scientist also known as an antiwar crusader, said Americans spend about $500 million a year on "cold remedies which do not prevent colds."

"They may decrease somewhat the misery of the cold, but they also do harm because of their toxicity and side effects," he said.

Pauling, who has received Nobel prizes for chemistry and for peace efforts, said he has been using vitamin C to ward off colds with excellent results for five years.

Fire Destroys Old School

BROSELEY — Fire destroyed the old Calvin School near Broseley Tuesday night and damaged a combine parked near-by.

The blaze started about 7:15 p.m., the Highway Patrol said, at the abandoned school building which is located on Highway 51 south of Broseley.

The combine, owned by Ted Hargrove, was parked next to the building, officers reported. Origin of the fire was not determined.

"Yankee Doodle" was written around 1755, by Dr. Richard Shuckburg, to mock homely clad Colonial troops at Fort Crailo in Rensselaer, N.Y., The World Almanac notes. British troops are believed to have marched to the strains of the song while en route to Lexington and Concord. When the British retreated toward Boston, the Colonial forces followed them singing "Yankee Doodle," which became popularized as an American patriotic song.

High-rise or Split-level?

Apartments are still a bargain in many metropolitan areas, at least in terms of the rate at which rents have been increasing. In a comparative study of rents and home-ownership costs during the last 10 years, Property Research Corp. has determined that home-ownership costs in eight major cities increased between 27 and 44 per cent from 1960 to 1969, while rents rose less than 22 per cent in seven of the eight cities. Chart shows comparative increases in Chicago, New York and San Francisco, where median monthly rates for 1969 were $161, $148 and $154, respectively.

FILLING a $50,000 cavity. Capt. Stephen D. Davis, an Aerospace Defense Command dentist, saved taxpayers about $50,000 when he applied his skill on a unique "patient" at the 776th Radar Squadron, Point Arena, Calif. A radar amplifier tube had developed serious pitting from electrical arcing and was going to have to be replaced after about 900 operating hours. Capt. Davis filled the pitted spots with the same amalgam alloy used to fill teeth, putting the tube back in operation as part of North American Air Defense Command.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

"Are you he is to come, or shall we look for another?" (Matthew 11:3, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear God, who sent Thy Son Jesus Christ, we give Thee thanks for whatever way we are led to accept Him as Savior. May all Christians work together to show Christ to others. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Dear Sir,

We are enclosing one check for a subscription to the Standard. I believe $6.00 is correct for one year, if not please notify us. Also may we have a record of just how long a period the money does cover.

As former residents of Sikeston we have found that we miss reading the paper almost as much as old friends are missed.

One further note- wouldn't it be a nicer world if more people such as Mike Jensen took a genuine interest in their occupation instead of an interest in the money they receive on payday. We enjoyed Mike's article on Junior High Football.

Man Shot to Death in Bed by Four Robbers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Sol Landie, 49, a scrap metal dealer, was shot to death in his bed early Sunday by one of four men who, his wife said, forced their way into his home on the city's southwest side.

His wife, Mrs. Ann Landie, 48, who lay beside him when he was slain, was treated at a hospital for shock. She suffered an abrasion when the gunman placed the barrel of a pistol in her mouth to enforce his demands for money.

The men ransacked the home and escaped with an estimated $1,000.

The gunman placed a pillow next to Landie's head and fired two shots from a .38 caliber pistol through the pillow and into his right ear, killing him instantly, police said.

Mrs. Landie told officers the men ordered the couple to remain in bed with the covers over their heads while the four ransacked the house.

In August, Landie and Alvin Hurst testified before a special grand jury investigating organized gambling in the Kansas City area. Two days after they testified, 12 persons were indicted on gambling charges.

If You Were The Judge

Clubbed Husband Entitled to Divorce

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Ruppert conducted a lot of his business transactions at night clubs. Taking a dim view of this practice, Ruppert's wife waited up for him on each occasion with her own night club, a rolling pin. And, the moment Ruppert would roll in, on tip-toes and shoes in hand, she'd start her own night clubbing. She'd batter him on the head with all the vigor of a nudist trying to swat a mosquito.

Finally, in desperation, Ruppert sued to end his marriage on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

"It's either going to be the end of the marriage," he told the judge, "or the end of me. I've been hit by that rolling pin so many times that just to walk on cobblestones hurts my head."

"But he's the one who causes all the trouble, " was the wife's answer "If he'd stop fooling around with other women, I'd stop clobbering him. He's not kidding me or anyone else. When he goes to to a night club, it's not for business, it's for monkey business."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you free nightclubbing Ruppert from his night clubbing wife?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held, in effect, that while a husband may not be a paragon of virtue, a wife cannot go around beating him over the head and accusing him of unfaithfulness without proof.

Amusing Yarns Of Wacky People In Human Race

BABY, IT'S COLD INSIDE. By S.J. Perelman. Simon & Schuster. $6.50.

Somehow the veteran jester Perelman keeps spinning out his yarns about wacky people (including himself) for year after year. This book is a collection of 32 magazine pieces of recent years, tuned to the aberrations of the so-called human race.

He loves the offbeat anecdote. Often it is a tale of the theater or the films; some of the narratives are about stage concoctions with which he was associated, often with disastrous results; others reflect, with ludicrous effects, his experiences in Hollywood.

He also is a wanderer who makes game of his own downfalls as a tourist. For examples, an account of a dreary boat trip in Florida and a soggy visit to an Irish castle. He also has a sly piece about a Dubliner trading on the legend of James Joyce.

Perelman has a good many jibes about the English. Part of them deal with ignorant snobbery, and one item pokes fun at the studied insolence of English clerks, salesmen, waiters and other service personnel.

A few of these pieces fall flat and seem contrived, as though the author's comic muse had been suffering from a hangover.

Yet Perelman is in there pitching, and he has a good percentage. He deals in farce and folly, and his tangy style makes it all amusing.

Simple Device Might Sustain Moon Colony

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Colonies on the moon may be able to produce their own oxygen and water through a device developed by 10 scientists at the Manned Spacecraft Center here.

The device mixes hydrogen gas with heated lunar soil to produce steam. The steam can be cooled into water, which in turn can be processed to yield oxygen and hydrogen.

"This process would make it possible to sustain manned colonies on the moon or elsewhere in the solar system in the future," said Andre J. Meyer, chief of the advanced studies office. "If a crew of astronauts got stranded on the moon, they could use this system to sustain themselves with oxygen and water."

Dr. Robin Brett, a geochemist at the space center, said scientists and engineers worked out the principles of the simple device and have tested it successfully, using simulated lunar soil.

"Any chemist, if he thought about it for five minutes, could have come up with it," said Brett. "The real break-through was knowing what kind of material is on the moon."

Brett, Meyer and eight other scientists have applied for a patent on the process and the device.

Brett said the oxygen comes from a common lunar mineral called ilmenite, a form of iron oxide. Hydrogen would have to be brought from earth, but most of it could be recirculated after it was used in the process.

Meyer said a device weighing only about 400 pounds could produce all the oxygen needed for four men in a moon station.

Brett and Meyer said the design of the oxygen-water maker has not been applied to any particular mission so far and will not be flown on any of the remaining Apollo moon flights.

Hardin Bids To Calm Farm Furor

WASHINGTON (AP) — As soon as the Senate approved the long-awaited farm bill, Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin tried to calm the troubled waters around dissident farm organizations.

"While there were a few partisan overtones during the past few weeks," Hardin said, "this bill does represent a major cooperative accomplishment on the part of the two parties."

Except for noting "a few partisan overtones" Hardin's view in a statement last week was not new. For almost 20 months of farm policy development, Hardin has maintained an outward role of seeking a "consensus" on programs for 1971-73.

The National Farmers Union, however, discounted the consensus objective sometime ago and opposed the administration-backed farm bill with all the force it could muster.

Now that the bill is ready for President Nixon's signature, the NFU is not letting the administration forget its opposition.

NFU President Tony T. Dechant said in a statement over the weekend that the farm bill is a "reckless exercise in power politics" and that it was a setback for farmers.

The NFU earlier had claimed the farm bill had contributed to Republican election losses in a number of farm-belt states.

"The farm revolt that began in the November election will continue," Dechant said in the latest statement. "It will grow."

The NFU, which had demanded some weeks ago that Hardin resign, says the new farm act pegs government crop supports at 1969-70 levels and that rising costs will mean farmers will lose more than $1.2 billion over the next three years.

"Forcing the farmer to pay the heavy cost of inflation may seem politically expedient," Dechant said. "But as the realization spreads through the rural business community, it will become apparent that backers of the Nixon administration farm bill were misled."

Dechant predicted that higher prices will force consumers into "a political revolt unprecedented in the nation" as a result.

Bridge Bids To Be Received On Dec. 18

CHARLESTON - The first bids on construction of the Interstate 57 highway bridge over the Mississippi River northeast of Charleston will be received Dec. 18, public works director William F. Cellini announced Monday in Springfield, Ill.

The cost of the bridge connecting Illinois and Missouri will run nearly $20 million.

The bridge is a major project in the 1970 highway program. It will be funded up to 90 per cent by federal funds. Illinois and Missouri will share the remainder of costs.

Work can begin on the structure seven miles north of Cairo as soon as contracts are awarded, Cellini said. Construction is expected to begin this winter on dry land grading, clearing and cofferdams.

Chilling Gamble On U.S. Security

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)

During the past seven years the National Security Council, several presidents and their cabinets have gambled at considerable possible risk to U.S. security that this country would not be faced with a major military crisis anyplace in the world—over and above Vietnam.

Data now available indicates that so many combat-ready troops and so much in arms and equipment were requisitioned for Vietnam from American forces in the United States, Europe, the Mediterranean and other parts of the world that if such a major crisis had developed in the Japan-Korea, Taiwan (Nationalist China), Middle East or Western Europe, the United States likely would not have been able to meet the situation with the necessary forces in the time limits modern war requires.

In the bookish language of the military: "In the case of a major requirement that had priority over Southeast Asia operations, it is doubtful if forces could have been redeployed from Vietnam to a new theater rapidly enough to meet the demands of that situation."

This is a chilling observation.

This gamble has only been possible because during the worst of the Vietnam period, when demands for men, arms and equipment were the greatest, the United States had a commanding nuclear ICBM, missile submarine (Polaris) and long-range bomber superiority over the Russians.

With that massive nuclear advantage gone, in all probability we shall never again be able to take such a risky gamble as we have taken in Vietnam.

We are certainly in no position militarily to take it now.

The Vietnam war-caused deficiencies, not yet fully corrected, are serious enough to give any U.S. president pause:

- A lag in making modifications (improvements) in the operating capability of naval planes outside Southeast Asia.
- A potentially serious drawdown of some type of munitions.
- A high percentage of planes, helicopters, vehicles, and other weapons and equipment out of operation worldwide for repairs because of old age and because of a shortage of skilled repairmen and parts.
- An unacceptably high percentage of obsolete arms and equipment in the hands of combat-ready troops.

Moscow, of course, is well-aware of these American weaknesses, which have developed at the very time the Russians have assiduously built up their naval, air and ground strengths (as well as nuclear power).

This may be the reason Moscow seemingly is willing to take more risks of late—as in the Middle East.

It also is the reason for the Nixon doctrine—which aims at taking the more limited American power (more limited when compared to Russia's growing strength) and applying it, if possible, only where most effective, and above all making every attempt not to dilute that power by letting it get bogged down in "small" wars.

Under Twenty

Dear Astrid

Dear Astrid: There is a certain boy in my school I have a mad crush on. He's a grade higher and a great guy. I would like to get his attention. I have a feeling he likes girls who don't smoke or drink and I don't do either. I am not trying to sound conceited, but I'm not ugly. I've tried to get him out of my mind for a while but I haven't been able to. He lives around me but it is as if I don't exist. How can I get his attention? I'm simply going mad!----Desperate

Dear Desperate: Relax a little and ask yourself a few questions. Start with: why hasn't he noticed me before? Then, what does he do that I also enjoy doing? Finally, consider the activities and events which you commonly share in at school and in your community. The best time to break the ice is at some activity with other people around so that it is perfectly natural to start a casual conversation. A compliment is always an excellent way to begin. Dear Astrid: At two different times I have liked boys that I don't care about now. They still keep asking me out, after I thought they had gotten the hint. I try to be mean when I say "no" to them but the thought of spending a date with them makes my skin crawl, I just want to be friends. Well, now they are mad and telling lies about me to their friends so that the whole group hates me. I can't make myself like someone I don't. Are these boys acting dumb about this situation, or am I the one who's acting dumb? What did I do wrong? ----Puzzled

Dear Puzzled: Apparently you did not use enought tact when you refused dates with your "friends". If the idea of spending a date with them "makes you skin crawl", there is a good chance they sensed this feeling in your turn-down. Remember that the girl who can say "no". and still remain friends has something called "diplomacy" going for her. As for the "lies". the boys are spreading, why not say, "Look, men, I consider you my friends and I've been hearing some foolish things which I don't believe you could have possibly said?" Then take it from there in a heart-toheart talk.

Dear Astrid: I have been going out with a boy for the past two weeks. We see each other at school and he says he really likes me a lot. The problem is I like another one more and he knows it, but when the first boy sees me with this one, he thinks I don't like him. I don't want to tell the present one I don't want to go out any more because I don't want to hurt his feelings. Is there any way I can make it known that I still like him? ---Likes Two

Dear Likes Two: Both boys will respect you more if you level with them. Be honest with yourself and you will find your problems diminished. Perhaps you can explain your dating one boy to the other by saying something like "Maybe I.m still acting young but please understand. You're very special to me, too." Then do a little thinking about which is really the more important to you. You've heard about people who try to eat their cake and have it too.

Today In History

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 24, the 328th day of 1970. There are 37 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1963, the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy, Lee Harvey Oswald, was shot to death by Jack Ruby in Dallas, Tex. Millions of Americans witnessed the shooting on television.

On this date:

In 1867, barbed wire was patented by Joseph Glidden of De Kalb, Ill.

In 1869, the American woman Suffrage Association was formed in Cleveland, Ohio.

In 1942, the Germans were suffering heavy losses in the World War II battle of Stalingrad.

In 1958, one-third of the passenger airliners in the United States were grounded by strikes.

In 1959, 11 persons were killed as an airliner crashed through an area of small homes and apartments near Chicago's Midway Airport.

Ten years ago: The leaders of Communist parties from about 85 countries were meeting in Moscow.

Five years ago: The ruler of the oil-rich kingdom of Kuwait, Sheik Abdullah As - Salem AsSabah, died of a heart attack.

One year ago: The Apollo 12 astronauts returned to earth from man's second landing on the moon.

25 Expected At Conference For Governors

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C. (AP) — At least 10 governors and 15 governors-elect will gather in Southern Pines next weekend for an orientation session sponsored by the National Governors' Conference.

The orientation session will be held in connection with a meeting of the executive committee of the Nationl Governors' Conference.

All the sessions will be closed to the press and public.

The seminars will cover such topics as federal-state-local relations, press relations, budget preparations and organizations of the governor's office.

Eight of the nine members of the conference executive committee also have signified they plan to attend the meetings. Some of them will serve on the faculty for the seminars for new governors.

The eight are Warren Hearnes of Missouri, executive committee chairman, Forrest Anderson of Montana, William Cahill of Virginia, Marvin Mandel of Maryland, Robert D. Ray of Iowa, Jack Williams of Arizona and Bob Scott of North Carolina.

Truck Stolen Near Parma

PARMA — A 1961 International two-ton truck was stolen from the Mahan and Radcliff Gin north of Parma after 2 p.m. Monday, the Highway Patrol reported yesterday.

The truck, which has a pusher type axle and is green in color, has "Mack Bain, Rt. 1, Parma," painted on both doors.

Authorities reported that a load of beans from the near-by elevator may have been stolen on the truck. The gin is about seven miles north of Parma.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Here's Inside story of Fulbright-Rogers confrontation; State Dept. stalls Tydings report until after election; Nixon, once burned, keeps out of Senate Leadership vote.

Living Cost Rise Tops in 6 Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs in October took the sharpest jump in six months, the government reported today. The rise of six-tenths of one per cent appeared to dash White House hopes that the nation's worst inflation in 20 years was easing.

The Labor Deprtment reported at the same time that the average pay of some 45 million rank and file workers dropped 33 cents a week to $121.03 because of a drop in the work week, and inflation cut purchasing power 2.5 per cent below a year ago.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, the source of the living costs report, said the only break for consumers in October was a drop of three-tenths of one per cent in grocery prices.

The report followed by one day these other developments affecting the economy:

—The Federal Home Loan Bank disclosed plans to pump more than $1 billion into the slumping home mortgage market, to drive down interest rates next year.

—The Committee for Economic Development (CED), composed of industrial and financial leaders, called for a return to voluntary wage and price guidelines to help curb inflation.

The living costs report showed transportation costs shot up 1.9 per cent for October because of a big hike in prices of new and used cars and gasoline.

Clothing prices were also up sharply, nine-tenths of one per cent.

The big October price rise pushed the government's Consumer Price Index up to 137.4, meaning it took $13.74 last month for every $10 worth of typical family living costs in the 1957-59 period in which the index is based.

The rise pushed living costs up 5.9 per cent above a year ago, close to the 6 per cent annual rate of rise that has prevailed for most of the past two years.

Before the October jump, living costs in the previous three months had tapered off somewhat and the Nixon administration had began hinting at easing some of its stringent fiscal and monetary policies that have sharply slowed the economy in an attempt to curb inflation.

The bureau said that on a seasonally based adjustment the October rise was slightly lower, five-tenths of one per cent.

The unadjusted figure of sixtenths was the largest monthly jump of that size since last April and the fourth of that magnitude in the past 18 months.

Housing costs rose five-tenths of one per cent in October, recreation costs were also up fivetenths. Medical care rose twothirds for one of the smaller rises in that category in some time.

The Nixon administration welcomed the lower-interest move of the Federal Home Loan Bank.

As for the CED's proposed wage-price guideposts, the administration has considered and rejected such an idea as unworkable.

Nevertheless, guideposts should be developed by the existing National Commission on Productivity or a presidentially appointed board, said the business research organization, and excessive wage settlements or price boosts should be publicized in advance, where possible.

"It should be clearly understood that what we are advocating are voluntary wage-price policies," said the CED. "We are opposed to mandatory controls, except in the event of a major war."

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board's chairman, Preston Martin, said the first allotment of $85 million to break the high interest chain should be available soon.

The money will be funneled through the board's new quasipublic arm, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp., to buy up federally guaranteed mortgages, doubling the current amount, and thereby freeing more money to lending home buyers.

The effective interest rate to borrowers must go down, he said, because loans must be made to families with too much income for public housing assistance and too little to get ordinary loans.

A Treasury Department official said today, however, that the administration must move cautiously in 1971 to encourage economic expansion without risking further inflation.

"Now, the major emphasis on policy needs to be towards fostering a rapid enough economic expansion to absorb the growing labor force as well as to make some inroads on the present level of unemployment," said Asst. Secretary Murray L. Weidenbaum.

Laird Calls POW Camp Raid Necessary Show Of Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today North Vietnamese guards and air defense systems were caught "completely by surprise" in a raid on a suspected POW camp he said was necessary "to show our men the country really cares."

Laird, emerging from a meeting with senators at the Capitol, said the Pentagon knows of various other suspected POW camps in North Vietnam but most are in populated areas where a surprise landing and rescue mission would be most difficult to attempt.

No prisoners were found in the area that was raided.

In a brief conversation with newsmen Laird did not indicate how many men were in the suspected camp, where they might have been taken or whether the United States might attempt similar missions.

The defense secretary, flanked by an Air Force lieutenant general carrying map cases, said the would-be rescuers found conditions in the raided camp very crude and said, "They confirm our worst suspicions ..."

Laird first disclosed the raid on Monday. Also, a Pentagon source said the United States is keeping its options open on the possibility of more raids to free prisoners.

"We shall continue to make every effort to free our prisoners," Laird said during a news conference. "This mission, this daring mission ...," he went on, "does show our dedication to these men and we will do everything that we can in our power to accomplish their early release."

When asked later if this meant more raids, the Pentagon source declined to rule them out, saying officials weren't closing the door on the possibility.

Laird himself had hinted at possible similar tactics in the future during his opening remarks Monday when he told of preparing contingency plans for commando raids in the face of Hanoi's refusal to negotiate the POW issue. Laird's description of the Saturday raid—made even more dramatic by the presence of the commando leader—caught newsmen by total surprise as he related how specially trained Army and Air Force volunteers flew helicopters through enemy fire in post-midnight darkness to land right in the suspected prisoner of war compound.

"Regrettably the rescue team discovered the camp had recently been vacated," Laird said in solemn tones. "No prisoners were located." But, he went on, "If there had been prisoners in the compound at Son Tay, they would be free men today."

Laird said he ordered the raid with the knowledge and blessing of President Nixon after receiving new information "that some of our men were dying in prisoner of war camps."

The undercover mission was the first mounted to liberate a POW camp in North Vietnam, although, as Laird indicated, helicopters have often flown north of the demilitarized zone to rescue downed American pilots.

In spite of Laird's dour description of the danger facing U.S. prisoners held by Hanoi and his fear for their lives, the commando raid, plus the earlier disclosures of U.S. retaliatory bombing of antiaircraft sites, set off some of the angriest Senate debate since early summer.

War policy critics reacted with surprise and skepticism, and asked whether the administration has given up on negotiating the prisoners' release.

Defending the administration's action, Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said the negotiations have failed.

Immediately, it was asked whether the commando act would bring retaliation by North Vietnam.

The White House answered: "The United States would hold the leaders of North Vietnam personally responsible" for any reprisals taken against U.S. prisoners as a result of the unsuccessful rescue effort.

Describing the operation, Laird said the raiders hit the camp at 2 a.m., Hanoi time, about the same time some 250 U.S. war planes were striking missile, antiaircraft and supply targets in North Vietnam's Southern Panhandle below the 19th parallel.

Navy planes dropped lighting flares off the North Vietnamese coast above the parallel as a diversionary tactic to draw attention from the helicopter-borne commando force.

Although the "protective reaction" air strikes to the south may have helped confuse the North Vietnamese, Laird emphasized they were not intended as a cover for the rescue operation.

The raiders, according to accounts given by Laird and Pentagon sources, apparently went undetected by flying in under enemy radar, and drew fire only when they were over the camp. They were aided by an almost moonless night.

The first helicopter intentionally crash-landed inside the prison compound and the raiders, including some Army Green Berets, destroyed the guard tower. Other helicopters followed. Every building was searched and the locks broken on the detention cells, but no prisoners were found. Enemy resistance was light.

Leading the attack was Army Col. Arthur D. Simons, 52, an infantryman and former Green Beret commander who was introduced by Laird at the news conference along with Air Force Brig. Gen. LeRoy J. Manor, 49, charged with over-all command of the operation.

Both officers, Laird said, arrived in Washington earlier in the day from Saigon and were later taken to the White House and commended personally by the President.

"We caught them completely by surprise," said Simons, adding that his team suffered but one casualty—a man wounded by rifle fire from a Chinesemade AK47. Everyone got out safely, he said.

Asked if his group killed any of the North Vietnamese during the hour they were on the ground, he replied, "I imagine so," but added his men did not stop to count bodies.

Manor said no evidence was found of American graves, but noted it was dark and "we were not searching for that."

No information was given as to the size of the raiding party, the number of helicopters used or where they came from.

Laird said contingency plans for a prisoner rescue attempt were drawn up several months ago "in the face of the continued and adamant refusal of the other side either to abide by the provisions of the Geneva Convention or to participate in meaningful negotiations on the exchange of prisoners of war."

The camp at Son Tay was chosen, Laird explained, because "we were reasonably confident that we could land this force at this location."

Manor said the camp had been abandoned for "several weeks." It was left unclear why North Vietnamese troops were still there.

Asked about the failure of U.S. intelligence in not knowing the camp had been emptied, Laird replied that locating POW compounds is a tough assignment even with the constant use of reconnaissance planes. "The situation was such, however, that we were reasonably confident that this particular location had been used."

In making his startling disclosure, the defense secretary emphasized "this was the only operation that took place north of the 19th parallel this past weekend."

The story of the aborted rescue mission was apparently intended to dispel doubts cast during an earlier Monday news conference in which a Pentagon spokesman steadfastly refused to say whether any U.S. planes hit targets north of the 19th parallel.

Asked if revealing the prisoner rescue attempt compromised future missions of this type, a Pentagon official said that "was one of the things we had to weigh. There were some who wanted to talk about it and some who didn't."

North Vietnam claimed the air strikes—said by Laird to be in retaliation for the downing of an unarmed U.S. reconnaissance jet Nov. 13—hit targets in the Hanoi-Haiphong area, killed civilians and wounded a number of Americans in a POW camp well north of the 19th parallel.

The Pentagon spokesman, Jerry W. Friedham, said pilots were under orders not to attack populated areas or fly above the 19th parallel.

Air Force, Marine and Navy planes participated in the raids and all returned safely, Freidheim said.

Ky Confers for 90 Minutes With Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Cao Ky conferred for 90 minutes at the White House today as Ky began a round of official talks.

The visiting South Vietnamese leader had no comments after the breakfast session with Nixon.

Ky arrived in Washington Monday. He will meet with other administration officials and address the National Press Club today at a luncheon.

Ky was scheduled to meet later with Henry Kissinger, Nixon's top advisor on national security measures.

Although several antiwar groups announced plans to demonstrate against Ky's appearance at the National Press Club, advance criticism fell far short of the uproar of the aborted earlier visit.

Ky, his wife and small official party arrived at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., Monday after a weekend in Williamsburg, Va.

Because the Washington visit is a private one, no U.S. officials were on hand to greet the Ky party. Madame Ky was presented roses by Madame Bui Diem, wife of the Vietnamese ambassador.

Nixon Schedules News Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has scheduled his first news conference in more than four months for Dec. 10.

By that time, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said, Nixon will have made what is expected to be a major speech on the economy and the lame duck session in Congress will be almost over.

The last time Nixon faced the press corps was July 30, Ziegler said the Dec. 10 conference probably would be televised.

Two Grass Fires

Firemen responded to two calls yesterday afternoon but no damage was reported.

At 3:55 p.m. firemen were called to Crowe street where a grass fire was out of control.

Another grass fire at 4:50 p.m. brought firemen to 843 Stanford street.

Marshal Post at Morehouse Filled

MOREHOUSE -- The city officially has a city marshal -- at least for 30 days.

Last night the board of aldermen approved the hiring of Buddy McCain, 62, as city marshal on a 30 - day trial basis.

McCain succeeds Raymond Lawrence, who resigned Nov. 16 after being charged with felonious theft in Scott County.

Lawrence's unexpired term runs until April 1.

Last week the board approved James C. Green of Sikeston for the job. It was later disclosed he was on federal parole and could not serve.

The job pays $325 monthly with a car furnished.

McCain has been serving as a deputy marshal.

Schools Lack Gas, Close

CHARLESTON — Elementary students in the Warren E. Hearnes, A. D. Simpson, kindergarten, Bertrand and Anniston schools of the R-1 school istrict were dismissed today due to low gas pressure.

School Superintendent Tom Wells said they would have to decide from day by day as to when the schools would be opened and advised parents to listen to television and radio announcements to be informed when school would be in session.

Four Arrests

Police reported Galen A. Kruger, 401 Malcolm, was charged with driving while intoxicated last night.

Margaret Largent, 9 Green Meadows, was charged with careless driving. John L. Sisco, route two, Sikeston, was charged with the same offense.

Hearnes Gets Demo National Party Post

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes is Missouri's new Democratatic National Committeeman.

He was elected by a unanimous ballot of the state committee, spokesmen said, and succeeds Sidney Salomon Jr., of St. Louis.

The state committee, in its meeting Monday, also adopted a resolution asking the national committee to investigate the actions of Mrs. Shirley Butters, Democratic National Committeewoman.

Mrs. Butters, of Bowling Green, Mo., has been charged with withholding money from the state in the operations of her license fee office. She has denied the charge and claims the state actually owes her money.

Delton L. Houtchens, state party chairman, said the resolution also was passed unanimously and asked the national committee to declare Mrs. Butter's office vacant if it finds she has violated her oath of office.

Rotarians Watch Oil Well Fire

Club President Jim Green reported that Walter Hedrick attended a Rotary meeting in Athens, Greece.

Guests were Steve Waters, Dwayne Lorenz and Jim Fulmer.

Charles Green led the club in singing accompanied by Debbie Launius at the piano.

Senate Trade Quota Foes Map Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm Belt senators concerned about the future of U.S. agricultural exports called a strategy session today with allies from manufacturing states in an attempt to block a House-passed trade bill.

At stake, they say, are 700,000 jobs and $6.6 billion worth of farm exports annually.

Adding to their concern was a Monday statement by White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler that talks between the United States and Japan had produced little encouragement for voluntary restraint of textile imports into this country.

Textile and shoe imports are two prime targets of the trade bill, passed 215 to 165 by the House Nov. 19. The measure also would freeze the present system of oil import quotas, set tariff-rate quotas on mink fur skins and some chemicals and set up a formula of tariffs or quotas on foreign products that are shown to injure American markets.

Senate opponents, led by Walter Mondale, D-Minn., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., have threatened a filibuster to prevent a similar trade package from being considered on the floor. Backers hope to tie the package to a Social Security bill in the Finance Committee.

Opponents say such quotas would bring trade-war retaliation from other countries, particularly Japan and the European Common Market, and drive up U.S. consumer prices by protecting American-made goods from foreign competitors.

The Common Market countries alone could cut off $200 million in annual soybean exports, said the farm group, and jeopardize overseas markets for U.S. wheat and feed grains.

In House debates, backers of the measure blamed foreign textiles and shoes for a 3 per cent drop in U.S. textile employment since 1966 and a loss of 21,000 jobs in shoe plants since the mid-1950s.

The Nixon administration, which tried to cut back the bill to textile quotas only and a tax incentive to boost U.S. exports, has said the President will make no decision on whether to veto it until he sees the final product.

Driver Sentenced To 30 Days in Jail

Driving without an operator's license resulted in a 30- day jail term this morning in magistrate court for James L. Jackson of Chicago.

Judge M. E. Montgomery imposed the sentence after being advised by Deputy Sheriff Gerald Inman that Jackson was arrested Nov. 9 on suspicion of driving a stolen car from Chicago. Scott County authorities are awaiting word from Chicago police on Jackson.

Jackson, who has been in jail 15 days, wanted to know if the time could be applied to his 30-day term. Judge Montgomery said he would decide on that after authorities have heard from Illinois authorities.

Raymond Lawrence, former Morehouse City marshal, waived his preliminary hearing on a felonious theft charge. He was bound over to appear in circuit court and his $500 bond was continued.

Lawrence is charged with stealing $600 out of a trunk of a car belonging to a man he had arrested for driving while intoxicated.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Avery Oliver, Vanduser, who failed to appear on an assault charge. A $100 bond was forfeited.

Bobbie Lambert, 225 Young, waived preliminary hearing regarding a felonious theft charge. He was bound over to circuit court.

Lambert is accused of stealing a television set from Riggs Wholesale in Sikeston Oct. 24.

Jeff Stephenson, route one, Sikeston, was fined $5 for driving without a license.

Clyde Teers Jr., 104 Baker Lane, was fined $5 for careless driving.

Barbara Webb, 100 Westgate, was fined $5 for driving without a license.

Stilley Byrd, route four, Sikeston, was fined $5 for careless driving.

Tom Hill, 1610 Osage, was fined $5 on charges of driving without a license and improper vehicle registration.

Coley Gray Jr., Oran, was fined $5 on similar charges.

Judge Montgomery ordered a warrant issued for the arrest of Doyle Wicker, 243 West Kathleen, who failed to appear on a driving while intoxicated charge.

Pension Defeat Margin Tops Half-Million Votes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick reported today voters rejected a state employe retirement benefit increase by more than half a million votes Nov. 3.

The official canvass showed the plan received 217,133 favorable votes and 769,378 in opposition.

The campaign against the proposal which included far better benefits for legislators and elected officials than for the rest of the state employes, was carried on by a group of citzens. In a whirlwind campaign the group collected enough signatures throughout the state to force the referendum test.

The other proposition that failed in the general election was one to increase the constitutional levy for counties, townships and school districts. It was defeated 311,196 to 717,099.

The proposal for annual sessions of the Legislature, plus elimination of present limits on legislative expenses, mileage and travel, squeaked through to adoption with a margin of 8,707.

The vote was 511,296 in favor and 502,589 against.

The plan for giving more home rule to counties with the charter form of government—now St. Louis County and Jackson County—was adopted 575,371 to 430,849.

And the last proposal, providing that when a school tax increase is defeated the tax remains unchanged rather than reverting to the constitutional $1.25 on each $100 assessed valuation, was adopted 587,657 to 433,025.

The official canvass of other general election results will not begin until the second Tuesday in December.

Former Mayor of St. Louis Dies

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Raymond R. Tucker, an engineer-educator who became the first three-term mayor of St. Louis, died Monday night. He was 73.

Tucker had been hospitalized since Nov. 9 for treatment of congestive heart failure.

He was mayor from 1953 to 1965, president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors in 1965 and president of the American Municipal Association in 1960. He also was a member of the president's advisory committee on intergovernmental relations.

Foreign Policy Debate Grips Senate in Wake of Viet Raid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said today the nation faces disaster unless President Nixon puts a bipartisan foreign policy ahead of partisan domestic political considerations.

And he called on Nixon to restore "the habit of consultation between the White House and the Congress, for only consultation gives substance to the idea of bipartisanship."

Aiken, senior Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, delivered a broad-ranging foreign policy speech that criticized both policies and the way in which the Johnson and Nixon administrations have abandoned consultation with the Congress.

Referring to last April's U.S. move into Cambodia, Aiken said had the President chosen to consult with the Senate in advance, "I think he would have spared himself and the country much grief. Some of us might have been in a position to stand up and help him, if not by praising his words then at least by supporting his deeds."

Aiken spoke in the midst of the revival in the Senate of angry debate over Vietnam, spurred by the weekend raids into North Vietnam including the unsuccessful bid to free American prisoners near Hanoi.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird came to Capitol Hill today to brief members of the Senate Armed Services Committee on the weekend action.

The Foreign Relations Committee, center of war criticism, also was trying to arrange a session so its members could be briefed on the possible policy implications of the latest war moves.

Republican Senate Leader Hugh Scott hit back at critics of the attempt to free the prisoners of war. He said that during World War II everybody praised commando-type rescue operations but "you do it once in the Vietnam war and all the doves flutter and take a hard-nosed dive at the President."

"This is carzy," Scott told newsmen.

He said it was more important than ever to try to get American prisoners out of North Vietnam because they are being tortured, inadequately fed, and kept in narrow cells in violation of the Geneva convention for the treatment of POW's.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said he hopes there are no reprisals from the raid.

But senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield questioned whether the commando raid would be helpful or harmful to the American prisoners of war.

"I wonder about the possibility of re-involvement based on the raids North . . ." he said. "I wonder about the reaction of the North . . . I wonder about the situation which confronts the prisoners of war, whether the commando raid has been harmful or helpful."

Income Tax Argument Rages As House Seeks Revenue

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House today began what appeared to be an extended argument over income tax rates as it searched for new revenue to ease the state's financial crisis.

The galleries were filled.

As the argument proceeded, the issues were whether the increase should be 50 per cent across the board and whether the top rate should be 6 per cent or 8 per cent.

The ways and means committee gave the House two administration bills. One would double the present tax on beer, wine and liquor and the other would increase income taxes. The first to be taken up was the tax on corporate and individual income —the same area but not the same plan that was defeated by the voters last April 7.

Since then the public schools, the welfare and mental health programs have suffered. Most legislators now concede that something must be done quickly.

The Ways and Means Committee went along with the recommendation of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes on doubling the taxes on alcoholic beverages.

The committee also agreed the range on corporate income taxes should be changed from the present 1 per cent to 4 per cent to a range of 2 per cent to 5 per cent.

But the committee changed the scales on individual income taxes. To ease the increased burden for the lower income family the floor would be raised from the present 1 per cent on taxable income to 1.5 per cent. Hearnes had recommended 2 per cent and 6 per cent as the top instead of the present 4 per cent. The committee hiked the top to 8 per cent.

Chairman Buddy Kay, DSt. Louis, said the changed bill would produce increased revenues of $14.7 million for the final six months of this fiscal year and $68.6 million for a full year.

But to make it effective Jan. 1, both houses would have to approve the tax boost with twothirds majorities.

Earlier, the House received six bills and two proposed constitutional amendments, most of them designed to boost tax revenues.

One of the major proposals would eliminate most of the present exemption sections of the 1963 sales-use tax act.

Among them would be parts going into the manufacture of automobiles, aircraft, airplanes and railroad rolling stock, machinery for manufacturing products to be taxed in the finished form, mining machinery and equipment, newsprint and the rental of film or recordings, livestock or poultry to be fed or used as brood stock, pumping machinery used by pipelines and railroad rolling stock used in interstate commerce.

Others would tax tobacco products other than already taxed cigarettes, vending machines and soft drinks.

Constitutional amendments would permit the later enactment of legislation allowing legalized pari-mutuel betting on horseraces and bingo for charitable purposes.

Replacing the present politically partisan method of investing idle state funds in banks friendly to the administration with the so-called Illinois formula was recommended by majority leader Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis. Under the Illinois plan, banks offering the highest interest rates would get the state money.

Another bill would require that banks report to the state the payment of interest of more than $10 a year to depositors. That would help the state department of revenue discover Missourians who should have paid intangible taxes but didn't.

Comment on Missiles Refused

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command refused to comment today on speculation that North Vietnamese surface-to-air missiles—the SAMs supplied Hanoi by the Soviet Union—have been fired recently at U.S. B52 bombers attacking the Ho Chi Minh trail near the border between Laos and North Vietnam.

An American military spokesman said no B52s have been lost to enemy fire, but he declined to say if any had been fired on.

Because the B52s fly at 30,000 feet, the SAMs are the only antiaircraft weapon in the North Vietnamese arsenal that might hit them.

The speculation that SAMs may have been fired at B52s over Laos stemmed from information given in Washington about the U.S. raids on North Vietnam last weekend.

Viet Air Collision Kills 17

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. light plane and a South Vietnamese helicopter collided in the air in the Mekong Delta today, killing 4 Americans and 13 Vietnamese, authorities reported.

"There were no survivors," a South Vietnamese officer in the field said.

The officer said all three U.S. crewmen aboard the light plane were killed and another American died aboard the helicopter.

The collision occurred near Binh Thuy air base about 80 miles south of Saigon.

Field reports said the Army Beaver, a single-engine utility aircraft, had just taken off from the base.

"An investigation is under way," said one officer.

THANKSGIVING HERITAGE

When Thanksgiving rolls around, on Thursday, Nov. 26, most Americans will celebrate with turkey and a day off. The more religious will remember to express their gratitude for the year's blessings. President Nixon, for example, stated in his Thanksgiving message:"We give thanks that this nation moves closer each day to peace for all its citizens and all the world." Almost everyone can find something to be thankful for, although for some it may take a bit of straining in a year marked by rising unemployment and continuing foreign and domestic violence.

Historically, Thanksgiving has been celebrated in one way or another around the world after the year's crops were picked and stored. Festivities usually lasted far longer than they do now. The ancient Canaanites reveled for weeks. In Palestine, the Hebrew Feast of the Tabernacles continued for nine days. Greek married women were alloted three days to honor Demeter, the goddess of agriculture. The Romans held far more raucous festivals to give thanks to their harvest goddess, Ceres. Martinmas celebrations in the Middle Ages and Harvest Horns in England often went on until the food and wine supplies were depleted.

Although there is some doubt whether the first American Thanksgiving took place along the James River in Virginia in 1619 or in Plymouth, Mass. in 1621, it is indisputably the oldest civil holiday in the New World. With the exception of President Washington's 1789 Thanksgiving proclamation in honor of the new U.S. Constitution, Thanksgiving remained a local celebration until the mid- 19th century. Most Southerners believed the holiday was a relic of Puritan bigotry, and did not begin celebrating it until after 1855. By 1865, there was enough public support to make Thanksgiving an institutionalized annual national holiday. Since that time, it has become a uniquely American celebration -- one which combines productive enterprise, domestic felicity and religious devotion.

EARTH, TEXAS, NEWS- SUN: "Columnists and commentators have called the non- activist bulk of our citizens by many names... One such name is the 'average' American, but that doesn't seem just right, because the 'average' of anything is only the worst of the good and the best of the worst...Others have referred to us as the 'silent' Americans, but with more and more of us standing up and speaking out against the destructive elements in our society, we are not so silent as we once were... so that name doesn't quite fit us either. The majority in this country should be called 'Middle Americans' because we are, indeed, in the middle; caught between the politicians who spend, spend, spend... and the non- producers who take, take, take... which means, of course, that we have to work, work, work, so we can pay, pay, pay!"

TRIUMPH OF COMMON SENSE

Some years ago, a tremendous furor was raised concerning the use of pesticide chemicals in agricultural production, and the effect which traces of these chemicals remaining in our food might have on human health. At the time, misrepresentation of the hazards involved were of grave concern to knowledge authorities, because these chemicals are an indispensable tool in the high- volume agricultural production now required to feed growing populations the world over. Fortunately, this is one area of concern to which reason has returned.

In a statement concerning "The Implication Of Pesticide Residues As A Health Hazard," Dr. Roy Goulding of the British Poisons Reference Service has stated that there is "...no substantiated evidence that the consumption of foodstuffs bearing residues of active ingredients from accepted agricultural practices in the United Kingdom has led to injury to man... In short, despite all the hullaballoo, the alarms, the excursions, the invocations and the warnings, it certainly looks as though we are eating far less of pesticide residues than ever we feared and far less than is at all likely to do us any harm."

Substantially, the same conclusions regarding these points have been reached in the United States. Continuous testing and surveillance programs have shown the food supply in the U.S. to be of the highest quality and purity. The pesticide industry in the interest of promoting the increased production of food and fiber that will be required by the world's growing population is pushing forward with programs to establish realistic and uniform levels of acceptable pesticide residues between all nations. If as much reason and good sense could be brought to bear on some of the other problems which offer a real threat to the life and health of man on earth, we would all indeed have little to fear.

SOMEBODY MUST PAY

Twenty or more years ago, the railroads made an all-out try to bring travelers back to the rails. Millions of dollars were spent, but even the installation of the last word in air- conditioned comfort failed to halt the trend in transport evolution. Since no private enterprise can maintain a public service at a continuous loss, a day of reckoning has arrived. In a reversal of a historic industry position, the railroads, according to the president of the Association of American Railroads, Mr. Thomas M. Goodfellow, have proposed a co-operative industry-government program to sustain money -losing passenger trains that must be kept running as a public service.

Mr. Goodfellow comments, "... where we're forced to operate money - losing trains, we feel the government should assume the obligation to share in the cost." A break- even operation is all the railroads are proposing. A large part of the cost of running the trains still would be covered, in most cases, by railroad revenues with the government obligated only to make up deficits incurred. These would be determined by cost procedures established by the Interstate Commerece Commission within the framework of necessary legislation.

Again in Mr. Goodfellow's words, "The most important service the railroads now perform is the transportation of freight, which benefits virtually every business, industry and individual consumer in the country. Our intercity passenger services, on the other hand, are used by less than one and a half per cent of the traveling public..." The empty passenger train has become a liability to the economic stability of the railroad industry. This is the basic truth which the rails-- and the nation -- must now face.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

Like the soaring mushroom cloud of a nuclear explosion, concern over the impact of man on the Earth's environment has cast a shadow on just about every human undertaking, and its dimensions grow with each passing day. Taken as a whole, the subject of environment, together with proposals and methods of environmental improvement, is beyond the grasp of the ordinary individual. To realize this, one has but to consider a single environmental problem -- water pollution. This of itself is so vast and complicated a subject that probably no one, not even the experts, can provide pat answers.

Of course, water pollution, except in an academic sense, cannot be treated as a separate environmental problem. Mr. Robert P. Mayom director of the Bureau of the Budget, in a lengthy discussion of the cost of improving and preserving the environment, points out that "... in the very process of living, we draw upon our environment and make use of it.We are dependent upon it for our needs. We quarry sand, gravel, and stone to build our homes and cut timber to furnish them. We husband animals for our food and cut hay to feed them. We mine metals to make our cars and machines, and pump oil and harness rivers to drive them... A good share of pollution is the result of our own demands for one car, and then a second, for showers, dishwashers, clothes washers, and verdant crabgrass- free lawns."

Water pollution, like other forms of environmental contamination, is the direct result of individual human demands- a massive natural force that carries a potential for great destruction, the same as any other natural force. Controlling the damage wrought by this force, just as with floods or forest fires, will depend upon many measures, most of them costly.

Budget Director Mayo, notes that "... in the area of water pollution, the Department of the Interior has estimated that the cost of a possibly inconclusive attack on major pollution problems, such as proper sewage and treatment of waste and the control of thermal pollution, sedimentation, acid mine drainage and agricultural land run- off, might be as much as $70 billion -- if not more-- over a 5- year- period." As a start on an anti- water pollution program, the Nixon Administration has requested an expenditure of $10 billion over a 4- year period, with $4 billion representing the federal share. Others, feeling the Administration's program is inadequate, urge more drastic action. The National League of Cities and U.S. Conference of Mayors has released results of a survey that place the nation's water pollution control requirements at between $33 and $37 billion for the 5 - year period 1971 to 1976.

In the meantime, water pollution has become the center of a controversy of the kind that is causing confusion and frustration in other environmental areas where attempts have been made to single out and penalize specific industries-- public utilities, petroleum and chemicals to name a few-- as primary sources of all pollution. This scapegoat approach to pollution provides popular political issues at the expense of true environmental improvement. A punitive attitude toward industries and the private enterprise system that produces the goods and services for a nation of 200 million people is no way to preserve the environment.

So it is with water pollution. Charges have been made that the phosphates in detergent soaps are to blame for speeding the eutrophication, or aging process, of lakes. Hence, the simple argument goes, phosphates should be removed from detergents, despite abundant evidence that such a step would have little or no effect in alleviating water pollution problems. The answer to this pollution problem, as with others, is the broad, scientific approach. Phosphates come from innumerable sources. If they present a problem in water pollution control, the answer, in the view of countless authorities, is to move ahead as rapidly as possible with more adequate sewage and waste disposal plant construction.

What everyone must realize is that in water pollution as elsewhere, the public should be extremely wary of the simple approach and of the tendency to single out a "villain" where no villain exists. The problem is far too big for that. It is as big as life itself.

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today announced that a new communications network, the Missouri Uniform Law Enforcement System (MULES), will be in operation next spring.

The Missouri Uniform Law Enforcement System is a computer-based law enforcement, criminal justice, information system which will include a computer tele - processing terminal in city, county, state and federal law enforcement agencies in the near future. Missouri's law enforcement officers will be able to obtain information within seconds on persons, vehicles and property. MULES is also being designed to provide total and instant access to the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) in F.B.I. Headquarters, Washington, D.C.

The Patrol Superintendent noted that the Missouri Highway Patrol in Jefferson City will be the central agency for MULES. He emphasized, however, that it is through the combined efforts of the Kansas City and St. Louis Police Departments, along with the Patrol, that the new communications system is being developed to serve law enforcement officers and agencies of Missouri.

"Today's law enforcement officer needs modern tools with which to successfully perform his tasks," Hockaday declared. "The computerized teleprocessing systems, MULES and NCIC, give him effective tools by providing him with timely and accurate information, in seconds. It is hoped that every police agency in the State will take advantage of MULES and become a member of this communication network."

Colonel Hockaday then stated that the Highway Patrol will need several additional personnel with communication experience to help in the operation of the new system. Anyone interested in such employment should write to the Director of Communications, Missouri Highway Patrol, Jefferson City, Missouri, 65101.

DOMESTIC STEEL SHIPMENTS DOWN

Steel shipments by domestic producers declined in February from a year ago when consumers were building inventories as a hedge against possible labor trouble.

American Iron and Steel Institute reported that February shipments totaled 7,092,000 net tons compared with 7,901,000 tons in February 1968.

For the first two months of this year shipments totaled 14,359,000 tons against 15,653,000 tons in the corresponding period of 1968.

Shipments to the automobile market, traditionally the top user of steel mill products, were 1,559,000 tons in Bebruary, bringing the total for the year to 3,212,000 tons, a drop of 11.8 percent or 429,000 tons from the first two months of 1968. Shipments to steel service centers declined 5 percent in the period while shipments to the agricultural classification were down 24.2 percent.

AGAINST THE GRAIN

The people of the United States have always believed in the idea that a day's work was a fair exchange for a day's pay. Apparently, this is one basic thought that is still with us. Recent Gallup Polls have shown that 78 per cent of the American public favors a guaranteed job program so that everyone capable of working might have the opportunity do do so. In contrast to this strong support for guaranteed jobs, only 36 per cent of the people interviewed favor a guaranteed annual income. To the average person, the great drawbacks to government paying everybody a certain minimum income still seem to be two - fold. The cost, added to present welfare programs growing bigger every day, would be the last thing the nation's finances could stand, and politically it would be highly unlikely that the hundreds of local, state and federal welfare programs would be dropped or cut back. Secondly, something for nothing has never encouraged anybody yet to work harder to help himself, and so far that is the only way anybody has ever gotten out of poverty.

We are told that the millennium is coming when all the work in the country will be done by machines and most of us will have the burden of finding uses for our leisure time. So far, most of us haven't been troubled with this situation and find the idea of guaranteeing everybody an income as a matter of right, whether they work or not, thoroughly nonsensical.

Well, they're not conventionally-correct for semi - formal wear, but if they are a trim, neat style -- and well polished -- let's say they're not incorrect ... "I like the look of Edwardian double - breasted jackets but have the feeling that they might be slightly uncomfortable with all those buttons buttoned up nearly to the chin. Are they?" Obviously, you're talking about the extreme models. If you want comfort and still have the same look – try the six-button model, with two -to -button.

POPULATION RISE TO 235 MILLION SEEN BY 1980

The United States population is expected to exceed 205.5 million people by 1970 and 235 million by 1980, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

The insurer claims these estimates are based on a recent study which indicated that the population at mid - 1968 was an estimated 201,700,000 and the labor force about 84,550,000.

Population growth in recent years reflects the high level of births during the 1950's and earlier 1960's.

The labor force is expected to increase by 14.6 per cent compared with 13.9 per cent rise in the period between 1967 and 1975. The pattern is expected to continue; in 1980 the number of people employed or seeking work may reach 101 million, or three of every five persons at age 16 and over.

Population growth is likely to contribute all but 7.5 per cent in this future expansion of the labor force, with increased participation rates for women accounting for the remainder.

MOBILE HOMES WINNING ACCEPTANCE NATIONALLY AS PERMANENT HOMES

The mobile home rapidly is winning acceptance in much of the United States as a permanent home, according to the Mobile Home Manufacturers Association of Chicago.

Sales of mobile homes grew from 90,000 in 1961 to 241,000 last year and may exceed 300,000 in 1968, an industry spokesman said.

With the conventional housing industry struggling to maintain any growth at all, mobile home makers are piling up increases of better than 10 per cent a year and now have captured roughly 25 per cent of the total annual new home market.

The fact that they can produce an air conditioned house completely furnished for $5,000 to $6,000 is the big reason trailer makers do big business.

H.L. Hunt Says

HIPPIES IN HANOI

Now comes a report that an influx of hippies is giving the leaders of North Vietnam new headaches. It couldn't happen to a more deserving people. Shaggy-haired youths who were sent to Communist countries of Europe for technical training reportedly are returning in droves to the motherland and it isn't to bathe in the Mekong, either.

Reports emanating from North Vietnam say the hippie clan isn't concerned at all with the "war of liberation" now being waged by the communist hordes in South Vietnam. Their kin-by-habits in this country have seemed vitally concerned by what is going on in that unhappy land. Our hippies want us to get out.

It is unlikely that the unclean shall inherit the earth, but many of them have posed real problems for their parents and the law enforcement agencies of this and other nations. A preponderance of the militant groups, indoctrinated in the communist dogma, have posed serious problems to our structure of orderliness.

The alleged behavior of the North Vietnamese hippies seems incompatible with that of our hippies. Many or ours are militant in demanding withdrawal. Their so-called "flower children" could care less.

The United Nations might give some serious thought to a world-wide system of cleanliness and barbering. Millions of dollars, mostly ours, have beenspent by that organization on less attractive ventures around the world.

Or a hippie exchange program might be the answer. Let our hippie gangs put the heat on Hanoi and theirs bring their leathargy to our shores. Laissez-faire and violent militancy in their proper places. HLH

NEW YORK (AP) —Jumping to conclusions:

Neither too much wine nor the pains and pangs of old age bring out the worst in a man's personality as much as having to drive in crowded traffic when he's in a hurry to get somewhere. Yet man persists in making his inventions his gods —the automobile, the airplane, plastics, the computer—and in the end they may destroy him by making him too neurotic to endure. Already he is at the mercy of things he created to make his life more leisurely and comfortable.

The dullest conversation possible this time of year is that between two suburbanites discussing the troubles they have getting to and from work in bad weather—and the new ways they plan to attack crabgrass next spring.

One of the mysteries of life is why so many secretaries fall in love with their boss when they know so much more about him than his wife does.

Experience is like a secondhand car. You may regard it as valuable but you can never sell it at a profit to anyone else.

If you took the words "stupid" and "cool" out of the average teen-ager's vocabulary, he'd be half tongue-tied.

A man who makes his first million is never happy until he makes his second just to prove to himself that the first one wasn't all luck.

A philosopher is a man who, the longer he lives, feels the less he knows for sure—and therefore is willing to learn from younger people who are more confident of their wisdom.

One of the troubles with telling your troubles is that half the people you tell them to don't give a hoot, and the other half are glad you finally got your comeuppance.

Things could be worse. If men wore antlers like moose, it would be even more of a nuisance riding to work by bus or subway.

A successful bachelor is a guy who can give three girls lingerie for Christmas and still stay free.

There is plenty to be grateful for this Thanksgiving Day. For example, in a noisy world half the pianos in America bought by parents to instill music in their children relapse into silence within six months and become simply pieces of living room furniture. the only sounds they make are when they're dusted.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The story can now be told how the State Department repeatedly defied the Senate Foreign Relations Committee when the committee sought to get to the bottom of misconduct charges against Senator Joe Tydings,D—Md.

The incident led to a confrontation between Foreign Relations Chairman Bill Fulbright, the caustic Arkansas Democrat, and Secretary of State William Rogers, the most easy going, personable man in the Nixon cabinet.

At the height of the affair, Rogers, trying to stay out of it, refused even to answer an official, written request from Fulbright in which the Senator angrily threatened to cut off State Departmnet funds if he didn't get the information he wanted.

It all started last August with Life magazine's report that Tydings had misused his influence to help some business associates get a State Department loan. Fulbright immediately asked the State Department for a full report.

In his letter to Scott Heuer, the Inspector General for Foreign Assistance, Fullbright also asked for an interim report on the matter in case the full report proved to be "time-consuming."

When an official in the bureaucracy gets a request from the congressional committee that oversees his departmnet, he acts fast. So Fulbright got his reply from Heuer the next day, August 26, promising a thorough investigation and an interim report if the full report took a long time.

That was the last evidence of hast by the State Department. Late in September, the Foreign Relations staff began to hound Heuer for the report several times, he promised it would be ready in a matter of days. But it never arrived.

Early in October, Heuer said there would be an indefinite delay. Fulbright was furious. On October 12, he fired off a letter to Rogers.

The letter demanded copies of all correspondence, memoranda and other documents on the Tydings loan as well as "copies of any draft investigative reports on the matter."

FULLBRIGHT'S THREAT

Fulbright reminded Rogers starchily that if a formal request for information from a congressional committee is not met within 35 days, the committee can cut off funds from the offending office.

"I hope," said Fulbright in closing, "the department will be cooperative with the committee on this problem so that it will not be necessary to invoke the sanctions of Section 624 (d) (7). Please advise me as to when the committee can expect to receive this material."

Although Rogers's office received the Fulbright letter the day after it was mailed, the Secretary never answered it. Instead, Fulbright got a copy of the final full report a full month later--a week after the election. The report cleared the defeated Tydings belatedly of misusing his influence.

No interim report was ever received. Fulbright was so incensed that he made a speech about it when the Democrats caucased behind closed doors before the beginning of the current lame-duck session of Congress.

Questioned by this column about his failure to answer Fulbright's request, Rogers passed the buck, saying he had only a minor role in the matter.

He referred the questions to William Macomber, the State Department's liaison officer with Congress, who said he had taken charge of the matter after the first Fulbright letter to Heuer. It is customary for Heuer to report to the Secretary himself.

Macomber said: "We certainly didn't want the Secretary involved in this." He further insisted that the Department "acted honorably" in the matter and vigourously denied that there had been any political pressure from the White House to hold up the report. Asked why Fulbright had never received the promised interim report, Macomber said it had simply slipped his mind. Meanwhile, Heuer, the man who did the report, is out of the country.

NIXON KEEPS HANDS OFF

Senator Howard Baker, R—Tenn., ever eager to get ahead in the Senate, paid an unpublicized call upon President Nixon at Key Biscayen, Fla., recently to seek support for the Senate Republican leadership.

Baker was testing the water to find out whether he might be able to oust veteran Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott.

But the President would have no part of the plot. He said he had intervened twice, as Vice President, in backstage House leadership battles and had been badly "burned."

He sates emphatically, therefore, that he would never get involved in another Senate or House leadership fight and that he would instruct his aides to remain strictly neutral.

Footnote: Scott appears to be in no danger of losing the leadership. Re-elected to the Senate by a greater vote than any other Republican, he has picked up support from at least two who previously had backed Baker. They are Senators Marlow Cook, R—Ky., and Ted Stevens, R—Alaska.

Give up 'grass' or her

Dear Ann Landers: My boyfriend and I had another fight. It could be our last. The fight was bout the same old thing. Marijuana. I want Mike to quit smoking but he refuses. He also refuses to admit he is hooked. He insists the only thing wrong with pot is that it's illegal. I told him that's reason enough for me and if he doesn't knock it off we are finished.

I can see a big difference in Mike when he is smoking but I can't get it across to him. He gets dreamy-eyed, lazy, doesn't want to talk or go anyplace--just sits and stares into space. His grades are slipping and he isn't as neat about his personal appearance as he used to be. He doesn't see this either. Please, Ann, tell Mike what pot is doing to his life. He thinks you're sharp and I'll bet you can get through to him. Thanks ----Pot Hater

Dear P.H.: I can't tell Mike what pot is doing to his life because pot does different thinkgs to different poeple. I'd have to know first what the guy smokes. Is it pure pot, or the weak stuff cut with alfalfa and hay? I'd have to know if he inhales and how often he smokes. Is it once a month or twice a day? The emotional stability of the smoker is another important factor. An unstable kid could get permanently zonked on grass. There are recorded cases of pot having triggered psychotic episodes. On the other hand, an emotionally healthy, well-balanced kid might get nothing more than a pleasant high. I'd have to know, too, why Mike smokes. Is it an escape? Is he doing it to be one of the "in" crowd? Is he experimenting? Or is he thumbing his nose at the establishment, his parents, or the law?

Your statement that Mike's grades are slipping and he is not as neat about his personal appearance as he once was, is a tipoff that pot may be destroying his self-esteem and sapping his energy. This, according to the experts is one of the most damaging side effects. While some kids can smoke pot and reamin functional, other kids run into trouble. Pot can kill motivation and make dreamers out of doers. And the real hazard is that no kid can tell in advance what it will do to him. Moreover, the person who is being damaged by pot is usually the last one to know. My position is that no teen-ager should fool around with a mind-altering substance of any kind --booze, pills or drugs, soft OR hard. Expecially if it's against the law.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a telephone receptionist who tries to be courteous to all callers. It's my job to make friends for the firm and I take my responsibilities seriously. It is also my job to put callers in touch with the proper department so I must ask specific questions.

This morning a man wanted to speak to the president of the firm. I asked the gentleman his name and the name of his company. He replied, "My name is ------, I am with ------. My grandmother's maiden name was Jones. I wear 42 long, part of my hair on the left side and my birthstone istruby. Isthere anything else you want to know?"

I was so taken aback that I couldn't think of a snappy comeback to put him in his place. What should I have said? ----Ithica, N.Y.

Dear Ith: Your job is to handle the calls --not put people in their place. During the course of a day you undoubtedly speak to a wide variety of people. If you are doing your job well you ignore the clowns and respond politely to everyone. That's the best put-down of all.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze And You For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Tracking great fake furs

NEW YORK, N.Y. --Today, what's fake is fun.

A few years ago, a woman might be embarrassed to admit her "mink" was not real, or her "lynx" only a clever mixture of synthetic fibers.

But now, fake furs are fashionable. They look great. They wear well. And they allow a woman to have an up-to-date wardrobe of great-looking "fur' coats without feeling she's either squandered funds or reduced a vanishing species.

The growing popularity of fake furs has attracted the talents of some of the country's top designers. As fast as chemists come up with new fabric "pelts," the designers unveil new lines. One of the newest developments is a "mink" cloth that copies real pelts right down to the fine guard hairs. It's particularly effective when used in sporty short coats. How casual can you be? Another recent development is a "tiger" fur that looks real enough to revive Tarzan. It's a great look for daytime and with a change of accessories, it's perfect for more formal evening wear.

Fake furs have become so popular they're showing up in men's coats. Besides being stylish, they're warm and rugged looking -- especially a new "wolf" fur that looks as good on a city street as it does outdoors.

The designers have even gone so far as to combine "fake" looks. One of the newest trends is to have fake "fur" coats trinned with vinyl fake "leather" trim. In addition to opening up new looks in styling and design, the trim provides an interesting contrast to the coat's "fur texture.

Which all goes to prove how much fun it is to get away from reality!

Hello! Golly I can't believe it has turned so cold so quickly. I knew it coming but I guess I'm never for a drastic weather change.

Several people have asked me about Mother and Daddy and I know I haven't written about them much this year. They are just fine. Mother has finally quit her button making completely and I never thought she would do that, but with them planning to move to Alabama in January she just decided she wanted to quit now and she did. Daddy will retire from the Post Office the 31st day of December and they are going to move back to Alabama. Mother especially has looked forward to it for so long that I really hope they are happy back down there.

Fulton colleges announce productions

The William Woods-Westminster College Theatre of Fulton will present two plays during the Third Open Space Season. The first play, "The Algolagnia Game", will be given in the Williams Woods Open Space 8:00 p.m. Dec. 1-5. "The Star-Spangled Girl" will run Dec. 8-12.

The public is invited to the two-week season offering ten performances. There will be an admission charge of $1.00 per person. Tickets may be reserved by calling 642-7379 in Fulton between 1:00-5:00 p.m. Monday thru Friday Nov. 23-Dec. 12 (excluding Thanksgiving Day) or by writing William Woods-Westminster College Theatre and enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope along with the number of tickets and the date of performance desired.

"THE ALGOLAGNIA GAME" is an orgiinal play written by Dr. Paul Morgan, chairman of the William Woods English Department. Directed by Irby Darnell and designed by Christian West, the two-act play is a fascinating example of "black comedy" curiously blended with a touch of mysterious. The plot concerns a young musician (David Park) who takes along his fiance (Nan Wade) to work on a musical version of "The Marquis de Sade" at the home of an aging designer (Robin Cahall) and his playwright-wife (Cherie Herring). Also in attendance are Sister (Jan Scott) and a young man who thinks he is Jean Genet (Doyle Richmond). The last half of the play is centered around the fiance's experience with the various members of the unusual household while the boy friend is out writing "The Whipping Song" for "Marat Sade".

"THE STAR-SPANGLED GIRL" is one of a long list of successful comedies, including "Bearfoot in the Park", "The Odd Couple" and "Sweet Charity", written by Neil Simon. It features only three characters, two men and a girl. Frank Dent and Brad Bellamy play two young men struggling to put out a "protest" magazine. Ginger Graf protrays the all-American girl who moves in next door and sends both of the "publishers" into a romantic sail spin. The production is designed and directed by Christian West.

Mustangs Gallop Into Prep Poll

North Pemiscot, winner of its own invitational tournament last week with an 84 point scoring average in its three games, vaulted to fourth in his week's Daily Standard basketball poll.

Parma and Matthews remained one- two in the poll while the other eight positions changed with Scott County Central, Oran and Woodland falling from the elite while Notre Dame and Cape Central moved up.

Three Class S teams rank among the top of the ratings, with Delta holding down the number three spot behind the two Pirate squads.

Parma's lead slipped six points from last week as it picked up only five first place votes while Matthews, Delta, North Pemiscot and seventh ranked Notre Dame each picked up two number one votes while sixth ranked Hayti and sevent rated Lilbourn drew one each from the Sports Panel of Coaches.

Parma, Richland, Hayti, Lilbourn and Delta are the only members from the pre- season ratings to remain in this, the second week of the regular season poll.

Richland and New Madrid are the only members of today's poll with any defeats, as Parma, Matthews, Delta and North Pemiscot are 3-0, Notre Dame 1-0 and Hayti, Lilbourn and Cape Central yet to see action. The Rebels and Indians are 2-1 on the season, with the Richland loss coming at the hands of Parma and the New Madrid loss from the Rebs.

Tonight 20- game area schedule is highlighted by a number of clashes between today's top ten. Parma is at Hayti and Matthews at North Pemiscot in the top attractions.

A number of the area's football schools open their baseltball seasons tonight and Friday, as Cape Central gets its acid test Friday against Fox of Arnold.

Malden, Festus and Ste. Genevieve get their season's underway tonight.

THE POLL with first place votes in parenthesis, record and total points at right:

(1) Parma (5)	3-0	126
(2) Matthews (2)	3-0	95
(3) Delta (2)	3-0	91

Plunkett , Theismann Leaders for Heisman

NEW YORK (AP) — Record-breaking quarterbacks Jim Punkett of Stanford and Joe Theismann of Notre Dame were rated the favorites to win the Heisman Trophy today as college football's outstanding performer.

Still another quarterback, Archie Manning of Mississippi, started the season long with Plunkett as the most touted players. But Manning broke his wrist in a game against Houston earlier this month. He has missed one game and is expected to be out at least one more.

The Heisman Trophy has been awarded annually since 1935 by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York. Of the previous 35 winners, 23 have been running backs, 10 quarterbacks and two ends—Larry Kelley of Yale in 1936 and Notre Dame's Leon Hart in 1949.

No interior lineman has ever won the coveted trophy which this year will be decided by the votes of 1,242 electors across the nation. The balloting was to end at 9 a.m. today with the announcement of the winner due at 1 p.m., EST.

Plunkett, a 6-foot-3, 204-pounder, is major college football's all-time leader in total offense and passing yardage and is expected to be a top pro draft pick.

This season, Plunkett ranks second nationally in total offense with an average of 263.5 yards a game. In 11 games, he has passed for 2,715 yards and 18 touchdowns.

Theismann is third and Manning ninth in total offense. Of the three quarterbacks, Theismann has the best completion average, Plunkett the most yards and touchdown passes.

Lawrence Leads TRJC Past SBJC

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark — Three Rivers junior college of Poplar Bluff, Mo. exploded for 72 points in he second half here last night to record a 111-59 decision over Southern Baptist.

The Missouri Raiders held a slim 39-28 first half lead before opening up with a fast break the second half and place five players in double figures.

TRJC ran their season record to 2-0 behind the 22-point leadership of freshman Larry Lawrence. Paul Hale of Morley added 17, Larry Willis of Neelyville 14 and Carl Bishop of Matthews 14 for coach Gene Gess' team.

The Raiders are idle until after the Thanksgiving holiday.

Eagles Clip Giants, 23-20

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Billy Walik, whose performance was singled out by both coaches as a major factor in the Philadelphia Eagles 23-20 National Football League upset over the New York Giants, compared his job with that of a sprinter in track.

Walik, a 180-pound rookie, returns kicks for the Eagles. He carried four for 146 yards on Monday night's NFL weekly television presentation. He raced 57 yards with a second period New York kickoff to set up a subsequent field goal, and 45 yards with a third quarter return that started the Eagles toward their winning fourth period touchdown.

"It's like being a sprinter in indoor track meets," Walik said of his specialty. "In track you wait around a lot until it's time to run and then you let fly for 50 or 60 yards and hope you timed it right. In returning kickoffs, you look for the hole and try to hit it before it closes."

Coach Alex Webster of the Giants said Walik's flying feet signaled the end of his team's six-game winning streak and it helped drop New York into a second place tie with the Dallas Cowboys in the NFL's National Conference Eastern Division. The Giants and Cowboys are each 6-4, now 1½ games behind the leading St. Louis Cardinals 7-2-1.

"What hurt us most was Walik's kickoff returns which gave them great field position," Webster said in the quiet of the Giants' dressing room. The New York coach also credited the Eagles ability to control the ball in the final period with a big part in Philadelphia victory.

The Eagles tallied their winning touchdown on a 1-yard keeper play by quarterback Norm Snead 52 seconds into the final period. They killed 9:26 on the clock after getting the ball with 10:16 remaining. New York finally got it with 50 seconds left, but could get only to midfield.

Eagles' coach Jerry Williams said Walik's returns and the ability of the Eagles' defense to contain Giants halfback Ron Johnson were the key factors for his team, which has won two and tied one in the last three games after losing the first seven. Johnson, the NFL's third leading ground gainer before last weekend's games, managed only 35 yards on 16 carries.

New York scored in the first period for a 3-0 lead on Pete Gogolak's 29-yard field goal.

The Eagles recovered a fourth down bad pass from center at the New York 1, and scored on Snead's keeper run in the second quarter to lead 6-3.

New York took advantage of a fumble recovery to go back in front on a two-yard burst by Johnson and a 29-yard Gogolak field goal made it 13-6 with 42 seconds left in the half.

Walik then returned the kickoff 57 yards leading to Mark Moseley's 29 yard field goal on the last play of the half.

The Eagles drove to a third period score, Snead passing a yard to tight end Fred Hill for a 16-13 advantage, only to have the Giants score on Tarkenton's one-yard keeper, regaining the lead at 20-16.

Then came Walik's 45-yard caper and the Eagles final TD, netted by Snead on a push from the half yard line.

Big Red Face Eagles Sunday

ST. LOUIS — Clinging to their lead in the National Football Conference's Eastern Division, the Football Cardinals put their 7-2-1 mark on the line here Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Kickoff is set for 1:05 p.m.

The Big Red's 6-6 tie with Kansas City last Sunday, before 50,711 fans on a frigid afternoon, kept the Cardinals in the lead. Jim Bakken's 14-yard field goal, with 1:49 remaining, provided the equalizer as Jim Hart marched the Cardinals 71 yards in 11 plays to set up the field goal.

The stingy Cardinal defense, its goal line uncrossed in four games, now has been touched for 136 points in 10 games, and the pass defense, shackling Len Dawson with only four completions in 14 tries, has held opponents to a 44.3 completion percentage. Dawson had hit 54.6 per cent of his passes before he faced the Cardinals.

Additionally, the Cardinal defensive improvement shows up with a contrast of 1969 figures. For 10 games, the Cardinals have allowed only 1455 yards as against 2436 a year ago. Opponents a year ago had tapped the Big Red for 258 points and only 136 this season.

Offensively, the Big Red has totaled 255 points, tied for the NFL lead with the Detroit Lions, the opponent for December 6 at Detroit. A year ago, the Cardinals had scored 212.

MacArthur Lane, who gained 46 yards against the Chiefs, now has 778 for the season and a 5.2-yard average. He needs just 22 to join John David Crow (1071 in 1960), Ollie Matson (924 in 1956), John Roland (876 in 1967) and Willis Crenshaw (813 in 1968) as the only Cardinals ever to gain 800 yards or more rushing in one season.

The Cardinals' two interceptions of Chiefs' passes gave the Big Red 18 for the season, two more than the defense picked off all last year. Larry Wilson and Roger Wehrli lead with five apiece, and Miller Farr has grabbed four.

Heading toward what might be a climatic divisional battle against the Giants at St. Louis on December 13, the Big Red faces the Eagles at home, then the Lions on the road. The Giants, after their Monday night loss to the Eagles (23-20) take on the Redskins at Washington and the Buffalo Bills at Yankee Stadium. After their meeting here, the clubs close their seasons December 20, with the Giants entertaining the Los Angeles Rams and the Cardinals meeting the Redskins at Washington.

The Cardinals also have announced two of their 1971 pre-season games, both at home against American Football Conference foes. The Big Red will meet the Houston Oilers on Saturday, August 14, in the annual benefit game for the Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital for Children, and will take on the Cleveland Browns on Friday, September 10, in a renewal of a 20- year rivalry that came to an end when the Browns entered the AFC.

According to a gas equipment maker, smelly smudge pots may soon be out of Oregon orchards. Growers have found they can pipe gas through irrigation mains, then burn it in rock-filled vessels to keep frost away from fruit without fouling the air with smoke.

WHEN FOOTBALL PLAYERS have outstanding games, they are rewarded with helmet emblems (see Ohio State players' helmets). But at Prosser High School in Chicago, the coach doesn't use stars. As Sam Hardison's Prosser helmet points out, the emblem helps keep him in the "proper" frame of mind.

Paterno's Challenge

NEW YORK (AP)—Hanging out the College of Football Wash:

Joe Paterno of Penn State, an Ivy League graduate (Brown) himself, has long been needling the Ivies to schedule some major Eastern independents if they want to prove they can play with the so-called big boys.

This time, Paterno really stirred up a hornet's nest with his weekend challenge that Dartmouth, the Lambert Trophy champs with a 9-0 record, play runner-up Penn State, 7-3, for "the Eastern championship."

Paterno qualified that somewhat Monday following a charge by Dartmouth that he was "trying to salvage the Lambert Trophy," which is awarded annually for outstanding performance and which Penn State won the past three years. The final vote was taken over the weekend.

"The suggestion had nothing to do with the Lambert," Paterno insisted. "I never mentioned that. I knew Dartmouth would get it and they should get it. I thought we could combine two things—get people a little excited about Eastern football and raise some money to help the funds at Wichita State and Marshall.

"I was a little surprised at Dartmouth's reaction. I thought they'd really be anxious to play us. Maybe I'm naive, but I didn't realize Dartmouth would have to get permission from the Ivy presidents and I also didn't know such a game would have to be approved by the NCAA by Sept. 15. I thought you could schedule an 11th game any time you wanted to.

"And it doesn't have to be Penn State. I just think a game between the Ivy champion and a leading Eastern independent would do a lot to promote Eastern football. Frankly, I'm not sure we're better than Syracuse. They were by far the superior team the day they beat us. But until the Ivies play someone like Penn State, Syracuse, Army or Navy, I don't see how you can evaluate them."

At Dartmouth, Bob Blackman had a few needles of his own honed and waiting.

"I was a little bit amused and in a way kind of disappointed," he said. "It doesn't take a great deal of courage to challenge someone when you know beforehand that a man's hands are tied behind his back," Blackman continued, referring to the perennial reluctance of the Ivy presidents to change their athletic policy. "They're not about to change the rule on a few days' notice.

"I don't think the Penn State players are anxious to extend their season since they turned down the Peach Bowl. The turndown makes the challenge sound a little ridiculous.

"If we had challenged Penn State last year they would have said it was ridiculous because we had lost a game. Besides, if the rule ever is changed we'd prefer to play somebody with a better record than Penn State."

Talk about weird endings. Harvard's quarterback, Eric Crone, backpedaled into his own end zone and allowed himself to be tackled for a deliberate safety as the gun sounded in a 14-12 victory over Yale.

Also on the last play, Colorado's John Stearns intercepted an Air Force pass and started upfield. Around midfield, he was tackled and the ball squirted loose into the hands of an Air Force player, who had possession just long enough to fumble it right back ... into Stearns' hands as he lay on the ground. An interception and fumble recovery on the same play.

Arizona State's Mike Clupper picked off a New Mexico pass—on the last play, of course—and headed goalward, only to run into about 200 kids who thought the game had ended. With the youngsters dodging players and players sidestepping youngsters, Clupper was tackled near the 50. "I felt like lateralling to one of those kids," he said.

William & Mary's Steve Regan, all of 5-foot-8 and 155 pounds, started the season as the Indians' fourth-string quarterback. He became a starter in the sixth game after injuries sidelined Nos. 1 and 2 and inconsistency benched No. 3.

All Regan did Saturday in a 34-33 triumph over Richmond that gave W&M a Tangerine Bowl berth was complete 14 of 20 passes for 261 yards and three touchdowns and carry 13 times for 60 yards and a score.

In the final minute, with the ball on his own 20, Regan completed a 30-yard pass, a 10-yarder and a 40-yard for the winning TD with 12 seconds left.

No wonder Coach Lou Holtz observed later, "I'm numb!" And he was. A soft drink slipped right through his hands without his ever feeling it.

"Well," said an unnamed player, "there's our fifth fumble ... only this one didn't hurt."

JIM DAVIDSON, 1801 Oklahoma, bagged a 200 pound 8 point buck in Carter County off Route Z five miles S. of Van Buren last week.

Arkansas State finished is its season undefeated in 10 games. Central Missouri was 9-1.

Oak Ridge Tips off Season With Victory

OAK RIDGE — The Oak Ridge Bluejays started out on the right foot for the 1970 campaign, as they skinned the Marquand Tigers by the score of 73-50 here Friday night.

The Bluejays played rusty for the contest's first three grames, but finally got flying straight in the final quarter.

The Jays return four starters off last year's successful 19-5 squad. Two of these returnees, Tim Ford and Gary Stearns, showed Marquand the fine art of rebounding as the duo ripped a total of 57 rebounds off the boards. Ford, who grabbed 34 himself, also pumped in twenty-five big markers to lead the night's scoring David Lang also had his sights in focus as he tallied 17, with Bob Hahs close behind with 13.

Marquand had a trio of men in twin figures, with Robbie Stevens leading the way with 16 markers. Mike Duvall and Jerry Stevens were right, however, with 14 and 12 respectively.

Oak Ridge picked up a victory in the junior varsity contest also, by the margin of 51-31. Jim Seabaugh led the Eagles victory bid as he dropped in 14 points. The Tigers were paced in a losing cause by Mike Boswell, also with 14.

Scoring:

OAK RIDGE (73)

Edges Comets

NEELYVILLE — The Neelyville Tigers played their opponents own game to their own advantage here Friday night, as they slipped by the visiting Alton Comets 42-39. This marks the Tigers' first victory under the tutorship of new coach Terry Tomlison, a former Holcomb head man.

Alton started out in the junior varsity game playing a slow deliberate type of contest, but it worked to Neelyville's advantage in the early contest also, as they came out with a 15-14 win. Alton continued the slow type of play into the varsity encounter but Neelyville played right along to record their first win in three starts.

Owen Jenkisn was the night's top scorer as he connected for 23 big Tiger markers, more than half of Neelyville's total production.

Alton, which registered their first loss, as paced by Keith Ledgewood with 14 and Bo Presley with 13.

Neelyville lays out the rest of November and half of December now, as they wait until December 15 to return to the boards against Naylor.

Scoring:

Neelyville (42)

Jenkins 23, Henry 2, Tyler 4, McCarn 2, Young 2, R. Emmons 4 T Emmons 5; totals: FG 18; Ft 6; PF 12.

Buckeyes Make Move

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State replaced Notre Dame as the No. 2 team in The Associated Press college football poll today, diminishing the possibility of the Fighting Irish meeting Texas in a Cotton Bowl battle between the top two teams in the nation.

Texas, which did not play over the weekend, held onto the top spot but Ohio State's 20-9 revenge victory over Michigan vaulted the Buckeyes from fifth to second. They had started the season in first place.

Nebraska remained third with a 28-21 triumph over Oklahoma but Notre Dame's 3-0 squeaker over Louisiana State resulted in a drop from second to fourth. LSU inched from seventh to sixth by one point despite the setback.

Arkansas, heading for a Dec. 5 shootout with Texas for the Southwest Conference crown and the right to face Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, climbed one spot to fifth with a 24-10 decision over Texas Tech, which had been ranked 19th but fell out of the Top Twenty. Tennessee drubbed Kentucky 45-0 and shot from eighth to seventh.

Michigan, which saw its unbeaten dreams tumble in Ohio Stadium, slipped from fifth to eighth. Arizona State, still undefeated following a 33-21 win REMAINED IN NINTH PLACE BUT Mississippi, idle over the weekend, rose from 12th to 10th while the Air Force went from 10th to 12th after a 49-19 blasting by Colorado.

Texas garnered 20 first-place votes and 794 points from a panel of 45 sports writers and broadcasters across the country. Ohio State received 14 votes for No. 1 and 760 points while Nebraska had six first-place votes and 718 points and Notre Dame pulled down three top ballots and 676 points. The other two first-place votes went to Arizona State.

Auburn, which also had the weekend off, jumped from 13th to 11th while Stanford, a 22-14 loser to California, went from 11th to 13th.

Rounding out the Top Twenty were Dartmouth, Toledo, Georgia Tech, Penn State, Northwestern, Colorado and Washington.

The last two replaced San Diego State and Texas Tech in the Top Twenty.

The Top Twenty teams, with first-place votes in parentheses and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-109-8 etc.:

1. Texas (20) 812

Memoirs Credited to Khrushchev Renew Renunciation of Stalin

NEW YORK (AP) — As premier of the Soviet Union, Nikita S. Khrushchev led the campaign during the 1950s to dishonor the name of Joseph Stalin. Reminiscences attributed to him by Life magazine renew his denunciation but say Stalin's second wife kept Khrushchev alive so he could rise to power.

The first of four installments, published in the magazine's Nov. 27 issue, describe Stalin as a brutal man and murderer of millions who became unbalanced during World War II. He distrusted everyone, his inner circle distrusted him and each other, and as early as 1923 Lenin wrote that Stalin had the requisite qualities for leadership but was not above abusing power, the article says.

The reminiscences say Stalin had an insatiable capacity for alcohol and permitted thousands of Russians to starve because he thought pleas for help were plots against the state.

The reminiscences are being published later in book form by Little, Brown & Co.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported last week that Khrushchev said the memoirs were a fabrication, and he was indignant at this." It was the first time Khrushchev had been quoted in the Soviet media since he was ousted in 1964 by Leonid I. Brezhnev and Alexei N. Kosygin.

Ralph Graves, managing editor of Life, said the magazine had spent a year verifying the authenticity of the manuscript. "We had to be sure that what we had was not a fabrication," Graves wrote in a foreword. He said the editors expected a repudiation from Moscow.

Now 76, Khrushchev has had heart trouble since last June and has been hospitalized twice recently. He lives in seclusion in a villa 15 miles from Moscow.

Khrushchev, according to the publication in Life, says Stalin's excesses, "unpleasant as they may be," must be spelled out for "the self-purification of our party."

"What I say is not slander, and it's not malicious gossip ... As a witness to (the Stalin) years, I address myself to the generations of the future, in hope that they will avoid the mistakes of the past."

The recollections also express concern because "a few of our influential military leaders ... are trying to whitewash Stalin and put him back on his pedestal. They're trying to prove that if it hadn't been for Stalin, we would never have won the war against Hitlerite Germany. The reasoning behind this sort of claim is stupid.

"Just because Stalin isn't around any more, does that mean we will succumb to German or English or American influence? Of course not. The Soviet people will always be able to produce leaders and to defend our country against invaders, just as we've always defended ourselves in the past."

The article accused Stalin of causing disastrous crop failures throughout the Soviet Union in the early 1930s, then liquidating those around him as being responsible for the famine. It says that during the great purges of the 1930s, Stalin murdered millions of persons, including some of the country's greatest military tacticians.

"Honest, loyal Leninists, devoted to the cause of the Revolution— they were the first to go when Stalin imposed his arbitrary rule on the party," the article said. "We have no choice but to rehabilitate all of Stalin's victims ... All those who perished should not only be given back their names; they should be presented to the people as martyrs of the terror waged by Stalin."

The slaughter of military bosses who Stalin thought wanted to overthrow him reduced the effectiveness of the Soviet army when Germany attacked, the article charged.

Khrushchev survived the purges, the articles says, because he was teaching Communist party dogma at the Moscow Industrial Academy to Nadezhda Sergeyevna Alliluyeva, Stalin's second wife who committed suicide in 1932.

"I stayed alive while most of my contemporaries, my classmates at the Academy, lost their heads as enemies of the people," the article says. "I've often asked myself, 'How was I spared?' I think part of the answer is that Nadya's reports helped determine Stalin's attitude toward me. I call it my lottery ticket. I drew a lucky lottery ticket when it happened that Stalin observed my activities through Nadezhda Sergeyevna. It was because of her that Stalin trusted me.

"In later years he sometimes attacked and insulted me; but right up until the last day of his life he liked me. It would be stupid to talk about this man loving anyone, but there's no doubt that he held me in great respect."

Sheriff Rides Horse After Losing Driver License

CAMPBELLSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Sheriff Junior Sprowles' ability to catch speeding motorists is now down to one horsepower.

The state recently picked up the sheriff's driver's license—an action still being disputed—so he's riding a five-gaited show horse to work.

After Sprowles makes his daily rounds in this community of about 7,000, he hitches Prince outside the courthouse in the space ordinarily reserved for his cruiser.

"I don't need an operator's license, no license tag, nor do I have to pay the $10 fee the city charges motorists," the 47-year-old officer said.

The sheriff was arrested Oct. 18 by Campbellsville police. He was charged with drunken driving after refusing to submit to a Breathalyzer test. Under Kentucky law, this is grounds for a six-month license suspension.

Sprowles denies he was drinking.

DREDGING OPERATIONS on the Mississippi River bridge near Cairo are underway, pumping 16,000 cubic yards of sand each day from the river bottom. When completed in February, more than a million cubic yards will be dredged from the river. Forty men are working on the operation. To date more than 200,000 cubic yards of fill have been pumped. The sand is sent to shore along a pipe that runs under the walkway leading to pumps. These pictures were taken from the Missouri side of the river.

$1,012 Collected For Telethon

CHARLESTON — The Charleston Auxiliary Wives collected $1,012.60 for the Crippled Children's telethon Saturday and Sunday by using a road block technique.

Pledges by telephone totalling $225.46 were also relayed from Charleston to the Channel 6 studios during the 14-hour event.

Jack Carson, chairman of the Easter Seal Society, which benefits from the telethon, said East Prairie results have not been turned in.

In 1895, The World Almanac recalls, Booker T. Washington, an American Negro educator, made a controversial speech calling upon his race to concentrate on gaining material advantages rather than social equality through agitation or militancy. Opponents contended that the full rights of citizenship guaranteed by the Constitution could not be realized within this theory.

Attitude Survey in Charleston

CHARLESTON — Residents of Charleston have an opportunity this week to tell what is right or wrong with the community through a Community Attitude Survey" being conducted by the Community Betterment Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Marion Waggener, Community Betterment chairman, said the questionnaire covers nearly every phase of community life, including business and residential areas, recreation, and community services.

The survey form is printed on the opinion page of today's Enterprise- Courier, and is to be filled out by Charleston residents and mailed or brought to the Chamber of Commerce office.

"The object of the survey," Mr. Waggener said, "is to find out exactly where Charleston is doing a good job and where it is falling down.

"Many cities and towns are losing their most important asset, people, to other communities. Often this happens in spite of the best efforts of the losing community. The problem may be that the community leaders have overlooked some vital area of community life.

"We want to know how Charleston measures up as a place to live, and the only way we can be sure we are getting a complete and true picture is by asking the people who really know - the people who live here."

Waggener said the survey is a major step in the community betterment program, in which the Chamber is working along with the state Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

Community betterment covers all these aspects of Charleston's life — business, agriculture, education, transportation, beautification, recreation, and many others.

"You hear a lot of talk about industrial development being the key to a prosperous community," Mr. Waggener said, "but that isn't enough. It is only one part of an overall picture which includes improvement in the quality of all elements of community life.

"This survey is important because it will tell us where we are now, and will indicate what has to be done- what all our citizens want to be done - to make Charleston a well- rounded town and a place where our young people will want to settle down and raise their families."

Waggener said the committee hopes all Charleston residents will fill out and return the survey form.

Phony Aspect About Khrushchev Memoirs

By Editorial Research Reports

NEW YORK — The first installment of the purported memoirs of former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev appears in Life magazine on Monday.

Nobody appears to be certain of the source of the forthcoming "reminiscences" of Khrushchev. His wife, Nina, categorically denies that her husband is the author. Experts think they smell a rat. Vitaly Yevgenyevich Lui, alias Victor Louis, is being suggested as the agent who succeeded in placing the memoirs in the West.

Indeed, who could be a more likely candidate? While in London earlier this year, Louis described himself as a family friend of the Khrushchevs who was anxious to be of help in publishing his memoirs. In 1967 Louis had been the key figure in arrangments made by NBC for the documentary titled "Khrushchev in Exile: His opinion and Revelations."

The form of the memoirs, which freely criticize Stalin but refrain from denigrating the present leadership in the Kremlin, would seem to indicate a subtle hand. Louis -- a Soviet citizen of Jewish ancestry who was imprisoned in Siberia under Stalin – takes exactly the same ideological position.

As Moscow correspondent for the London Evening News, Louis has had a remarkable series of exclusives. It was he who predicted the fall of Khrushchev back in 1964, cautioned the world about the likelihood of the invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968, and warned the Chinese last October of the possibility of a Soviet pre-emptive strike against their nuclear installations at Lop Nor. This past summer it was Louis again who announced to the world that Leonid Brezhnev would not be going to Bucharest to sign a Treaty of Friendship with the Rumanians because of a sudden illness.

Louis first accompanies the aging Russian author, Valeri Tarsis, to Britain in February 1966 and then denounced him as a psychotic. As the KGB's literary agent, he pirated a controversial and slightly doctored edition of Svetlana Stalins's memoirs in April 1967. At that time Louis offered western publishers exclusive photographs of the Stalin family for inclusion in the memoirs.

One of the favorite guessing-games of correspondents in Moscow revolves around the question of who protects Victor Louis. When Editorial Research Reports asked Louis in Moscow this summer where he was getting his information about Brezhnev's diplomatic illness, Louis retorted, "Are you asking me or telling me that I work with the KGB?"

"Why can't you believe that I am just a professional journalist?" asked the pudgy, bespectacled Louis. Because, for one, in 1968 Louis became the first Soviet citizen in 19 years to pay a visit to the Nationalist Chinese bastion of Formosa and was received by the "court" of Chiang Kai-schk. Subsequently Louis visited Spain, with which Russia had not had diplomatic relations since the Spanish Civil War, and proceeded to patch things up.

Louis was visibly upset when questioned this summer about the small bust which had been erected in the Kremlin to honor Stalin. But he dismissed this by saying, "We have to place Stalin in perspective." Louis and his wife both seemed to be quite satisfied with their life in Russia. "I don't want any part of your so-called democracy with its pollution and its tasteless white bread," he said. "I had a chance to go to America after I came out of Siberia, but I decided to take my chances here in Moscow."

Pope Honors Monsignor

CHARLESTON — The Rt. Rev. Charles P. Schmitt, pastor of St. Henry's Church, has been elevated to the rank of Protonotory Apostolic by Pope Paul VI.

Announcement of the honor was made this week in The Mirror, newspaper of the Roman Catholic diocese of Springfield - Cape Girardeau.

The parchment document certifying the new honor was presented to Bishop William W. Baum during a recent visit of the bishop to the Vatican in Rome.

The Protonotory Apostolic is the highest honor given in the papal household short of the bishopric. The honor carries with it the title of Reverend Monsignor.

Msgr. Schmitt was honored in recognition of his services to the diocese since its beginnings in 1956. The Charleston pastor has served as vicar general, and during the period between the reassignment of Bishop Charles Helmsing and the appointment of Bishop Ignatius J. Strecker, Msgr. Schmitt also served as administrator of the diocese.

He is currently serving as vicar general along with Msgr. John W. Westhues, who is also rector of St. Agnes Cathedral, Springfield. Msgr. Schmitt is a member of the Council of Administration, Consultors to the Bishop, Synodal Examiners, and director of the Priest's Eucharistic League, Confraternity of the Most Blessed Sacrament. He is also chairman of the diocesan liturgical commission, and a member of the diocesan school board.

Veteran Police Chief Accused Of Oppression

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP)— John Obertz, police chief in Jennings, Mo. for 24 years, surrendered Saturday on three charges of oppression in office.

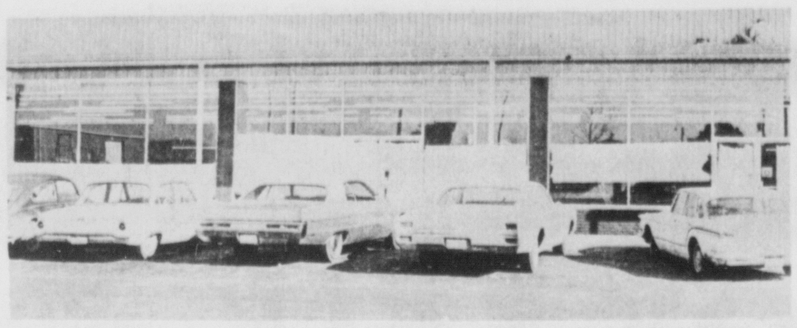
Obertz, 73, retired Oct. 31, giving health and age as reasons.

The charges allege Obertz took sexual advantage of a woman prisoner. The suppressed indictments were returned by a St. Louis County grand jury Thursday.

Obertz was accompanied by an attorney and bondsman when he surrendered. He was released after posting $12,000 bond.

The indictments accused Obertz of committing three acts of oppression in office last April 22. One charge is that he threatened to jail a 22-year-old Negro woman if she did not grant him sexual liberties. The second charge is that Obertz took indecent liberties with the woman and the third charge is that he accepted $57 from the woman in payment for a court fine and costs but that he kept $25 of it.

Last July the St. Louis County grand jury began an investigation of alleged misconduct by Obertz and complaints against the Jennings police department.



THE OPENING OF WAL-MART DISCOUNT CITY in Dexter is scheduled Dec. 1. The store is at the Town and Country Shopping Center, highway 114 West.

Six Indicted in Carbondale Shooting

MURPHYSBORO, Ill — A Jackson county grand jury has indicted six men on 37 counts in connection with a series of shooting incidents last Thursday morning in Carbondale.

State's Attorney Richard Richmond said the jury was in session Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 5:30 and heard "a number of witnesses including several residents of the neighborhood" where the 90-minute battle took place.

He said the following indictments were made by the jury:

Donald M. Jackson — two counts of attempt to commit murder, three counts of aggravated battery and one count of armed violence.

Joe Brown and Thomas Dotson — four counts of attempt to commit murder, eight counts of aggravated assault, one count of criminal damage to property. Brown was also charged with unlawful possession of firearms and Dotson with unlawful use of weapons.

Leonard Thomas, Michael Johnson and James K. Holley — seven counts of attempt to commit murder, seven counts of aggravated assault, one count of mob action and one of criminal damage to property.

Richmond said Holley had originally been identified as Babatuade Dmowali. Holley, Brown and Dotson are still patients at the Doctors Hospital in Carbondale where they are being treated for gunshot wounds.

Richmond said his next step will be to set trial for the six. "It will be as soon as possible," he said, "Probably in January after the holidays."

In Carbondale, City Manager Wm. Schmidt said he will wait until next week when City Attorney Ron Briggs returns before starting an investigation into the shooting incidents.

The idea of the investigation came after several marches and rallies in support of the arrested men, and a meeting between resident of northeast Carbondale, where the battle took place, and the city manager.

State's Attorney Richmond said he knows of no incidents that would warrant a similar investigation by himself or a grand jury.

Wal-Mart to Open Dec. 1

DEXTER — The opening of Wal- Mart Discount City at the Town and Country Shopping Center, highway 114, West, is scheduled for Dec. 1, General Manager Galen Glass announced.

The building has 30,000 square feet. Approximately 45 to 50 will be employed during the Christmas season with local help numbering approximately 25.

Glass, 809 West Bain, is formerly of Lebanon and was a manager of a Family Center store there. He has been associated with Wal- Mart four years.

Bill Evans, 446 Fannetta, will be assistant manager in charge of soft lines and Ron White, Gas Light Village Trailer Court, will be assistant manager in charge of hard lines.

Stu, Tom Vote Against Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)— The 48-35 roll call vote by which the Senate Thursday passed and sent to the White House a three- year compromise farm bill included, from Missouri:

Democrats against -- Eagleton and Symington.

Seniority of Each New Senator Already Settled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new senators who take office in January are equal—but they'll soon find out that some are more equal than others.

Though all 10 will become senators the same date, the Senate Rules Committee has already prepared a seniority listing to help in such things as selecting offices, parking places and Senate desks.

It's a system that has been used for more than a quarter of a century.

Thus, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, returning to the Senate after a six-year absence, will be No. 91, while Lawton Chiles Jr. of Florida will be No. 100.

One new senator, Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois, occupied his seat last Tuesday, since he was elected to fill the last four years of the term of the late Everett M. Dirksen. Stevenson is now No. 100, but in January he will outrank his fellow newcomers as No. 90.

For those who take office the same date, they are ranked in this order: former senators (Humphrey is the only one), former House members (seven of the newcomers), and James Buckley of New York and Chiles.

Within each category, the length of congressional experience and then the population of the state determine seniority.

Thus, the seven past and present House members coming to the Senate will rank in this order:

No. 92. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. of Texas.

No. 93. Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio.

No. 94. William E. Brock III of Tennessee.

No. 95. John V. Tunney of California.

No. 96. William V. Roth of Delaware.

No. 97. J. Glenn Beall Jr. of Maryland.

No. 98. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut.

Buckley gets 99th spot ahead of Chiles because New York is bigger than Florida.

Before the new members get a shot at the offices being vacated, those who are already here get a chance, starting with No. 1, Sen. Richard B. Russell, DGa. Most senior senators don't move.

One thing that is not determined absolutely by the seniority list is the assignment of senators to committees by the Democratic Steering Committee and the Republican Committee on Committees. But seniority plays a part when two senators request the same spot.

Jury Acquits Mrs. Thoresen Of Murder

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Louise Thoresen was acquitted Friday of murder charges in the death of her millionaire gun collector husband, William Thoresen III.

The eight-man, four-women jury returned their verdict just 11 hours after they got the case from Judge Joseph J. Joy.

The judge convened court at 3:45 a.m. when the jury reached a verdict, and the court clerk read it aloud.

Mrs. Thoresen was joyfully embraced by her parents in the courtroom. The 34-year-old defendant was not set free, however, since she is being held on a New York warrant involving a gun charge.

Mrs. Thoresen's husband, son of a Chicago steel executive, was shot to death in the couple's Fresno home last June 10.

In his summation, Deputy Dist. Atty. Frank Wells showed the jury color photos of the bullet-riddled back of the victim. The holes were close together. Wells commented:

"That, ladies and gentlemen, is known as a good group. To get that kind of group you have to aim, and that takes time."

Kenneth DeVaney, one of Mrs. Thoresen's lawyers, talked to the jury while beating the floor with a riding crop he said Thoresen used to beat his 34-year-old wife. Said DeVaney:

"Either Louise Thoresen is guilty of murder in the first degree or she is not guilty. We say she is not guilty."

Thoresen, said DeVaney, "was a madman, a sick man, a depraved man."

The prosecution had argued throughout the trial that Mrs. Thoresen killed her husband for the rest of her husband's estate and the love for another man, and that she ended Thoresen's life while he slept.

The defense contended Thoresen committed repeated attacks on his wife, and toward the end became "like an animal that gives warning before it strikes" and had so warned his wife before he was killed.

Defense lawyer James Shepard told why his client killed her husband:

"She was standing there by the bed with two broken ribs and a punctured ear drum" from a beating administered earlier.

"She could hardly raise her left arm ... I don't know what you would have done but I have my own thought in the matter."

POLLY'S POINTERS

Here Are Some Uses For Baby Food Jars

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Shirley can make paperweights with some of her many baby food jars. Tint water with food coloring and pour into jars. Place a sprig or one big plastic flower (big enough so it does not drift into different positions) in the water with the stem side up. Add a small handful of sequins and twist the lid on each jar very tightly. Turn upside down and watch the sequins settle in a different place each time a jar is moved. The lids could first be spray painted. It also may make you feel better to know none of mine have ever leaked.—PEGGY

DEAR POLLY—Shirley could fill some of those many leftover baby food jars with homemade jelly. Fill them with several different kinds of jelly and arrange the jars in a wicker basket or whatever you like. Wrap the entire package in transparent wrap and add a bow to have a very personal, attractive and inexpensive Christmas gift for someone.—MRS. J. P.

DEAR POLLY—Shirley could make beautiful candlesticks with leftover baby food jars. I used 4½-ounce jars. Remove paper labels and screw lids on tightly. With all-purpose white glue, glue three jars together, one on top of another. Then do four, one on top of another, then the same with two. Let glue dry completely. Take three lids from other jars and place them upside down on top of each of the three groups made, glue them on and let dry. I spray-painted each of mine black and have three smart candlesticks of graduated heights. I put large, short candles in the top of each, but any size candles could be used. The lid on top catches the drippings. Of course, these could be painted any desired color but black looks smart with my Spanish furniture and black iron accessories.—JAN

DEAR POLLY—My daughter made cute Santa Claus candy jars from small baby food jars. Cut a piece of red felt in the shape of a quarter-circle so one side fits around the jar lid, fold it like a dunce cap. Sew it down in the middle, fold the point down, put a little tassel on the point and a white felt band on the bottom. Cut another white felt band and glue it on the bottom of the jar for a belt. Add a fat white mustache, a little red circle tongue, two black dots for eyes, white eyebrows and a green bow for a tie under the mouth. Fill jar with small candies. Very cute for favors or to give small visitors during the holidays. —C. L. J.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have some lovely old thumbprint pattern glasses with one-inch red bands around the rims. Most of this color has worn off, so I wonder if it would be possible to remove the remaining color. There might be some collectors of old glass among your readers who could help me.—MRS. E. D.

IT'S THANKSGIVING. BUT WHAT IF YOU HAVE NO BLESSINGS TO COUNT?

Consider for a moment.

Suppose you were the poorest man in all America. Without shoes. Adequate clothing or housing. Without education. Ill fed. Sick. Maligned.

What would you have to be thankful for while most of the rest of America was sitting down to a fat turkey dinner?

You would still have the breath of God in your lungs.

You would still have that most beautiful gift of all gifts, the ability to hope.

You would still possess God's love.

But very probably, since you're reading this newspaper, you're not the poorest man in all America.

It's likely you have a television set.

A warm bed to sleep in.

A happy feast to share with relatives and friends this Thanksgiving Day.

In short—lucky you—you do, indeed have a lot to thank God for.

And while you're thanking God, don't forget to thank Him for yet another gift He's given you. The ability to help others. The desire to share. To open your heart and your hand and your mind to someone, somewhere, who just might not be quite as lucky as you are.

Think. If everybody exercised this wonderful gift, imagine how much more this old world would have to be thankful for on Thanksgiving, 1971!

Armed Forces

U.S. ARMY, Vietnam — Army Specialist Four John McDermott, son of Vernon H. McDermott, of East Prairie, Mo., received the Army Commendation Medal near Chu Lai, Vietnam.
McDermott received the award for heroism in action while engaged in military operations against a hostile force in Vietnam.
He is assigned as an operator with the 39th engineer battalion's 137th engineer company. He entered the army in February 1968 and was last stationed in Germany. He holds the purple heart.

Battle Shapes Over Supersonic Transport

By Editorial Research Reports
WASHINGTON — The Senate will vote sometime before Dec. 1 on he Nixon administration's request for $290 million to continue development of a supersonic transport.
One of the major battles of the interminable 91st Congress is shaping up over the fate of America's supersonic transport program. At issue is a $290 million appropriation for development of two SST prototypes. But in a broader context, the outcome will affect such basic concerns as protection of the enviornment, the setting of national priorities, and U.S. technological leadership.
Both sides forecast victory. Sen. Mike Gravel (D Alaska) predicts at least 65 votes in the Senate in favor of the appropriation during the special congressional session. The House barely approved the money last May 27 by a 176 to 168 roll-call vote.
Since that time, the appropriation -- part of a comprehensive transportation budget of $7.052 billion - has been marking time on the Senate side while supporters try to find a propitious time for a showdown. Meantime, both sides are lobbying intensively.
Anti-SST forces have grouped together in an organization known as Coalition Against the Supersonic Transport. It contains such diverse interests as the Consumer Federation of America, the National Taxpayers Union, the Sierra Club, Friends of the Earth, the United Auto Workers, and the Longshoremen's Union. By the coalition's count, 43 Senators are on record against the SST funding, three have indicated reservations, and 12 more are "receptive" to arguments.
Floor leadership of the anti-SST fight rests in the hands of an unlikely foursome: Sens. William Proxmire (D Wis.), Marlow W. Cook (R Ky.), Charles H. Percy (R Ill.) and Harry F. Byrd Jr. (D Va.). Their job, among others, is to keep down the number of absentees for the climactic vote.
Lobbying in favor of the SST is a similarly mixed bag of forces. The AFL-CIO executive council announced in August that it wouldpress for approval, arguing that the United States "cannot afford to be left in the lurch" in world competition for an SST. Aerospace companies also are putting on the heat. Fairchild-Hiller is buying radio spots in Washington, D. C., to describe how its subcontract on he SST would bring 700 jobs to Hagerstown, Md.
Deep cutbacks in aerospace employment make the SST a bread-and-butter issue in that industry. In full production, the SST program is forecast to provide 50,000 jobs in 40 states, and 100,000 more in supporting activities. Of immediate concern is the status of 5,000 jobs -- in depressed Seattle, where Boeing is building the prototypes, and in Cincinnati, where General Electric is at work on the engines.
The Department of Transportation has set up an SST "command post" to provide information, day or night, to news media reporters. By dialing 202-962-5555, a caller presumably will receive answers on any question relating to the SST. This system was the brainchild of SST program director William M. Magruder.
Some $708 million already has been appropriated for the SST, just about half of the anticipated cost of building the two prototype. Once started, R & D programs involving sophisticated technology are hard to call off. Congress put up $1.3 billion during the 1950s to develop a nuclear-powered airplane. President Kennedy halfted the project in 1961 when it appeared it might cost $10 billion more to achieve the necessary breakthrough.

Impact of Union Electric Strike Spans 3 States

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Full impact of a strike by Operating Engineers Local 148 against nine Union Electric Co. plants in Missouri, Iowa and Illinois was expected today during a work stoppage continuing from last week.
Wayne Duckworth, Local 148 business representative, said the walkout at noon Friday followed exhaustion of grievance procedures in a dispute over a work assignment at the company's Portage Des Sioux, Mo., plant.
Pickets were set up later at plants in and around St. Louis, at Bagnell Dam on the Lake of the Ozarks, at Taum Sauk near Ironton, Mo., at Vencie and Cahokia in Illinois and at Keokuk, Iowa.
Supervisory personnel aided in operation of the plants over the weekend, but members of the Electrical Workers Union were expected to honor the Operating Engineers picket lines today.
The union consists of between 1,150 and 1,350 members. Union Electric serves more than 750,000 consumers in its three-state region.

More Funds For Library Network

ST. LOUIS — The Bi - State RMP regional medical library network, in which Missouri Delta Community Hospital is a participant, is one of five projects receiving additional funds for continued operation.
Funds were included in the $1,250,279 award granted to Bi-State Regional Medical Program in St. Louis by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Bi- State RMP is charged with improving health care - particularly in heart disease, cancer and stroke - for patients in southern Illinois and eastern Missouri.
The library network, which began operation last July, is designed to extend medical center library capabilities throughout the region by linking community hospitals with a medical center library in St. Louis, making available loans, reference and photocopy services. Approximately 90 hospitals in Illinois and Missouri are now participating in the project.
The grant also included funds to initiate a coronary care nurses training program and funds to continue the Bi- State RMP Radiation Therapy Consultative Program, the Comprehensive Stroke Diagnostic Demonstration Program, the Nursing Demonstration for Acute Stroke care and the program to develop a health care accessibility system for Pruitt-Igoe, a St. Louis Model Cities housing project.

Improved public health measures have encouraged a giant population explosion that threatens to outrun agricultural production in Colombia. The South American country's 21 million population will rise to 300 million by 1970 if the current trend continues.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

For the first time since 1953 we are planning increases in the rates for many out-of-state calls.

AT&T has filed a new schedule of rates with the Federal Communications Commission which increases charges for customer-dialed interstate calls during weekday business hours and for all operator-assisted interstate calls.
All rates for calls you dial yourself without operator assistance in the evenings, at night, on weekends or on holidays will remain unchanged or be reduced.
The new rates are filed to become effective on January 19, 1971.

Here are the specific provisions of the new rates for out-of-state calls:

1. Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, will be increased — up to 10 cents for the first three minutes.
2. Rates for all operator-assisted calls (including person-to-person, credit-card, collect, and coin telephone calls) will be increased in amounts ranging from 5 cents to 30 cents for the first three minutes.
3. Where rates for the first three minutes of a call are increased, the rates for each additional minute will be increased in a range of one cent to five cents.
4. Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance during evenings, nights, or weekends will remain the same — or, in a few cases, actually be reduced. For example, the rate for calls dialed coast-to-coast from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday, or 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, will still be 70 cents for the first three minutes.

This will be the first general increase in interstate Long Distance rates in 17 years. During that period, in spite of continuing inflation, interstate Long Distance rates have been reduced repeatedly. Even with the increase, the level of these rates will still be about 14 percent below the 1953 level. Yet in those 17 intervening years, the cost of living has gone up 47 percent.
The new rates recognize the higher labor and equipment costs associated with operator-assisted calls, and are designed to increase total revenues from interstate service by about six percent.
We have filed for the increase so that we can assure adequate earnings to attract investors in a money market which, like everything else, has felt the impact of inflation. This ability to attract new capital is essential if we are to continue to provide high-quality telecommunications service and meet the growing demands for communications services in this country.

U.S. POWs . . . How YOU Can Help

THE LETTER on the page opposite is an appeal to Ton Duc Thang, the President of North Vietnam, on behalf of the 1,600 U.S. Servicemen who are prisoners of war or missing in action in Southeast Asia. Below is a translation of the letter, which originally appeared in the San Diego Union and was called to our attention through a reprint in the Teledyne Ryan Aeronautical Reporter.

We ask you to sign the letter and mail it ($.25 postage) to: Ton Duc Thang, President, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam.

Before you do, however, you can do something much more important: Take the letter to the editor of your local newspaper (your base paper, also). Ask him to reprint it and to ask his readers also to write to Hanoi. In this way your action, your drop in the bucket, can be magnified a hundredfold, a thousandfold, a millionfold.

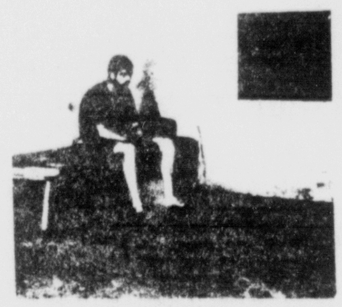
Don't take no for an answer. And don't depend on someone else to do the job for you. YOU have to do it. Lip service is not enough. What we ask here will take perhaps an hour or two of your time. Some of our men in prison camps have sacrificed over five years of their time.

And don't think your action won't have any effect on Hanoi. Since public attention in this country first started focusing on the POW issue there has been a vast increase in the number of U.S. POWs who have been permitted to write home to their families.

Let's make this a national drive. The goal is ten million letters to Hanoi before Christmas. You can help start action in your community to reach that goal. But don't wait. Do it today.

James D. Hessman and
Benjamin F. Schemmer

To the Honorable Ton Duc Thang:
We take this means of appealing to you on a situation which is close to the hearts of all Americans. This issue is not whether Americans should be in Vietnam or whether we should pull all our troops out immediately. The issue is not whether you are right and we are wrong or that we are right and you are wrong.
The issue is the 450 American Servicemen who are held in your prison camps. Another 1,150 are listed as missing and possibly some are your prisoners.
Their situation is our united concern.
Both the "doves and the hawks" of America feel deeply about them and their welfare. We ask you to consider their immediate release. They have no military value to you. They can't hurt or hamper your war effort and no longer would help ours.
These men, like your soldiers, do not institute policy but merely serve as soldiers have done since time began. Like your men, they performed their duty and were willing to sacrifice for their country. Like your soldiers, they left their homes and families not because they wanted to but because their country called on them.
Patriotism is not limited to the men of Vietnam or to the men of America but is the privilege of all men. They fight under their flag whether it be red, white and blue or red, yellow and blue.
Your supporters in this country could take satisfaction from the release of the prisoners. This, more than anything else, would demonstrate that you, too, do not seek revenge against men who did their duty. This, too, would show the world that compassion, not punishment, can lead to peace.
The arguments of your critics that human life means nothing to you would be baseless if you allowed just peace by acting quickly to the appeal.
If your heart contains mercy and your soul compassion and if you truly seek to help the cause of peace, you have an opportunity to achieve these images in the eyes of the world.
The feeling here is that you don't care about the individual; that his needs and wants and desires don't matter; that life is not sacred to you.
Your actions can give lie to these beliefs. An act of amnesty toward American prisoners would show the world that you are concerned with life and that all life is sacred.
Family ties in America are strong and all Americans want these men reunited with their families. Some fathers have never seen their children. Some are missing the joy of watching them grow.
And, the children, they live with a constant dream and hope that they may again be a whole family.
Few men in the history of the world have been given the opportunity that you now have.
History can record you as a man of compassion; a man who respected human life and held it in high value; a man who held that family life is paramount providing a measure of peace to many families.
Return these men to their families and the world would hail you. Retain them and your supporters can't help but wonder about your sincerity and motives.
We address you not as one enemy to another but as one human to another.
As citizens of the United States we have no power to offer anything as individuals but goodwill in exchange for the men you hold. We have no power to make threats if you don't.
We only have hope; hope that you will heed the pleas and restore these men to their families.



Thưa Ngài Tôn Đức Thắng:

Chúng tôi dùng hình thức kêu gọi này để lưu ý Ngài về hoàn cảnh đã làm tắt cả người Mỹ bận tâm. Lối thoát của việc này không phải là người Mỹ phải có mặt ở Việt-Nam hay người Mỹ phải rút lui-bỏ khải tắt cả quân đội. Cũng không phải là Ngài có lý hay chúng tôi không có lý, hoặc chúng tôi hành động hợp lý hay Ngài hành động bất hợp lý.

Vấn đề là 450 quân nhân Mỹ đang bị cầm tù ở các trại giam của Ngài. 1150 người khác được ghi là mất tích và có thể một số người đó cũng là tù binh của Ngài.

Tình trạng của họ là mối quan tâm chung của chúng ta. Cả hai phe "bồ câu và diều hâu" ở Mỹ đều ấy này về số phận và tình trạng sức khỏe của họ. Chúng tôi thỉnh cầu Ngài xét việc phóng thích họ ngay. Họ chẳng có giá trị gì đối với Ngài về quân sự. Họ không làm hại hay cản trở sự chiến đấu của Ngài và không còn giúp ích gì cho chúng tôi.

Cũng như quân nhân của Ngài, họ không xây dựng chính sách, mà chỉ phục vụ như các quân nhân từ ngàn xưa. Cũng như quân nhân của Ngài, họ đã thi hành bổn phận và mong muốn được hy sinh cho xứ sở họ. Cũng như quân nhân của Ngài, họ rời bỏ nhà cửa gia đình không phải vì họ muốn như vậy, mà để đáp lời kêu gọi của quê hương.

Lòng yêu nước không phải chỉ dành cho người Việt hay người Mỹ mà là đặc quyền của mọi người. Họ chiến đấu dưới là cờ của họ dù nó là đỏ, trắng và xanh, hay bạc và vàng.

Những người ủng hộ Ngài ở Mỹ cũng có thể hài lòng về việc Ngài phóng thích tù binh. Việc đó cũng tỏ ra là Ngài không thả thù những người đã thi hành nhiệm vụ của họ. Việc đó cũng cho thế giới rõ rằng lòng thương, chứ không phải sự trừng phạt, có thể đưa tới hòa bình.

Nếu Ngài có lòng thương và thực sự muốn tìm kiếm hòa bình thì đây là dịp để Ngài thực hiện hình ảnh ấy trước dư luận thế giới.

Người Mỹ cảm thấy rằng Ngài không quan tâm tới cá nhân, cũng như cái sự ý muốn của nó, và mạng sống chẳng có gì là linh thiêng.

Hành động của Ngài sẽ đánh tan ý nghĩ đó. Sự ân xá tù binh Mỹ sẽ tỏ cho thế giới rằng Ngài quan tâm tới sinh mạng linh thiêng của con người.

Giây liên lạc gia đình ở Mỹ rất mạnh và mọi người Mỹ muốn các tù binh đó được tái hiệp với gia đình họ. Nhiều người cha chưa hề được thấy con họ và nhìn chúng lớn lên. Con họ luôn luôn mong mỏi sẽ tái hiệp.

Trong lịch sử thế giới, ít nhân vật nào có được dịp may như Ngài hiện có. Lịch sử sẽ ghi nhận Ngài là người có lòng thương, đã tôn trọng và nêu cao sinh mạng con người, đã coi đời sống gia đình là tuyệt đỉnh và đã giúp sự yên ổn cho nhiều gia đình.

Thế giới sẽ tung hô Ngài nếu các tù binh được xum họp với gia đình. Nếu Ngài còn giam giữ họ thì các người ủng hộ Ngài sẽ nghi ngờ lòng thành thật và ý định của Ngài.

Chúng tôi ngỏ lời với Ngài không phải như địch thủ, mà là người biết thông cảm. Những công dân Hoa Kỳ là các cá nhân nên không có quyền lực, nhưng có thiện ý để thay đổi cho việc ân xá tù binh. Chúng tôi không có quyền đưa ra nếu Ngài không đáp ứng lời thỉnh cầu.

Chúng tôi chỉ hy vọng; hy vọng rằng Ngài sẽ lưu tâm đến lời thỉnh cầu này và giao trả tù binh về với gia đình họ.

The 'New Politics' Is Not Yet a Fact

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

HONOLULU (NEA)

The 1970 elections showed once more how inexact a "science" politics is, and also that it is changing in ways different from those some of the alleged experts contend.

At the candidate level, the most astonishing result was the 700,000-vote margin Gov. Nelson Rockefeller ran up over Arthur Goldberg, probably the most prestigious Democrat he has encountered in his four races in New York.

The simple truth is that Rockefeller has been a good governor and is virtually without equal in these times as a campaigner, while Goldberg proved one of the worst politicians ever to hit the hustings.

On the issue front, the interesting thing is that the clearest factor—the unhappy state of the economy—did not bite as deeply as might have been expected.

Much is being made by the analysts of the fact that a large proportion of the blue-collar workers, presumed to be "floating" because of their disenchantment over racial pressures, campus unrest and crime, "stayed put" in the Democratic column.

But if we are actually in a recession, as countless Democrats insist we are, then the political reaction at the congressional level is mild indeed. Republicans gained two Senate seats and lost just eight (possibly a ninth) in the U.S. House.

It also has to be pointed out that Nixon did not do as well with Senate pickups as he expected (Utah and North Dakota remained Democratic despite high Nixon hopes leaving him with an advance of two and possibly three if Sen. Vance Hartke falls in the official count).

Neither did the Democrats attain their goals. From late June on, their most competent leaders said they could wrench Vermont, New York, Illinois and California Senate seats from the GOP. They won only the latter two. Moreover, their privately voiced late August fears that Maryland Sen. Joseph Tydings and Connecticut nominee Rev. Joseph Duffey might go down were realized.

Republicans expected to lose governorships, with 24 of their 32 on the block. The net loss of 11 (at this writing) surprised them. As I have earlier noted, the gains give Democrats potential building blocks for a harder 1972 presidential try, though the GOP evidently has salvaged Michigan and thus holds six of the northern Big Eight.

The President must be faulted, as I indicated in prior reports, for not attending to these races.

One final note: My coverage of 19 states shows the "new politics" as liberals nebulously define it doesn't exist. The real new politics is old politics updated by modern polling and television techniques. But television has its limits, as proved by the old-style dramatics of Florida's Sen.-elect Lawton Chiles and his 1,000-mile walk, and the failure of rich men's television splurges in New York and Ohio Senate races. Ticket-splitting is the big thing—but that has been coming on for years.

Most Airports Lack Modern Guidance Aids

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than half the airports in the country serving scheduled airliners lack modern guidance devices to help pilots make blind landings in bad weather, an Associated Press study shows.

The government's failure to install the electronic equipment, a congressman charges, places air travel "on a collision course with disaster."

The AP study, made in the wake of the 75-death Marshall University football air tragedy, disclosed that more than 8 million passengers a year land at airports without bad-weather guidance beams.

Even the 747 jumbo jets—the most sophisticated airliners ever bu; —are slated to begin landing in 13 days at the Phoenix, Ariz., airport, which has no glide slope landing device.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., whose House subcommittee has held hearings on airport safety, charged the Federal Aviation Administration has failed to set airport requirements for control tower radar and instrument landing system (ILS) equipment.

The Huntington, W. Va., airport where Marshall's chartered twin-engine DC9 jet hit a treestudded ridge while coming in too low on a rainy night has neither radar nor a glide slope device.

A glide slope system beams an electronic signal at the plane to line up the crosshairs on a cockpit instrument and turn on a red warning if the jet strays too low or too high. The DC9, like all modern planes, had the equipment—but Huntington's hilltop airport did not.

Phoenix heads a list of 304 airports in the continental United States that also lack the glide slope landing device—including such major points as Las Vegas, Nev.; Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Tucson, Ariz.; Bangor, Maine, and Helena, Mont.

The commercial airports listed in the latest FAA statistics as lacking instrument landing system ILS guidance equipment to help pilots include:

Missouri -- Cape Girardeau, Columbia, Ft. Leonard Wood, Jefferson City, Kirksville, Moberly.

These 304 airports handle nearly 2,000 flights a day—roughly one out of every nine airline landings in the nation.

This picture emerged from an AP analysis of latest FAA statistics and airline schedules, and interviews with airport officials:

—Even at Los Angeles' busy International Airport, no glide slope was available on the western approach over the Pacific until the past few months. It was not added until after 15 persons were killed when a Scandinavian Airlines jet dipped down into the ocean last year. Federal investigators blamed that crash on the pilots' failure to watch their altitude gauges while wrestling with a landing problem. And there was no glide slope to flash on a red warning in the cockpit.

—At Tucson, Ariz., 40 jetliners touch down daily at a desert airport rimmed by mountains rising up to 9,400 feet. In the control tower, one FAA supervisor said the lack of ILS equipment has caused pilots at night to complain "it's like flying into a black hole."

—At Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a court fight over two palm trees near the runway threshhold has blocked, at least temporarily, the use of new ILS equipment installed, but still idle, at an airport serving a half-million passengers a year.

—Even at the FAA's own busy National Airport in Washington, no glide slope equipment was installed for the approach from the north past the heart of the nation's capital until the past year, a quarter-century after the equipment was put in use at the other end of the runway.

Brooks said the FAA had refused to ask Congress for enough money to install the landing devices and control tower radar at airports throughout the nation.

The Texas congressman said the budget bill asked for $60 million less than Congress had authorized for air traffic control. He called this inexcusable.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the FAA's own employes association, Alan R. Miller, called today for installation of the $100,000 ILS systems at all airports serving scheduled airlines, particularly those located in mountainous terrain.

Most of the airports that lack the equipment are small fields that handle only scattered propellor plane landings daily, such as Pasco, Wash.,Moab, Utah, and Rhinelander, Wis.

But often-crowded DC9 and 737 jets fly into a score of more cities that also are without the bad-weather help.

The jet airports include Butte, Mont.; Dothan, Ala.; Key West, Fla.; Pierre, S.D.; Albany, Ga.; Idaho Falls, Idaho; Kinston, N.C., and others.

Many of the airports without the equipment are serving college towns with such schools as Yale, Iowa, Missouri, West Virginia, Texas A&M, Mississippi, Cornell, Indiana and Oklahoma State.

A federal safety investigator probing the Marshall University tragedy said the decision whether to install ILS equipment is left up to the local municipalities now.

"However, there will be recommendations coming in this area, I'm pretty sure," he said.

Vitamin C Rated Good Cold Cure

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Linus Pauling, the scientist who won two Nobel prizes, says an effective cure for the common cold is as simple as a walk to the corner store.

Vitamin C can do the job, but people have not been making proper use of it, he said Thursday.

If they did, there would be no more colds, he said at a news conference to discuss his book, "Vitamin C and the Common Cold," scheduled for publication Dec. 7.

Pauling offered the following prescription for cold sufferers:

Take about one- half level teaspoon of the powder form of ascorbic acid — vitamin C— each day until the cold disappears.

When a person first catches a cold, he said, taking about one gram of ascorbic acid each hour will chase the discomfort away.

Pauling said continued suffering with colds "is explained by the fact that in the past, the medical student has been taught little about vitamins and nutrition."

"Fortunately, physicians are now beginning to recognize the value of the vitamins," he added.

Pauling said enough vitamin C for a year's worth of cold protection can be bought for about $5 a person.

It is now available at most grocery and drug stores, he said.

Pauling, a scientist also known as an antiwar crusader, said Americans spend about $500 million a year on "cold remedies which do not prevent colds."

"They may decrease somewhat the misery of the cold, but they also do harm because of their toxicity and side effects," he said.

Pauling, who has received Nobel prizes for chemistry and for peace efforts, said he has been using vitamin C to ward off colds with excellent results for five years.

Fire Destroys Old School

BROSELEY — Fire destroyed the old Calvin School near Broseley Tuesday night and damaged a combine parked near-by.

The blaze started about 7:15 p.m., the Highway Patrol said, at the abandoned school building which is located on Highway 51 south of Broseley.

The combine, owned by Ted Hargrove, was parked next to the building, officers reported. Origin of the fire was not determined.

"Yankee Doodle" was written around 1755, by Dr. Richard Shuckburg, to mock homely clad Colonial troops at Fort Crailo in Rensselaer, N.Y., The World Almanac notes. British troops are believed to have marched to the strains of the song while en route to Lexington and Concord. When the British retreated toward Boston, the Colonial forces followed them singing "Yankee Doodle," which became popularized as an American patriotic song.

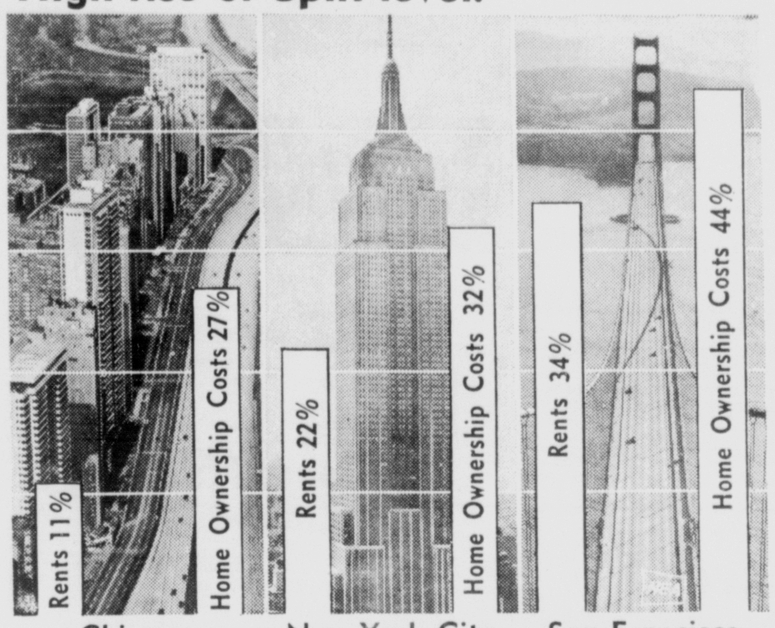
High-rise or Split-level?



Apartments are still a bargain in many metropolitan areas, at least in terms of the rate at which rents have been increasing. In a comparative study of rents and home-ownership costs during the last 10 years, Property Research Corp. has determined that home-ownership costs in eight major cities increased between 27 and 44 per cent from 1960 to 1969, while rents rose less than 22 per cent in seven of the eight cities. Chart shows comparative increases in Chicago, New York and San Francisco, where median monthly rates for 1969 were $161, $148 and $154, respectively.

Davis filled the pitted spots with the same amalgam alloy used to fill teeth, putting the tube back in operation as part of North American Air Defense Command.

Dear Sir,

We are enclosing one check for a subscription to the Standard. I believe $6.00 is correct for one year, if not please notify us. Also may we have a record of just how long a period the money does cover.

As former residents of Sikeston we have found that we miss reading the paper almost as much as old friends are missed.

One further note- wouldn't it be a nicer world if more people such as Mike Jensen took a genuine interest in their occupation instead of an interest in the money they receive on payday. We enjoyed Mike's article on Junior High Football.

If You Were The Judge

Clubbed Husband Entitled to Divorce

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Ruppert conducted a lot of his business transactions at night clubs. Taking a dim view of this practice, Ruppert's wife waited up for him on each occasion with her own night club, a rolling pin. And, the moment Ruppert would roll in, on tip-toes and shoes in hand, she'd start her own night clubbing. She'd batter him on the head with all the vigor of a nudist trying to swat a mosquito.

Finally, in desperation, Ruppert sued to end his marriage on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

"It's either going to be the end of the marriage," he told the judge, "or the end of me. I've been hit by that rolling pin so many times that just to walk on cobblestones hurts my head."

"But he's the one who causes all the trouble," was the wife's answer "If he'd stop fooling around with other women, I'd stop clobbering him. He's not kidding me or anyone else. When he goes to to a night club, it's not for business, it's for monkey business."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you free nightclubbing Ruppert from his night clubbing wife?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held, in effect, that while a husband may not be a paragon of virtue, a wife cannot go around beating him over the head and accusing him of unfaithfulness without proof.

Based upon a 1962 Pennsylvania Superior Court Decision.

Amusing Yarns Of Wacky People In Human Race

BABY, IT'S COLD INSIDE. By S.J. Perelman. Simon & Schuster. $6.50.

Somehow the veteran jester Perelman keeps spinning out his yarns about wacky people (including himself) for year after year. This book is a collection of 32 magazine pieces of recent years, tuned to the aberrations of the so-called human race.

He loves the offbeat anecdote. Often it is a tale of the theater or the films; some of the narratives are about stage concoctions with which he was associated, often with disastrous results; others reflect, with ludicrous effects, his experiences in Hollywood.

He also is a wanderer who makes game of his own downfalls as a tourist. For examples, an account of a dreary boat trip in Florida and a soggy visit to an Irish castle. He also has a sly piece about a Dubliner trading on the legend of James Joyce.

Perelman has a good many jibes about the English. Part of them deal with ignorant snobbery, and one item pokes fun at the studied insolence of English clerks, salesmen, waiters and other service personnel.

A few of these pieces fall flat and seem contrived, as though the author's comic muse had been suffering from a hangover.

Yet Perelman is in there pitching, and he has a good percentage. He deals in farce and folly, and his tangy style makes it all amusing.

Simple Device Might Sustain Moon Colony

SPACE CENTER, Houston AP) — Colonies on the moon may be able to produce their own oxygen and water through a device developed by 10 scientists at the Manned Spacecraft Center here.

The device mixes hydrogen gas with heated lunar soil to produce steam. The steam can be cooled into water, which in turn can be processed to yield oxygen and hydrogen.

"This process would make it possible to sustain manned colonies on the moon or elsewhere in the solar system in the future," said Andre J. Meyer, chief of the advanced studies office. "If a crew of astronauts got stranded on the moon, they could use this system to sustain themselves with oxygen and water."

Dr. Robin Brett, a geochemist at the space center, said scientists and engineers worked out the principles of the simple device and have tested it successfully, using simulated lunar soil.

"Any chemist, if he thought about it for five minutes, could have come up with it," said Brett. "The real break-through was knowing what kind of material is on the moon."

Brett, Meyer and eight other scientists have applied for a patent on the process and the device.

Brett said the oxygen comes from a common lunar mineral called ilmenite, a form of iron oxide. Hydrogen would have to be brought from earth, but most of it could be recirculated after it was used in the process.

Meyer said a device weighing only about 400 pounds could produce all the oxygen needed for four men in a moon station.

Brett and Meyer said the design of the oxygen-water maker has not been applied to any particular mission so far and will not be flown on any of the remaining Apollo moon flights.

Many a tipsy motorist discovers he has been on a crash diet.

Hardin Bids To Calm Farm Furor

WASHINGTON (AP) — As soon as the Senate approved the long-awaited farm bill, Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin tried to calm the troubled waters around dissident farm organizations.

"While there were a few partisan overtones during the past few weeks," Hardin said, "this bill does represent a major cooperative accomplishment on the part of the two parties."

Except for noting "a few partisan overtones" Hardin's view in a statement last week was not new. For almost 20 months of farm policy development, Hardin has maintained an outward role of seeking a "consensus" on programs for 1971-73.

The National Farmers Union, however, discounted the consensus objective sometime ago and opposed the administration-backed farm bill with all the force it could muster.

Now that the bill is ready for President Nixon's signature, the NFU is not letting the administration forget its opposition.

NFU President Tony T. Dechant said in a statement over the weekend that the farm bill is a "reckless exercise in power politics" and that it was a setback for farmers.

The NFU earlier had claimed the farm bill had contributed to Republican election losses in a number of farm-belt states.

"The farm revolt that began in the November election will continue," Dechant said in the latest statement. "It will grow."

The NFU, which had demanded some weeks ago that Hardin resign, says the new farm act pegs government crop supports at 1969-70 levels and that rising costs will mean farmers will lose more than $1.2 billion over the next three years.

"Forcing the farmer to pay the heavy cost of inflation may seem politically expedient," Dechant said. "But as the realization spreads through the rural business community, it will become apparent that backers of the Nixon administration farm bill were misled."

Dechant predicted that higher prices will force consumers into "a political revolt unprecedented in the nation" as a result.

Bridge Bids To Be Received On Dec. 18

CHARLESTON - The first bids on construction of the Interstate 57 highway bridge over the Mississippi River northeast of Charleston will be received Dec. 18, public works director William F. Cellini announced Monday in Springfield, Ill.

The cost of the bridge connecting Illinois and Missouri will run nearly $20 million.

The bridge is a major project in the 1970 highway program. It will be funded up to 90 per cent by federal funds. Illinois and Missouri will share the remainder of costs.

Work can begin on the structure seven miles north of Cairo as soon as contracts are awarded, Cellini said. Construction is expected to begin this winter on dry land grading, clearing and cofferdams.

Chilling Gamble On U.S. Security

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

During the past seven years the National Security Council, several presidents and their cabinets have gambled at considerable possible risk to U.S. security that this country would not be faced with a major military crisis anyplace in the world—over and above Vietnam.

Data now available indicates that so many combat-ready troops and so much in arms and equipment were requisitioned for Vietnam from American forces in the United States, Europe, the Mediterranean and other parts of the world that if such a major crisis had developed in the Japan-Korea, Taiwan (Nationalist China), Middle East or Western Europe, the United States likely would not have been able to meet the situation with the necessary forces in the time limits modern war requires.

In the bookish language of the military: "In the case of a major requirement that had priority over Southeast Asia operations, it is doubtful if forces could have been redeployed from Vietnam to a new theater rapidly enough to meet the demands of that situation."

This is a chilling observation.

This gamble has only been possible because during the worst of the Vietnam period, when demands for men, arms and equipment were the greatest, the United States had a commanding nuclear ICBM, missile submarine (Polaris) and long-range bomber superiority over the Russians.

With that massive nuclear advantage gone, in all probability we shall never again be able to take such a risky gamble as we have taken in Vietnam.

We are certainly in no position militarily to take it now.

The Vietnam war-caused deficiencies, not yet fully corrected, are serious enough to give any U.S. president pause:

- A lag in making modifications (improvements) in the operating capability of naval planes outside Southeast Asia.
- A potentially serious drawdown of some type of munitions.
- A high percentage of planes, helicopters, vehicles, and other weapons and equipment out of operation worldwide for repairs because of old age and because of a shortage of skilled repairmen and parts.
- An unacceptably high percentage of obsolete arms and equipment in the hands of combat-ready troops.

Moscow, of course, is well-aware of these American weaknesses, which have developed at the very time the Russians have assiduously built up their naval, air and ground strengths (as well as nuclear power).

This may be the reason Moscow seemingly is willing to take more risks of late—as in the Middle East.

It also is the reason for the Nixon doctrine—which aims at taking the more limited American power (more limited when compared to Russia's growing strength) and applying it, if possible, only where most effective, and above all making every attempt not to dilute that power by letting it get bogged down in "small" wars.

Under Twenty

Dear Astrid

Dear Astrid: There is a certain boy in my school I have a mad crush on. He's a grade higher and a great guy. I would like to get his attention. I have a feeling he likes girls who don't smoke or drink and I don't do either. I am not trying to sound conceited, but I'm not ugly. I've tried to get him out of my mind for a while but I haven't been able to. He lives around me but it is as if I don't exist. How can I get his attention? I'm simply going mad!----Desperate

Dear Desperate: Relax a little and ask yourself a few questions. Start with: why hasn't he noticed me before? Then, what does he do that I also enjoy doing? Finally, consider the activities and events which you commonly share in at school and in your community. The best time to break the ice is at some activity with other people around so that it is perfectly natural to start a casual conversation. A compliment is always an excellent way to begin. Dear Astrid: At two different times I have liked boys that I don't care about now. They still keep asking me out, after I thought they had gotten the hint. I try to be mean when I say "no" to them but the thought of spending a date with them makes my skin crawl, I just want to be friends. Well, now they are mad and telling lies about me to their friends so that the whole group hates me. I can't make myself like someone I don't. Are these boys acting dumb about this situation, or am I the one who's acting dumb? What did I do wrong? ----Puzzled

Dear Puzzled: Apparently you did not use enought tact when you refused dates with your "friends". If the idea of spending a date with them "makes you skin crawl", there is a good chance they sensed this feeling in your turn-down. Remember that the girl who can say "no'. and still remain friends has something called "diplomacy" going for her. As for the "lies'. the boys are spreading, why not say, "Look, men, I consider you my friends and I've been hearing some foolish things which I don't believe you could have possibly said?" Then take it from there in a heart-toheart talk.

Dear Astrid: I have been going out with a boy for the past two weeks. We see each other at school and he says he really likes me a lot. The problem is I like another one more and he knows it, but when the first boy sees me with this one, he thinks I don't like him. I don't want to tell the present one I don't want to go out any more because I don't want to hurt his feelings. Is there any way I can make it known that I still like him? ---Likes Two

Dear Likes Two: Both boys will respect you more if you level with them. Be honest with yourself and you will find your problems diminished. Perhaps you can explain your dating one boy to the other by saying something like "Maybe I.m still acting young but please understand. You're very special to me, too." Then do a little thinking about which is really the more important to you. You've heard about people who try to eat their cake and have it too.

Today In History

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 24, the 328th day of 1970. There are 37 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1963, the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy, Lee Harvey Oswald, was shot to death by Jack Ruby in Dallas, Tex. Millions of Americans witnessed the shooting on television.

On this date:

In 1867, barbed wire was patented by Joseph Glidden of De Kalb, Ill.

In 1869, the American woman Suffrage Association was formed in Cleveland, Ohio.

In 1942, the Germans were suffering heavy losses in the World War II battle of Stalingrad.

In 1958, one-third of the passenger airliners in the United States were grounded by strikes.

In 1959, 11 persons were killed as an airliner crashed through an area of small homes and apartments near Chicago's Midway Airport.

Ten years ago: The leaders of Communist parties from about 85 countries were meeting in Moscow.

Five years ago: The ruler of the oil-rich kingdom of Kuwait, Sheik Abdullah As - Salem AsSabah, died of a heart attack.

One year ago: The Apollo 12 astronauts returned to earth from man's second landing on the moon.
